Department Store Balcony Collapses; 35 Are Injured

SHOPPERS IN STORE SENT INTO PANIC

Bargain Hunters in Memphis Sale Narrowly Escape Death In Crash

RUSH TO HOSPITALS

Firemen, Police and Volunteers Work Feverishly to Extricate Victims

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Aug. 11.—(UP)—A balcony of the Rhodes Jennings department store collapsed today as scores of women bargain hunters sought out dishes in a $1 sale, causing injuries to at least 35.

Out of the dust and debris, and amid shrieks from injured and panicky shoppers, police and firemen lifted the injured, many of whom were children. Only six were reported seriously hurt at hospitals to which they were taken and none was expected to die.

It was estimated that 150 persons were on the floor when the balcony suddenly dropped with a roar which could be heard throughout the block.

Huge clouds of dust rolled from the windows and doors of the building, choking the crowd which quickly became a fighting, screaming mob. The dust cloud handicapped firemen and police who were rushed to the store from all parts of the city. An automatic sprinkler system which opened during the confusion, poured hundreds of gallons of water upon the struggling mass of people. Many thought the building was afire and it heightened the excitement of the crowds.

Firemen, police and volunteers worked for an hour extricating the injured from the wreckage. The injured were rushed to hospitals in ambulances, police patrols and private automobiles.

Police physicians established temporary relief quarters near the store and as persons were treated had them removed to hospitals. The majority of the injured were women and children. Six were

MYSTERY AIR PILOT BOMBS ON KENTUCKY DROPS MINES

War Between Union and Non-union Miners Results in Near Tragedy

PROVIDENCE, Ky., Aug. 11.—(UP)—An orange monoplane bombed five coal mines in the vicinity of Providence today with bundles of dynamite laden with iron slugs.

Only one of the bombs exploded, G. E. Palmer, manager of the Diamond mine which was one of those bombed, told the United Press. No one was killed or injured although many miners were at work.

The monoplane appeared about 6 a. m. Palmer said and after dropping its load of home made bombs, sailed back toward Illinois.

Besides the Diamond mine, the Lufton and the Rutman, all in operation were made targets of the air bomber. In addition an abandoned mine also was aimed at but the bomb did not explode.

Witnesses said the plane was an old-fashioned monoplane, painted a brilliant orange and bore the number 5088.

Falls Near Miners

One of the bombs fell within 100 yards of a crowd of miners. It exploded, showering the vicinity with iron slugs but none was struck.

Palmer said several hundred workers are employed at the four mines and had the aim of the mysterious aviator been better the death list might have been high.

The airplane swooped low over the mines as the bombs were dropped. At the Luton mine a guard opened fire on the low-flying aviator with an automatic rifle. The fire forced the flier to take altitude; one of two bombs dropped there exploded.

The mystery plane circled each mine as the bombs were dropped and then sailed off to the next one on its mission of death.

Altogether 750 miners are at work in the area, Palmer said, all non-union workers. He attributed the early morning bombing attempt to a feud between the unionists and non-unionists.

Sympathy, he said, in Providence is largely with the non-union workers.

Earlier in the morning, Palmer said, there had been four bombings in Providence, a mining town of 5000 persons; the bombs ex-

CAPISTRANO WOMAN GOES OUT OF HER HOME TOWN ON VISIT FOR FIRST TIME IN 27 YEARS

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO, Aug. 11.—Home again after her first visit outside of San Juan Capistrano in 27 years, Mrs. Valveneda Aguilar today recalled vivid memories of the "old days."

Mrs. Aguilar attended the Spanish fiesta held last week in Santa Barbara. With her she took a heavy black silk dress, ruffled and made in the style of a century ago, that was owned by her grandmother, and a number of dress accessories, including Spanish shawls, a large comb and old jewelry. She wore the quaint costume in the pageant. It was in 1903 that Mrs. Aguilar made her last trip outside of Capistrano.

Mrs. Aguilar, or as she likes to write her name, Valvaneda R. De Aguilar, is one of the few remaining residents of this vicinity whose history is linked with the early days of San Juan Capistrano. She is literally a child of the mission, having been born in the old west wing of the building, known as the barracks. A few days prior to her birth the home of her father, Jose R. Ruiz, was partly destroyed by fire, and the family took shelter at the old mission. A few days later, on the last day of February, 1876 little Valvaneda arrived.

Born In Mission

Old records, still in the mission, show her birth announcement, written by the mission father, and entered, "February, 29, 1876." From that time until the present she has lived in the shadow of the mission walls, the old adobe building which belonged to the Ruiz family being located just across the highway, on what is now the intersection of the Ortega highway and Oriental street.

Here in this quaint old adobe house, which is more than 125 years old, she has passed her life. She was married in early womanhood and received as a gift from her father, her girlhood home. Here she has raised five children, four boys and a girl, of her own, and several orphaned nephews as well. During the World war she proudly displayed a flag, carrying five stars, which waved from the top of her home, thus announcing to the world that Frank and Blas and Joe, her sons, and Emil Ruiz, a nephew and Paul Arvise, lads she had raised, were "doing their bit." This flag is now one of her most treasured possessions.

Recalls Early History

Mrs. Aguilar, who is remarkably alert for her age, recalls many interesting stories of early Capis-

O'BRINE AND JACKSON UP 512 HOURS

St. Louis Birdmen Drop Note This Morning Saying 1000 Hours Object

TWO DAYS TO FLY

Former Title Holders Will Break Record on Wednesday at 9:53 a. m.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 11.—(UP)—The goal of the St. Louis endurance fliers, Dale Jackson and Forest O'Brine is 1,000 hours in the air, they messaged today as they flew the monoplane Greater St. Louis past the 512 hours mark, and within two days of the Hunter Brothers record of 553 hours.

In a radio message fromt the plane, O'Brine said, "It looks like we might stay up 1,000 hours. We don't know when we're coming down. It may be next week or it may be next month."

At 3:11 p. m. they had been aloft 512 hours.

The two fliers, whose sense of humor is still functioning as well as their Curtiss Challenger motor, sent down instructions for the usual 70 gallons of gas and nine of oil on the 112th refueling contact. O'Brine sang the chorus of "Singing in the Bathtub" to those below until cut off by his companion.

Already Lambert field has taken on a carnival sprit. Cold drink and hot dog stands are springing up and hundreds of persons remain at the field nightly to watch the flight.

Newspapermen and radio stations already have taken up their vigil.

The fliers will establish a new record at 9:53 A. M., C. S. T., Wednesday, if they still are aloft.

SEA GULL WRECKS PLANE PROPELLOR

LONG BEACH, Calif., Aug. 11.—(UP)— Clyde Stultz, student aviator, and Arthur Drake, his instructor, today recounted how they narrowly escaped death in a mid-air collision with a sea gull.

The gull flew headon into the propellor, smashing the whirling blades to splinters, they said. Stultz brought the plane down on a crowded boulevard, skillfully avoiding a number of automobiles and pedestrians, but could not keep it from smashing into a telephone pole. Both were unhurt.

HAWKS POSTPONES L. A.-N. Y. FLIGHT

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 11.—(UP)—The threat of bad weather and not a court order today caused Capt. Frank M. Hawks, transcontinental record holder, to postpone indefinitely a return speed flight to New York.

Hawks set an east-west record of 14 hours 50 minutes 43 seconds on a flight to Los Angeles last week and had planned to take off this morning for New York in an attempt to break the mark for this trip of 14 hours 45 minutes 23 seconds held by Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh.

Hawks said he will start the flight as soon as the weather clears. He will make the same refueling stops as on the east-west journey including Albuquerque, Wichita, Indianapolis and Columbus.

Says France And Italy To Decide Navy Limitations

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., Aug. 11.—(UP) — Italy and France eventually will determine world naval limitations under the London naval treaty, D. W. Wainhouse, assistant director of research of the Council of Foreign Relations, told the Institute of Politics today.

Wainhouse said it now appeared that naval limitation will not be accomplished by the treaty.

France is demanding a security she never sought when the German navy was less than two days' distance from her ports, he said. Pointing out that prior to the World War France concentrated her entire fleet in the Mediterranean. Now France demands not only a navy equal to that of Italy, but also large enough for defense of her Atlantic coast.

Two Die In Fight Between Officers And Rum Runners

LA FERIA, Tex., Aug. 11.—(UP) A battle between border patrol, customs and Hidalgo county officers and an alleged group of rum runners at Hargill near here had taken two lives and caused severe injuries to a third person.

The dead were: Customs Inspector Bert Ellison, 28, and Margarite Rodriguez, 25. Rodriguez' brother, Victor, was wounded severely.

KENTUCKY CROPS DAMAGED BY STORM

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 11.—(UP)—Northern Kentucky bore the scars today of a quarter million dollars storm which leveled crops and buildings between here and Lexington and resulted in injuries to at least six persons.

An 80-mile wind, accompanied by severe electrical disturbances, uprooted trees, tore the roofs off houses, disrupted communications, but at the same time did some good in that it broke a serious heat wave of many weeks' duration.

All the known injured were residents of Louisville who were struck by flying debris. It was feared other casualties would be reported when communications were resumed with several small towns.

PASTOR KILLED

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 11.—Funeral services for the Rev. Chauncey J. Hawkins, former San Francisco and Seattle Congregationalist pastor, who was killed Saturday in an auto wreck near Visalia, will be held here tomorrow afternoon. Dr. Hawkins met almost instant death when the automobile in which he was riding with his two sons plunged over an embankment on the Badger-Orosi highway.

WISCONSIN FIGHTS FIVE FOREST FIRES

ASHLAND, Wis., Aug. 11—(UP)—Five forest fires were being fought today in Wisconsin timberlines.

In the Moquah National forest, 17 miles west of here, 1500 acres of small trees and slashings were burned over by flames that continued to spread despite the battle put up by rangers and a crew of 150 volunteers.

Other fires burned in timbered areas near Cayuga in Ashland county, at Odanah in the Bad River reservation, near Drummond in Bayfield county and in the vicinity of Mellen.

The fire near Drummond seriously menaced summer cottages while advancing flames in northeastern Wisconsin moved toward a million feet of decked hemlock logs in its path.

COMPLAINT IS FILED AGAINST COAL CONCERNS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—(UP)—Charges of unfair methods of competition in interstate commerce in violation of the federal trade commission act were brought today by the federal trade commission against the local coal dealers' association, the Utah Coal Producers' association, and the Retail Fuel Dealers' association of Utah.

The commission issued a complaint charging the defendants with entering into a "conspiracy to restrain, restrict and suppress competition in the sale and distribution of coal in interstate commerce" by refusing to recognize other than its own members as retail coal dealers and by refusing to transport or sell coal to other than those members.

The commission also charged the three associations with entering into an agreement whereby their recognized retailers would have "the exclusive business" of selling coal to "all domestic consumers, all state, county and municipalities, and schools where truck or wagon service is required and to the employees of industrial concerns."

The effort of these agreements, the commission declared, "was to limit and allot the sale of coal in interstate commerce" to the members of the three associations in restraint of trade.

The commission's charges affect 311 members of the three associations doing business in Idaho, Montana, Oregon Washington and Utah.

A complaint of unfair trade practices was made privately to the defendants two months ago it was learned but no corrective measures were taken and the charges made public today cite the three defendants to show cause why a "cease and desist order" should not be issued. If a cease and desist order is issued and the associations and their members fail to heed it the charges will be filed in court by the commission.

Calvin Coolidge Says

By CALVIN COOLIDGE

Former President of the United States

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Aug. 11.—Good health is one of our chief national assets. Yet, in site of all the progress that has been made in the science of hygiene, the yearly losses in this country from the ravages of disease run into many hundreds of millions of dollars.

The discouraging feature of the situation is that much of this is needless. With the present knowledge of medicine, surgery and dentistry, and the possibilities of preventive measures, oftentimes illness is only personal carelessness.

People give altogether too little attention to their health. They neglect to get sufficient fresh air and exercise. They are not careful enough of their diet. They overstrain their physical and nervous systems with disastrous results. Because illness makes us a liability to ourselves, our family and our community, we all have a personal obligation to keep well. To neglect the health is one of the most wasteful things a person can do. It is a violation of a moral duty. While both state and national agencies are alert to preserve health, the real success of all their efforts lies in the vigilance of the individual. If we would all think and try to live healthful lives we would greatly increase the power of the nation.

HOOVER TAKES UP RELIEF FOR DROUGHT AREA

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—(UP)—Unemployment and disease are complicating a situation already made critical by the drought, President Hoover was informed today as he pressed forward with his organization of relief work for the most seriously affected areas.

John Barton Payne, chairman of the American Red Cross, gave Mr. Hoover a report collected from Red Cross agencies in 18 states. The need of assistance was shown, he said, by unemployment among farm hands in some localities and an unusually large number of cases of typhoid and pellegra. In some places actual starvation conditions were threatened, he said.

The president spent a busy day after a week-end in Virginia. In addition to seeing callers who reported upon drought conditions and helped with relief plans, Mr. Hoover prepared for the meeting of governors or their representatives from 12 drought-stricken states Thursday.

Alfred P. Thom, general counsel of the Association of American Railway executives, informed Mr. Hoover that railroads while ready to co-operate, desired not to assist profiteering in livestock feed.

Secretary of Agriculture Hyde gave the president the latest information regarding conditions.

Mr. Hoover promised callers he would use every possible government agency to meet the situation and told them he would check their reports with those collected by the agriculture department.

The Red Cross report indicated conditions were most severe in Virginia, Kentucky and Arkansas.

The Red Cross report from Alabama estimated the state cotton crop at 62 per cent normal and said typhoid cases are numerous.

INDIANS AID HUNT FOR DESERT BANDITS

NEEDLES, Calif., Aug. 11.—(UP)—Deputy sheriffs, Indians and an airplane continued a search in the desert today for three bandits who waylaid two Hollywood importers and robbed them of $55,000 in silks and tapestries.

Thomas Ashrawy a Syrian, and Soby Hallas, his companion, said they were taking the cargo to New York in a specially built automobile. Twenty miles from Needles the three men halted them with revolvers and took the cargo and $350 cash, they reported.

Authorities saw a possible connection with the robbery in a fire at a Needles hangar, in which one of the planes used in the manhunt was burned.

"ALFALFA BILL" MURRAY IN OKLAHOMA FINALS TUESDAY

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 11—(UP)—Bill Murray trekked into the torrid heat of Tishomingo today, removed his soiled campaign shirt, dipped his mustache into a pitcher of ice water and cooly declared he had rested his case as "a candidate for impeachment."

Murray is the man mentioned by most informants, including himself, to be Oklahoma's next governor. Oklahoma's hottest campaign since the roaring nineties will be climaxed Tuesday in a final primary election.

Tishomingo is the territorial town where Bill settled down in a house with a dirt floor, took himself an Indian wife and Indian land, read and wrote books and emerged "the sage" of Oklahoma politics.

He wrote the state constitution, sat in congress and more recently adventured five years as an American colonist in Bolivia. Today he was slated to win Tuesday over Frank Buttram, wealthy oil man and philanthropist. This would make Murray the Democratic nominee for governor, an attainment usually equivalent to election.

Murray said attempts were already on foot to impeach him. Even as far back as January 8, when he announced his platform "to jar the political trust loose from control of the state," Bill took a long sight down the barrel of his campaign gun and announced "be it so—then I am a candidate for impeachment."

Murray, known as "Alfalfa Bill," is poison ivy to his critics. His oratory against "high binders and flunkies," his platform for tax revision and legislation for "the great middle class," and his rustic appeal sent him into the run-off primary with a 70,000 vote lead over Buttram. It also brought the impeachment threat.

"But I'll impeach my impeachers," Murray said.

"If the legislature tries to impeach me, it will be like a bunch of jackrabbits trying to pull a wildcat from a tree."

ties varies from one-third to one-half while the corn loss south of Springfield was estimated between 50 and 75 per cent and other crops 50 per cent.

Heavy rains on August 6 aided the situation in Iowa where the corn loss was estimated 20 to 40 per cent.

In eastern Kansas conditions were described as serious with the prediction that corn will be 60 per cent normal if rains come within the next few days.

The Kentucky water shortage was described as "alarming."

Total failure of the old corn crop was reported from Mississippi. Pellagra, typhoid and employment conditions there were reported abnormal.

Conditions also were said to be generally serious in southern Missouri although health conditions are not affected. The same health outlook was reported by Montana where it was stated, however, that 50 per cent or more of the crops are destroyed. Half normal crops were reported by South Dakota.

GET 155 BOTTLES OF BEER IN RAIDS

One hundred and fifty-five bottles of beer were confiscated by officers in two raids in El Modena and Orange over the week end.

E. Ruiz, 40, of El Modena, was arrested on a charge of possession, when Constable George Bartley, Deputy Sheriff Harry Carter and Robert Sandon, investigator for the district attorney's office, raided his place Saturday night. One hundred bottles of beer and twelve pints of whiskey were found in a shed in the rear of his home, officers said.

Ruiz was fined $300 when he appeared before Judge G. W. Ingle in Orange this morning. He paid the fine.

Mrs. Santiago Suda, a cafe proprietor in Sonoratown, Orange, was arrested by Officers Joe Johnson and A. H. Westerman at 2:30 o'clock Sunday morning on a charge of possession. Fifty-five bottles of beer were found in a wood pile at the rear of the cafe, officers said.

Santa Ana Baby Is Paralysis Patient

Alene Lorene Howell, six-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Howell, of 1114 Oak street, Santa Ana, is another victim of infantile paralysis, according to a report at the health department today.

Partial paralysis of the leg and vomiting were the symptoms that were first noticed. It is not known how the baby became infected. There are seven in the family, including four children besides Alice. They will be quarantined until further notice by the health authorities.

trano life. Most vivid of these is concerned with the time when malefactors from Los Angeles known as "manilas," under the leadership of the one-eyed bandit, Chino Varelas, raided the town, striking terror to its peaceful inhabitants. Then it was that the heavy wooden shutters which hang at the tiny slit-like windows of Aguilar home, were closed, and the wooden door barred, and little Valvaneda, with other members of her family, hid themselves beneath feather beds, bedding and piles of clothing.

During this raid Varelas demanded shelter at the mission, but Don Marcus Forster, at that time owner of the property, who had barracaded himself and a few faithful friends within the section now used as the curio shop, refused to open the doors, and the outlaw turned his attention to the store, which was conducted by Michael Kroszenski, a Russian Pole, in the adobe building now owned by Don Juan Aguilar, second son of Mrs. Aguilar. Here he and his band of outlaws established themselves, and proceeded to raid the town.

Man Shot Down

In the rear of this building George Flughardt conducted a small trading post, and to him came Chola Martina, belle of Capistrano, with a demand that he open his doors, locked and barred against the outlaws. Chola Martina had gotten into some sort of a difficulty, and had borrowed money from Flughardt, giving as security a beautiful shawl. This shawl she now wanted, perhaps to dazzle the eyes of the bandits, and she came with money in her hand to redeem it. The trader at first refused to open his door, but at length yielded to the woman's demand, and appeared with the shawl. As she received it from his hands, Chino Varelas, who was standing nearby, shot the man in cold blood.

The killing of Flugharat was the signal for a general outbreak on the part of the outlaws, and the natives fled for their lives. The store of Kroszenski was broken into and goods scattered all over the street. Kroszenski escaped death by running across the street to the tavern, owned by Tomas Burrill. At the entrance stood a large deep bread basket, and the panic stricken merchant, realizing the outlaws were close behind him, turned the basket over, and hid beneath.

This raid stands out vividly in the memory of Mrs. Aguilar, and in the old cedar chests which stand against the walls of her home are several articles which were picked out of the street, from things taken by the outlaws from the Kroszenski store.

Mrs. Aguilar clings to the ways of her youth. Recently her son, Don Juan, now one of the guides at the mission, installed lights and gas in the old Aguilar home, but his mother refused to have them placed in her room, saying she preferred the candle and wood stove she had always used.

BANDIT TRIO GETS $16 AT GAS STATION

Three unmasked bandits, one described as short and the other two tall, late Saturday night, held up and robbed the service station operated by Clayton Wilson, 22, located at Seventeenth street and Clinton avenue, near Berrydale avenue, according to a report made to the sheriff's office.

The three men drove up to the station in a big black sedan, Wilson reported, and the shorter one got out of the car, and producing a pistol, ordered all the money in the place. When Wilson hesitated, he was struck over the head with the pistol and knocked down.

The "short" bandit then took the cash register, together with a slot machine, and after putting them both in the back seat of the car, drove away.

The cash register contained $16 in cash, it was reported.

PLANS EXPEDITION

PEIPING, Aug. 11.—Not content with his expedition into the Gobi desert a few years ago, Roy Chapman Andrews is planning another into the arid wastes in which he believes he can establish definitely the cradle of the human race. His latest expedition will concentrate on finding traces of the ancestors of the "Peking Woman."

Suffers Knife Wounds In Liquor Brawl

Following what officers termed as a drunken brawl, one man today was in the county hospital suffering from a wound in the left hip, and another, charged with assault with a deadly weapon, was in the county jail.

The brawl took place at the Mexican settlement of La Jolla at 5 o'clock this morning. Joe Guerra was stabbed in the fight, he reported to the Anaheim police, who took him to the county hospital.

Deputy Sheriff's Steward and Buckles arrested Porfirio Rico, 42, several hours later and are holding him as Guerra's attacker.

TURNER FACING JURY ON BOOZE CHARGE TODAY

The trial of John E. Turner, Fullerton man, charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating liquor, got under way before a jury today in the court of Judge James L. Allen. Turner it was charged in the complaint, was driving a motor car on the Santa Ana canyon road July 20 while intoxicated. Witnesses today included Dr. R. A. Cushman, State Highway Patrolman George Stinson and Deputy Sheriff Harry Carter.

Members of the jury who will weigh the evidence introduced and determine the prisoner's guilt or innocence are Mrs. Alice Stephens, Mrs. Cecil P. Bonebrake, H. G. Moberly, Mrs. Katherine Manz, Carrie A. Love, Frank McLaughlin, Robert M. Charles, Henry Marquart, Austin Cody, B. F. McIndo, John Meurs and J. G. Mitchell.

ploded harmlessly, apparently having been placed so that no one would be injured or any property damaged.

Climaxes Trouble

The bombing this morning climaxed a series of troublesome incidents, Palmer said. Guards at the Diamond mine have been fired on. A house was burned mysteriously on the Diamond property.

Palmer said he believed the bombing and other trouble was sponsored by individuals rather than by any organization.

A. L. Donan, general manager of the Luton mine, also laid the blame on disgruntled individuals who are not working.

The miners continued their work after the bombings.

Authorities who hastened to the mines when the bombings were reported, said they had obtained the name of the store at which the dynamite was brought. They refused to reveal the name of the store or the city in which it had been bought.

Reports that the airplane had come from Marion, Ill., in the heart of the mining district of that state, were not confirmed although the possibility was discussed freely by miners, officials and authorities.

CANDIDATE FOR SHERIFF IS IN LOCAL BASTILE

J. W. McCardia, one of the seven candidates for the office of sheriff, was arrested at noon today by Deputy Sheriffs F. W. Howard and Jess Buckles, and this afternoon was in the county jail, on a charge of stealing water.

Complaint against McCardia was issued by the district attorney's office Saturday morning, but the warrant for his arrest was not served until this morning.

According to the complaint in the case, which has been filed in Judge Chris Pann's court at Huntington Beach, McCardia is charged with tapping a water company's line and stealing water from it. He is said to have used the water for irrigation purposes.

McCardia is a resident of 696 Buaro road, Santa Ana, according to the address he gave when he was booked at the county jail by Deputy Jailer William Bates.

The Buaro road district is just outside the city limits of Santa Ana and is in the eastern section of the Huntington Beach township. For that reason, it was necessary to file the complaint in Huntington Beach, it was said.

McCardia, who has been seen here on the streets for the past several days, driving a big car, with numerous McCardia signs on it, soliciting votes, probably will be taken to Huntington Beach this afternoon for a hearing.

thought to be seriously injured. None was expected to die.

The store had advertised the sale of 32-pieces of dish ware for $1, the sale to open at 9 a. m. Long before clerks were on the balcony it had become crowded. The crash occurred a few minutes after the store opened.

"It was awful," said Fred Aeschliman jr., newspaper employe who was entering the building when the balcony fell. "A cloud of dust filled the store. Women and children everywhere were screaming."

Stories of the courage of employes were countless.

One customer told of seeing a woman clerk seize a baby from the hands of its mother when the crash occurred and leap clear of the debris. Neither the clerk nor the child was injured.

Cause of the crash was not known although an inquiry was immediately launched by fire department officials and Commissioner Cliff Davis, public safety commissioner.

OPEN REVIVAL SERVICES AT LOCAL CHURCH

The Rev. U. E. Harding, pastor of the Church of the Nazarene, spoke Sunday evening on "A Good Mother-in-law," taking his text from Ruth 1:16. The minister made his address of the evening to the young people. The service marked the opening of a mid-summer revival, under the auspices of the Young People's society of the church, with services scheduled each evening during the week.

"When I speak of good mothers-in-law," he said, "some of you may feel like the colored man of the south, the first time he saw a giraffe. After looking at it steadfastly for a long time he exclaimed, 'There ain't no such animal.' In many cases good daughters-in-law or good sons-in-law have good mothers-in-law, and you can let that soak in.

"Naomi was a good mother-in-law and she had two fine daughters-in-law. These girls, too, were not of the Jewish religion, they were Moabites who had their own gods. This mother must have been a wonderful mother to win them as she did. Some parents are driving their in-laws to be outlaws.

"Ruth, the heroine of the book and of my text, was made a real convert to her mother-in-law's religion. She could not be turned back and she had determination, she had what a young man or a young woman has to have today if he or she will go with God. She respected her dead husband and clung to her widowed mother-in-law, against great odds and customs of that day. We can get a long needed lesson from her today in this respect.

"Her respect to the dead, her kindness and loyalty to the widow was rewarded. She wedded the rich and came in line with a family that later was honored with the Christ Child. If we boast of our blue blood, our kings and presidents, she had more. Young people you can't go wrong in respecting gray hairs and being true to your convictions.

"Orpha, the other girl, started well, but like the family she represented and like Lot's wife, she looked back and went back, and we hear no more of her. She went back from opportunities as good perhaps for her as for her sister-in-law, Ruth, but she went back to the gods of the plain. She made a wrong choice, but she had a great chance."

TWO MEN INJURED IN CRASH TODAY

CITY COUNCILS TO CONFER ON P. E. REMOVAL

Prepared to hold out for their declaration that the Pacific Electric tracks to Orange must be torn up if the service is discontinued, members of the Santa Ana city council will confer with the Orange city council and a special representative of the Pacific Electric railway at the regular meeting of the Santa Ana council in the city hall at 6:30 p. m.

At a meeting last week in Orange, the Orange city council told the local councilmen that Orange wanted the tracks for freight service at night but was willing to have the stages take charge of the passenger service. The Pacific Electric was granted permission to discontinue the street car service but it was stipulated that the city councils of Orange and Santa Ana must agree to the discontinuance.

The Santa Ana council tonight will award the contract for the paving and widening of East First street.

Final action will be taken on the application of Dr. N. D. Cash of Santa Ana, for permission to build a $4500 dog and cat hospital at 1614 South Main street and the request of Ralph A. Dunn, of North Hollywood, for permission to build a hospital at 1514 South Main street.

Regarding the proposed ordinance requiring barbers to open and close at specified hours, City Attorney Charles D. Swanner stated today that he was not sure just what he would present to the council. At the meeting last week, the hours from 8 a. m. to 6 p. m. were put forward, but since that time many barbers have asked for an opening hour of 7:30 a. m.

REVEALS PLANS FOR DINNER TO 'BILL' MURPHY

Jack Fisher chapter Disabled American Veterans of the World war, will tender to their comrade and past commander, William J. Murphy, a dinner and get-together meeting at their regular meeting to be held in the Legion hall, Wednesday at 7:00 p. m.

Murphy has just returned from the East where he has served for the past year as national commander of the D. A. V., with headquarters in Cincinnati. Through his efforts, this organization has increased its national membership, and has formed and installed more chapters over the United States than it ever before has experienced.

Murphy has been an outstanding figure in veterans' work for several years. He was the first commander of the local chapter of the D. A. V.

This meeting Wednesday night is a token of appreciation for Murphy's efforts and accomplishments, from the local chapter. A feature of the meeting will be the presentation to Murphy of the pen used by President Hoover in signing the recent veterans pension bill. The presentation will be made by Congressman Phil Swing, at the personal request of the President Hoover. Many organizations tried to obtain possession of this pen, and even have tried to purchase it, but President Hoover has expressed his desire that it go to Bill Murphy and Orange county.

The entire program Wednesday night will be broadcast over KREG, and many notables from Orange county, as well as other parts of the state, have been invited, and acknowledgements have been coming in from all over Southern California.

Boy, 9, Starts Six Fires In Home City

DUNCAN, Okla., Aug. 11.—(UP)—Eldris Taylor, 9 years old, and red-headed, was having a "swell" time in jail here today after having gratified his ambitions to "set fire to the whole blamed town."

Eldris was arrested Saturday night while "enjoying" a $75,000 fire in a lumber yard. Previously the boy had started five other fires, the first being in his parents' home.

Because of his youth, officials were uncertain what action to take. His brother is in an adjoining cell on a robbery charge.

SOCIETY MARATHON PASSES 394 HOURS

Interspersed with the marathon dancing were tap dances, songs, grand marches, character acts and other varied forms of entertainment. A large orchestra provided music for the marathon dancers as well as the spectators during the rest perid, when the floor was filled to capacity.

The endurance flagpole sitter is still on his lofty perch, determined to outlast the dancers.

YACHTING NEWS

BY STUART H. LUCAS

The first of the Inter-city annual series for star boats, as conducted by the Newport Harbor Star Boat fleet, was sailed Saturday afternoon over the triangular course off Balboa pier. One of the old time favorite skippers, Hook Beardslee, won first place over Walton Hubbard by two seconds after a hair raising finish which included a luffing match, and during which Merrill and Webster almost caught them.

On the same run home, Dan Murphy, Jack Keith, Billie Lyons and Preston Plumb were playing tag with each other while the Cheesewright youngster, coached by the veteran Lew Coffee, who was crewing for him, ran off to leeward and slid by them from ninth to fifth position. The finish was close, as six boats finished inside of nine seconds. But one round was sailed, as after the past week of steady racing, the boys were well content to shorten the course. The summary for the Saturday event will be found below.

As I sit here by the window overlooking the entrance of the harbor, the sad strains of Aloha come in from off the waves as it were. The gun is fired as one of the guest yachts slips out into the foreshortened horizon, and I realize that another friend of the past week's enjoyment has slipped away into the mysterious future, possibly never to be seen again.

The amplified hooked up with the phonograph at the end of the jetty and presided over by volunteer junior yachtsmen, is one of the many brain kinks that Joe Beck has introduced into the regatta program that will stand out in the memory of the visiting yachtsmen. Bidding the departing guest "God speed" by music in the Hawaiian manner is a happy relief from the sorrow of parting.

Sunday saw the completion of the inter-club series, which race was won by the Plumb boys in West Wind, who thus secured fourth place in the finals.

Hubbard, in Tempe, finished third and secured first by three-quarters of a point, over Hook Beardslee, who finished fifth today, Hook getting second. Keith made third money by finishing second today, and Webster made fifth by finishing sixth.

Jack Keith had the advantage of the start, as he hit the line hard a fraction of a second after the gun was fired, and was away to windward and had nothing to do but sail his boat. This he did to such good advantage that he continued to gain on every leg of the first round, being 43 seconds ahead of Plumb, one minute and 40 seconds ahead of Beardslee and two minutes and 53 seconds ahead of Hubbard, at the completion of the first lap. On the next beat, Keith overstood the mark on the leg toward Newport and when this mark was reached found himself a minute and 20 seconds behind Plumb and a minute and a half ahead of Hubbard, Beardslee and Lyons. Billy Lyons had made a leg off shore when half way down, and had picked up over a minute on Beardslee. He then deviled Beardslee all the way home and beat him in by 43 seconds, thus giving the race to Hubbard. It was seen early in the race that as the boats were running, all Beardslee had to do to win the series, was to beat Hubbard. He was able to keep Hubbard covered all the way around the first lap, but on the second windward leg Hubbard split tacks with him somewhere, and then Lyons, taking fourth from him, put him in for second money, three quarters of a point back of the Tempe.

SEEKS TO CANCEL FARM LAND LEASE

A complaint for cancellation of lease was filed in superior court Saturday by C. L. McComber, owner of a ten-acre tract of land at Buena Park. The plaintiff and defendants, J. E. Clinton and others, entered into the agreement on July 9, 1929, which was to last over a period of five years, the complaint said. Under the terms of the lease the defendants were to pay rental amounting to $25,000, payable at te rate of $1250 quarterly, according to the complaint.

In the suit the plaintiff claims that, according to the lease, he was to sell to the lessees all water necessary for plants and yard. The plaintiff charges that the defendants used water amounting to $22.35, which is unpaid and that the defendants have not maintained suitable fireplugs as agreed upon in the lease. Furthermore the plaintiff alleges that certain machinery was sold by the defendants which was not according to the terms of the lease contract.

The plaintiff asked that the lease be cancelled and that judgment be given for the sum of $14,754.60.

BARBER SHOP LAW CHANGE PLANNED

In view of the unexpected opposition to the proposed city ordinance making it mandatory for barber shops to open at 8 a. m. and close at 6 p. m., Charles Swanner, city attorney, will present an ordinance to the city council tonight calling for hours between 7:30 a. m. and 6 p. m., Swanner declared today.

At the last meeting of the council, it was said that nearly 95 per cent of the barbers were in favor of the 8 a. m. opening hour, but since that time many protests have been received. The barbers do not object to closing at 6 p. m., but think that it would be better for their business to open earlier.

As the rule will affect only the barbers, it is expected that the council will ratify the new ordinance to be presented by Swanner.

EDITOR REGISTER:

As I read the notice of the death of James D. Phelan I recalled the fact that once, at a time when he was running for the United States senate, I had the privilege of hearing Mr. Phelan make a good speech in our city hall, and during the time that Federal prohibition was under consideration I was one of thousands who listened to Richard Pearson Hobson in Birch park.

It seems to me that the interests of our citizens have lost rather than gained by the adoption of St. Ann's Inn as a place for political speaking.

I can hardly believe that any man intelligent enough to be a candidate for any office and desiring to be elected by the suffrage of the people would express a preference for an aristocratic minority as his audience; so I think that the responsibility for the selection of such an audience must rest with our political leaders.

Now Buron Fitts has been announced to speak tomorrow afternoon at St. Ann's Inn and I feel sure that many a poor man or woman would esteem it a privilege to be able to hear the speech of a man who has made good in public office and whose personality appeals as strongly to the imagination as does that of Mr. Fitts.

O yes, I believe that any person could hang around St. Ann's Inn in his old clothes waiting for the dinner to be over and sneak into the dining room through the back door without being kicked out—in fact I have done it myself so desirous was I to hear a political speech without needless loss of time and submission to the complication of social amenities. But who does not know that a larger place owned by the people would be more appropriate for a speech on matters of interest to every citizen?

I believe this change of custom in regard to the speaking of our political candidates to be one of several causes which have given rise to a conviction held by a large number of our citizens that our present political officers some time ago cut lose from the principle of considering the rights of all the people all the time.

TO ENLARGE SAMPLE SHOP FLOOR SPACE

Since bargains are always dear to the feminine heart, women of Santa Ana and its vicinity are reveling this week, in the remarkable values in suits, coats and dresses made available to them through the remodeling plans which Eugene Kahen is putting into execution at the Sample Shop, 418 North Sycamore street.

Kahen plans to give the women of the city one of the handsomest little specialty shops in this section of the country, and preparatory to his remodeling operations has moved his entire stock directly across the street to one of the first floor store rooms of the Ramona building. There he has arranged rack after rack of garments including the new fall styles just received, at prices that are surprising in their lowness. At the opening of the temporary store this morning, the aisles were soon crowded with eager women shoppers, intent upon taking advantage of the low prices and high qualities.

In the meantime, a staff of carpenters had taken possession of the original store, where remodeling plans include an enlargement of the floor space, moving the office to a mezzanine floor, adding new wall cases and an entirely new setting of decorated walls, lighting fixtures and carpets. The modern motif will be uppermost in all details, and when the work is completed, Kahen promised that it would please the most exacting customer.

He had his plans so perfected that the workmen have promised that the store will be ready for occupancy by next Saturday, and a gala opening is being planned, with special values set for the day on new autumn purchases. On Friday night, gowns from the Sample Shop will be modeled at a style show to be presented at the Broadway theater in connection with the special program for Greater Talkie season. A bevy of beautiful girls from Los Angeles and Hollywood, will model these costumes, all of which may be found in the Sample shop on the day of the formal opening.

King Snake Forced To Disgorge Victim

Reynolds came on the king snake just as it was swallowing a bull snake.

Then he touched the king snake with a stick and it disgorged its meal. Both snakes then crawled away in the grass.

Wee Kirk o' Heather Provides Setting For Nuptials

Many close friends from this city joined the half hundred guests privileged to witness the pretty wedding ceremony of Helen Thomson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Garstang, 617 North Ross street, and Frank T. Murphy of Salinas, son of Mrs. Esther Murphy of Alhambra, an event of wide general interest which took place at 5 'clock on Friday, August 8, in Gendale.

The Wee Kirk O' the Heather, where so many romances have seen their fulfillment in impressive nuptial ceremonies, was chosen by the young people as the setting for their wedding, at which the Rev. D. J. Kennedy of Alhambra, officiated.

An extreme simplicity prevailed and the bride made a striking appearance in a costume of black transparent velvet worn with a smart little black velvet hat, very close fitting. In accordance with the Hawaiian Islands wedding custom, she wore a lei of shell-pink carnations. This was especially appropriate, as she has been teaching in the Penahou school of Honolulu.

She is a graduate of Occidental college, while Mr. Murphy graduated from Oregon State college, where he was a member of Sigma Chi fraternity.

The young people are devoting their honeymoon travels to an automobile trip through the Big Tree country, and later will make their home in Salinas, where Mr. Murphy is a member of the teaching staff of the city schools.

Penrose-Cason Wedding Was Pretty Church Ceremony

Quietly impressive was the wedding Saturday evening at 8 o'clock of Miss Margaret Penrose, daughter of Mrs. William Penrose, 1112 West Second street, and Harry Cason of this city, a ceremony which found an attractive setting in the First United Brethren church.

The Rev. R. W. Harlow, pastor of the church, conducted the rites in the presence of about 30 close friends of the young people. Miss Penrose was very charming in a graceful gown of flowered georgette in soft autumnal colors, worn with a smart little orange felt hat. A great cluster of bride's roses and sweetpeas contributed to her attractive appearance.

Miss Ellen Penrose served her sister as honor maid and wore a silk ensemble costume in corn color with felt hat to match. Her flowers were late summer blooms in mixed hues. Lester Erickson attended Mr. Cason as best man.

Following the ceremony was a reception in the Penrose home, where close friends were privileged to inspect the many handsome wedding gifts which will find place in the new home which the young people will establish. Refreshments were served befre the departure of the new Mr. and Mrs. Cason on their honeymoon journey.

Upon their return they will make their home with the bride's mother, Mrs. Penrose, while deciding upon a permanent location.

GOVERNOR YOUNG DENOUNCES SECTIONALISM IN ADDRESS TO 20-30 CLUB DELEGATES

Denouncing sectionalism in government, Governor C. C. Young addressed 150 delegates of 20-30 clubs at the Anaheim Elks club Saturday night following a dinner at 6:30 p. m. Governor Young spoke briefly, as it was necessary for him to leave at 7 o'clock to catch a train for Sacramento.

"The governor must know the needs of the entire state, not merely those of the north or the south," Governor Young declared. "The state cannot afford to have a governor who thinks only about one section."

The dinner meeting was opened by President Jack Gledhill, who, after having the delegates introduced, turned the gavel over to Vice-president Clinton Griggs, chairman on entertainment. Griggs immediately placed the procedure in the hands of Lotus H. Loudon, president of the Anaheim Chamber of Commerce, who had been invited to act as master of ceremonies. Loudon introduced Governor Young, who, when cheers had subsided, addressed the eager audience.

In his opening remarks Governor Young reminded those present that the 20-30 club started in Sacramento only a few years ago already has become national in character. There is no limit to the possibilities of these organizations now in their infancy, and with such men interested in community and state affairs, the public is going to be much benefited, he declared.

The speaker pointed out that the population of California was less than a million and a quarter 30 years ago which is a striking contrast to that of today, and stated that it will have a population unheard of.

Referring to reapportionment, giving California six representatives in congress because of its rapid growth, Young stated that instead of 11 congressmen California will have 20.

No state can grow more rapidly than its water resources permit, Governor Young said, "We can get along without many of the commodities but growth is limited without water. Southern California has over 50 per cent of the population of the state and 20 per cent of tillable soil."

Expressing his pleasure in having something to do with the Boulder dam project, Governor Young assured his hearers that it will take considerable engineering and that it will be some 10 or 12 years before this area has any of the water. He said it is his belief that Southern California should try to see some way to preserve the underground supply which this portion of the state has and that it will take a tremendous amount of study.

Loudon spoke in grateful terms on behalf of the members of the 20-30 club, the citizens of Anaheim and of Southern California for the interest shown by the governor, after which he introduced special guests present, among whom were Leo J. Sheridan, of the Anaheim city council, William Jerome, county auditor; T. E. Stephenson, Santa Ana, author of "Caminos Viejos"; Freeman Miller, Inglewood, national president of 20-30 group, and Leo Thayer, San Diego, governor of 20-30 clubs of District 5. Mrs. Thayer, his bride, also was introduced.

Among the delegates present were three candidates for district governor, namely, Vern Pittinger, Ontario; Ralph Sage, Upland, and Robert B. Saucke, Riverside. Receiving special mention was Leland Findley, Santa Ana, sponsor of the Anaheim club.

At the business session in the afternoon the time was given over largely to plans for the annual convention to be held in San Jose August 29 to September 1 when approximately 85 from District 5 will attend. The entire top floor of the St. Claire hotel has been reserved for this group.

District 5, which includes 15 clubs all south of Barstow, voted unanimously to support San Diego for the 1931 convention.

The Triolian trio, of Hollywood, furnished music. Other special entertainment was furnished by a trio composed of the little Misses Doris Spencer, Lois Barton and Ada Mae Rowe, pupils of the Hollywood School of Dancing. Doris Spencer is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Spencer, of this city.

Representatives were present from Santa Ana, Fullerton, San Diego, Upland, Ontario, Victorville, Barstow, San Bernardino, Riverside and National City.

The convention activities were concluded with a dance at the Elks' clubhouse.

COMPLETE REDWOOD H'WAY

An important link in the Redwood highway was completed when the new alignment, just north of San Rafael, was thrown open to traffic, reports the Naitonal Automobile club.

Although only 1.8 miles in length, this section of highway saves more than a third of a mile in distance over the previous alignment. Starting at the northerly limits of San Rafael, the new road connects at Gallinas creek with the recently constructed pavement to Ignacio.

ITALIAN 'BUYS' PRETTY PARIS GIRL FOR $30

PARIS, Aug. 11.—(INS)—"She's a beautiful girl and I like her lots," said Roberto Saccolini, an Italian visiting Paris for the first time.

Roberto said this to a young man whom he had met during his wanderings in Montmartre. The young man in question was accompanied by a young woman companion apparently about 18.

"That's funny you should say that," was the reply Roberto received, "because I was just thinking of parting company with her. Her name is Marie, she is sweet and gentle and knows how to be nice. I'll sell her to you."

"What?" said the astonished Italian. "You'll sell her to me? Do you mean that?"

"I sure do," came from his companion of the evening.

Then Roberto turned to Marie: "What do you think about this?" he asked doubtfully.

"It's okay with me. You're not so bad—and anyway I've suspected for a long time that Al was tired of me."

"Then it's a go," said Roberto to "Al." "How much do you want for her?"

"Would 750 francs be too much?" asked Al.

This makes $30.

"No," responded Roberto, "here's your money" and he counted out the francs on the table.

"Fine," said Al, sweeping up the money. "Now I'll drop into the hotel next door and get my valise and leave the room for you and Marie. Better come along Marie—up to the room and say goodbye to little Al. No objections, stranger?"

"None at all," said Roberto. "I'll wait here."

That is all there is to the story. Roberto is still waiting, or at least he would have been if the cafe keeper has not told him he would have to leave as the cafe was closing.

Roberto dropped into the hotel but of course there was no sign of Al or Roberto's newly purchased prize.

The police are helping Roberto to get his $30 back.

INDIFFERENCE IN DOCTRINE IS ORANGE TOPIC

ORANGE, Aug. 11.—The Rev. Walter Loretz took as the topic of his sermon at the Immanuel Lutheran church yesterday morning "The Saviour's Warning Against False Prophets" and treated the topic under the following subdivisions: "To whom the warning is issued:" "Why it is so necessary," and "How it is to be heeded." The sermon was taken from the text found in Matthew 7, 15-23.

By the way of introduction the pastor said:

Indifference

"Indifference in doctrine is a characteristic of the time in which we are living. Most people nowadays think that very little depends upon the fine distinctions of doctrine in minor points that separate the various churches. Hence, they infer that it makes little difference to which church you belong, that it matters little what you believe in detail, as long as you trust in Christ Jesus, the Savior of the world. It is frequently claimed that all the various points of difference separating the denominations are unimportant and that they do not affect the vital nature of faith. Hence the wide-spread of unionism that endeavors to bring all the various church-bodies into a visible union, without first bringing about a true union in faith and doctrine, but rather overlooking and ignoring the differences that now divide them. Yea, there are those in our days that favor an amalgamation and conglomeration of all religious cults of the world: Christian, Mohammedan, Jewish, and pagan, asserting that all these systems of religions have elements of truth in them which we cannot afford to ignore.

False Doctrine

"Is there really no essential difference between the various Christian denominations, let alone the Heathen, idolatrous cults? Does it really matter so little what doctrine in minor points we believe and confess? Is it all the same to which church we belong, and what doctrine we are taught from the pulpit? The Bible says no, and it warns us often against any and every false doctrine and against all such as preach false doctrines. Such a warning we find in the text where Christ expressly says: 'Beware of false prophets.'"

In discussion of his topic, the Rev. Mr. Loretz said in part: "First: To whom is this warning addressed? Evidently it is meant for all people, especially for the Christians. It is here made their duty to watch that no false teachers are tolerated in their midst, that their pastors preach to them the pure, unadulterated doctrine of the Word of God. They are to watch that pure doctrine is preserved among themselves, that nothing but the truth of God's holy Word is preached to them from their pulpits. And it is very evident why it must be their duty to watch for this, for it is their soul that is to be saved. It is their soul, therefore, that will be endangered, if they allow a false teacher to be their pastor, if they commit their souls to the care of a man who does not believe and teach according to God's Word in all points, but follows his own notions and opinions at times.

Away From Christ

"Secondly: False doctrines are not such harmless things as many people in our day would represent them to be. All false doctrines tend to lead us away from Christ, and thus aim their blow at the very center of our holy religion and at the eternal salvation of our souls. Not only is this the case with the false doctrine of salvation by works, which teaches man to rely, not in Christ, but in his own righteousness, and thus leads him directly to hell; nor is this the case only with the many blasphemous doctrines concerning the person of our most adorable Savior, for example, that He is not the true God, but merely a good and virtuous man whose example we are to follow and thus save ourselves, which demolishes with one stroke the very foundation of our salvation,—but every false doctrine does this, however harmless it may appear. If we go to the bottom of the various false doctrines we shall find, that they all lead us away from Christ and the Word of God, and make us to trust in ourselves for our salvation.

Must Study Bible

'Thirdly: How are we to heed the Savior's warning? To that end we must prove the doctrine according to the Scriptures. To be able to do this, however, to be able to discern right and wrong teaching, according to the Scriptures, we must study the Scriptures. We must not only read a chapter in the Bible now and then, nay we must study it, we must convince ourselves what its teachings are and must compare what is preached with this written Word of God. Thus we will always, by the grace of God, attain to a clearer and more perfect knowledge of the truth of God's Word and constantly grow in the ability to heed the Savior's warning and to beware of false phophets."

Candidates To Speak When W.C.T.U. Meets

ORANGE, Aug. 11—The W. C. T. U. will meet at the Christian church at 2:30 o'clock Tuesday. All candidates who have answered the questionnaire are invited to speak. A state director will be present to explain the action taken by the state executive board and the county official board about the candidates for governor.

FRIENDSHIP IS DISCUSSED BY DR. W. M. TIPPLE

ORANGE, Aug. 11.—Dr. W. M. Tipple, pastor of the Villa Park Community church, spoke from the subject, "The Society of Friends," at the church service yesterday. The text of the sermon was taken from John 15:15, "I Have Called You Friends." Dr. Tipple said:

"A few Sundays ago, I spoke on the theme, 'Alone.' It is true we are alone, we must live and die alone, yet we crave friendship. Jesus bestowed the honored title of friends on His followers. Have we the right to the name 'friends?' If so, how shall we live our lives as friend or foe?

Long In Friendship

"We are living in a world quivering with life and death. Everybody hungers for friendship. Emerson said, 'Every man passes his life in a search for friendship. Our chief want is somebody who shall make us do what we can. That is the service of a friend.' Love is a necessity in the life of man. We give love as well as receive love. We have a craving for a perfect friend. A human friend is the best channel to God.

"Jesus alone can trace what friendship means. No wonder the Quakers chose the name. Jesus is the true friend to man. Are we friends to man? Or are we foes to man?

"The world requires us to act and choose. Are we as interested in people—as in things? Dr. Buckman observes that the Encyclopedia Britannica devotes 146 columns to electricity and only 70 columns to ethics; 68 columns to iron and steel, only 1 1-2 columns to personality; 83 columns to reptiles, 29 columns (including illustrations) to religion; 51 columns to minute calculus, 22 to Christ. What does this all mean?

'This is not the philosophy of the man who called His disciples friends. Humanity is seeking a different philosophy of life. Man is ever seeking friends and love.

True Mission

"The Christian church provides friends and love—or at least that is its true mission. Man's relation to the universe is more than to simply drift along from dayto day like a dumb animal. Man needs to rise above the commonplace of life and ascend the heights where he canget a new vision.

'The organized church needs to arouse itself from its slumber and to see the little it is doing as the friend of man. It needs to look up and see the universe and how good God is. As a church shall we disclaim the name friends?

"Man loves to work and to play, but neither is the real philosophy of his life. The legitimate stage provides amusement, and a certain amount of art. But in the society of friends does man gain the most satisfaction. The society founded on the principles of Jesus is the only place where we may really come in touch with those spiritual forces which lift above the ordinary level of life, and inspire a new purpose, and give a new meaning to life. The need of such inspiration is just as great as food. 'A friend in need is a friend indeed.' I have seen fair weather friends — I have seen friends in the time of storm. Smiles and sunshine—tears and sorrow. True friends never waver, never falter, but are by your side through sunshine or cloud.

Always Gentle

"Friendship is the sharing of the best of mind and heart. A sharing of the best, not a sharing of the worst. The friends of Jesus were not on guard against Him. He was always gentle, yet true. He was always reassuring, yet never deceived. He craved the friendship of His followers. He told them that they were 'yoke-fellows' with Him. He told them He had made double yokes when He was a carpenter. Jesus was a Savior just because He was a friend. 'Greater love hath no man than this that a man lay down his life for a friend.' Friendship proves itself in sacrifice. And H has called us friends. The people who live about you, who walk with you, are they your friends, are you their friend? Tomorrow in your business, the trampling instinct, or the brotherly mood, which shall it be?

"Does anyone look at us, and think of us as friends? Does anyone listen to us and think of us as a friend? Does anyone watch us in business and think of us as a friend? If not, we certainly cannot be classed as friends. Oh, if only the whole of humanity might be a great society of friends.

Great Principle

"From time immemorial friendship has been a great principle with all peoples. Friendship has engaged the attention of thinkers in all ages.

"I have called you friends. Friends because He loved them. There are many kinds of love with which human beings love one anothr. Of all loves the love upon which the heart leans in the hour of trial;—The love the soul cries out for in the horror of loneliness;—The love we want to clasp our hand when we breast the salt waters of death—Is the love of a loyal, true friend."

No More Piles

HEM-ROID, the prescription of Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, is guaranteed to banish any form of Pile misery. It gives quick action even in old, stubborn cases. HEM-ROID succeeds because it heals and strengthens the affected parts and removes blood congestion in the lower bowel—the cause of piles. Only an internal medicine can do this, that's why salves and cutting fail. Schramm-Johnson and druggists everywhere sell HEM-ROID with guarantee that it cost you nothing if it doesn't end all Pile agony.—Adv.

200 ATTRACTED TO GOSPEL TENT SUNDAY NIGHT

ORANGE, Aug. 11.—Nearly 200 people greeted the Rev. Gerald D. Hargis last night in the Seventh Day Baptist Gospel tent in Orange to hear him preach the first sermon in the second week of services there. Taking as his subject, "Why I Am What I Am," Evangelist Hargis said in part, "I am what I am because I am living up to the best light that I have Scripturally, because I want to live as Jesus lived, and because time is flying by and I want to be prepared to meet my Maker."

The orchestra of the Riverside Seventh Day Baptist church under the direction of Mrs. Hargis, opened the service by rendering "Song of Love," "The Old Refrain" and "Only a Smile." During the vesper service, the Men's Glee club of the same church sang "Keep Rank," "We Are Going Home" and "Walking With Thee." Mrs. Lester Van Meter also sang an appealing solo, accompanying herself on the guitar.

The Rev Lester G. Osborn, musical director for these meetings, led the congregation in a brief study of one of Hoffman's masterpieces, "Christ and the Rich Young Man," which was thrown on the screen by stereopticon, drawing from its lessons for today. Every boy and girl present received a copy of the picture. The stereopticon was also used to present an illustrated hymn, "America the Beautiful."

Topics for the week are as follows: Tuesday, "The Cancer of the Soul," Wednesday, "Four Bugle Calls," Thursday, "One Set Purpose," Friday, "A Man I Want You to Know," Saturday, "The Soul of America."

A rousing song service under the leadership of the Rev. Mr. Osborn begins at 7:45 each evening except Monday. Every night there is special music, an illustrated hymn, and a picture study. The tent is located on North Orange street just off of Chapman avenue.

NECESSITY FOR CONVICTION IN RELIGION TOLD

ORANGE, Aug. 11.—The Rev. W. H. Galbraith, of the Bethany Baptist church, Long Beach, spoke at the sixth union Sunday evening service held in the Christian church. The choir of the Baptist church had charge of the music, giving for the prelude, "Heroic," by Faulkes, with Miss Lola Allen at the organ. A saxophone solo was given by Wayne Hoger. The offertory was given by Miss Allen. "Going Home," by Anton Dvorak, was rendered by Harold Galbraith, son of the Rev. Mr. Galbraith.

"We do not stand on our convictions, we are like a flock of geese in the air following the leader," the Rev. Mr. Galbraith said. "We hear it said today that we need trained leaders, but I say we need followers that can stand by their convictions. There are today 365 different sects false to the fundamental principles of Christianity. We are justified by faith and we have peace with God. The cross has been lost. It is a relic. It is a calamity when the Christia nchurch has lost its convictions.

'Writers say the church should be run on business principles, with an efficiency man. If the church would recognize God, He is the efficiency man. Back of all it takes the Holy fire to make it go, back of all human elements is the Holy Spirit. The church has lost its burning passion. There are lost men and women all about us. The church has lost her burning passion to show men home.

"Weep with people. Jesus went to the home of Martha and Mary and wept with them. We say, 'I would like to be of service before I go hence.' It is not what you can do but what God Almighty can do in you."

ORANGE LEAGUE MEMBERS ARE BEACH GUESTS

ORANGE, Aug. 11.—Mr. and Mrs. Charles Robinson were hosts at a meeting of members of the Epworth league of the First Methodist church at their beach cottage at Newport last night. After a delectable covered-dish supper had been served, Mr. Robinson spoke on the work being done at the Spanish institute at Gardena.

The speaker told what the school has done and what it is trying to do. A friendly spirit toward Mexico is being fostered by the institution Mr. Robinson said, and an effort is being made to raise standards of education for Mexicans, many of whom, the speaker said, formerly did not go beyond the sixth grade. Now many Mexican students complete high school and junior college work, he declared.

Numbers of young men are being trained at the institute to take their places as Christian educational leaders both in Mexico and among the Mexican people in this country. An effort is being made, it was brought out, to educate Americans to understand the Mexicans in America.

Miss Florence Riddle presided at the meeting in the place of Miss Helen Gillogly, who recently resigned her position as vice president and leader, when she left to go to Berkeley. No one has been elected to fill Miss Gillogly's place.

Those present with the hosts were the Misses Florence Riddle, Cleta Cotner, Clara Worall, Esther Ratliffe, Chloe Williamson, Minnie Christianson, Esther Scriven, Faye Bortz and Stanton Cole, Milton Cole, Ellis Hillyard, Lewis Bates, Walter Walkup and the Rev. Walter B. Cole.

Now! An Opportune Time to Furnish Your Home

Furniture and home furnishing prices have receded to the lowest level in 13 years. Not since 1917 has the household dollar been able to buy so much.

Furniture dealers, furniture manufacturers, and others who are in a position to know, are unanimous in their opinion that furniture prices have dropped to the lowest point and the next adjustment of prices will be upward — Economic barometers show no signs that prices will be lower but, on the other hand, there is strong indications that the trend will be upward very shortly.

Therefore, this is the opportune time to seize the economic advantage that decidedly favors the customer who is ready and willing to use his cash or credit for the furnishing of his home. Every article in our large stock has been marked to conform to present day low prices, and a visit here will quickly show you the wisdom of furnishing your home with quality furniture and furnishings while prices are so attractive.

CHAPTER 9

"Will you tell me, step by step, exactly what happened yesterday? Try to take it impersonally, as if it had all happened to someone else. I know it's a strain on you, but it has to be done—and we haven't a great deal of time."

"Strain? I shall have to learn to bear strain, I think. Part of it I don't understand, myself, but I'll tell you what I can. Somehow it seems very long ago—not like yesterday."

Peter found himself ardently hoping that the sense of remoteness and unreality, the effect of shock, would mercifully not wear off before Aline reached the end of her recital.

"I did not know my sister very well," she began with slow clarity. "We were both left orphans very young, and were brought up by different sets of relatives. But whenever we met, we got along well enough, and when I found that she was at loose ends for the summer, I invited her to visit me. It did not once enter my head that—that Don—" Her lips twisted in a bitter line that was less like a smile than a grimace defying the ignominy of tears.

"I was so lost in Don—and I had every reason to suppose it was the same with him. I told you I didn't take these things lightly. Perhaps his manner had been a little different lately. But if it was, I attributed it to his moods. Essentially he was towards me as he had always been—as he had come to be in these last months. Then yesterday, Marjorie told me. She told me I had been a fool not to see it.

"I didn't believe her—I couldn't. I had been so sure—so utterly sure! My disbelief made her angry—so angry that she told me—other things. She taunted me on the difference in our ages. She said that Don told her he had only been playing with me, that he had turned from me at once when she, a younger woman, came. I don't think how he could have said that—or, if he said it, still it was not true. He had not been just playing with me—not at first, not before she came, I am sure."

Slowly and painfully, picking the phrases, the low voice went on. Peter paid silent tribute to the courage which could thus lay bare its own fallen pride in the face of necessity.

"She said that he did not know how to get rid of me, when I was so wilfully blind. She even said that the blindness was only a pretense, to try to keep them apart. It was then that I told her to pack her things and go—to go at once.

"'If I do,' she said, 'Don goes with me.' She was flinging her things into her suitcase, helter skelter, while we talked.

"'But Don can't go,' I said. 'He has to stay with the ranch. Max is counting on him.' It's strange, but that is really what I thought of—that Don must stay by the ranch, for Max's sake. I didn't expect Max back for at least a couple of weeks, you see."

"'I'm going, and Don is going,' she repeated. 'But before he goes, he will tell Max the reason. He will write him that he had to leave because you wouldn't let him alone. That's the only way—and it won't leave you in any position to make trouble for us.'

"I don't know why I believed such a thing of Don—unless it was that I had never really known much of his character. That flaming mist of emotion was always between us. It had kept me from seeing him clearly—even from trying to. And that flaming mist had caught Marjorie too. I knew that she was not thinking of anyone but herself and Don—that she couldn't. Oh, how well I knew it!

"She left me standing there, and sent Julio up from the lower, garden to carry her bags down to the road, where the stage passes by. I heard him come and go. I remembered the things Don had said to me—and those other things that Marjorie had told me he said. I seemed to be hurtling down and down into some hideous abyss.

"I remember I put my hands against the wall and pushed with all my might, as if I could by main force tear it apart. It was like some rending physical pain, when you scream that you can't bear it, and yet it goes on.

"And then, gradually, something emerged. It was Max. What it would mean to Max when Don told him about us. And somehow it was all mixed up with stray thoughts about the sheep and the herders, and how Don was going to desert the ranch when Max was depending on him.

"I heard a queer rattling sound—it was the sound of my own laugh when it dawned on me how utterly insignificant the sheep were, after all.

"Then suddenly everything became clear—very cold and clear. The hot afternoon sun was blazing into the room—and I shivered. It must be destroyed—this thing that had arisen, a flaming mist, between Max and me. It must be destroyed because of Max, because of his utter steadiness and faith.

"It was the thing in myself that must be destroyed—and yet that thing was Don. For Don to tell Max would be worse than killing him, because, if Max were dead, he would never know. 'Killing him.' I remember I said that aloud. I heard it, and it was lik eanother voice in the room. I must kill the thing in the flaming mist. I must kill Don, so that Max would never be hurt—would never know.

"I took the pistol from the drawer of the table, where Max kept it, and went down the path to the lodge. I stood in the doorway and fired before I could see more than a dark blur in the shadowed room. Then I saw Don sitting at the table and I fired again. He toppled forward over the table top."

Mrs. Everett leaned back, her fingers pressed against her temples, and sighed like one who is very tired.

"But you said," Peter remined her, "that you did not shoot him twice."

Aline dragged her hands away from her face. Again, and again, and again she must life herself from that pit of uttermost weariness, and force her exhausted mind to meet the future that was he past, the past that had hurled her to this present.

"I didn't. The first shot went wild. It didn't hit anything at all."

"What what do you mean—it didn't hit anything at all?"

"Just that. It went through the open window."

"Then who did fire that other shot?"

"I don't know. And after all, I killed him, so what does it matter?"

"It matters everything in the world," Peter shouted. "If somebody else didn't kill Mortison, somebody else made a mighty good stab at it. Either one of the wounds was sufficient to cause death. For the matter of that, I don't see how you can be sure that your first bullet didn't hit him. You could hardly see into the room, you said."

"I don't know why I'm so sure. But the pistol was waving wildly in my hand, and I have a distinct impression that the shot went wild."

"I don't suppose you happened to notice where the first shell dropped?"

"No—Yes, I do! I heard the click as it dropped on a stone at my feet; then it bounced and rolled off into the grass."

Peter glanced at her keenly. Was it possible that he was lying—that she had invented the shell that dropped as she stood outside the door, on the spur of the moment? But what could be the motive in such an invention, when she had already admitted that her second shot had struck Mortison?

"I found two identical .45 shells on the floor of the room," he said meditatively. "But, by jiminy, if you're right, they may not be so identical as they look!"

"I still don't see—"

"Why, it's as plain as the nose on your face! If someone else shot Mortison after you did, the only thing for you to do is to stick to your original story and put up a defense of temporary insanity—or maybe we can work up some sort of self-defense angle. But with the jury you'll have here, it'll be a pretty tough proposition."

Aline Everett shook her head.

"No," she said. "I'm telling one big lie, and that's for Max. It's enough. I won't tell any others. I wasn't insane, and it wasn't self-defense."

"But don't you see, it all hinges on which of those shots were fired first! If one of them came from another pistol than yours, Kurtner can find it out, and can tell which shot came from your gun, even if they both look as alike as two peas. In that case it's possible that you didn't kill him at all—that he was already dead when you got there!"

"You mean—that perhaps—I didn't—do it?" The words came gasping, incredulous.

"I mean that I've got to get busy and work on that other bullet. Something tells me—"

But Aline had slumped limply and silently to the floor.

Saints Open Against Orange

COACH OLIVER PLANS PAIR OF PRACTICE TILTS

Santa Ana high school will open its 1930 football season against Orange at Poly field September 26 or 27, according to tentative arrangements that have been made by Coaches "Tex" Oliver of Santa Ana and Stewart White of Orange.

This will be the first of two practice games for the Saints.

The second "tuneup" has not been scheduled but Oliver is hopeful of getting together October 4 with some strong prep eleven, perhaps from Los Angeles, which will give his charges a stern workout. Monrovia was the Saint's second opponent last fall.

Santa Ana has the toughest schedule in its history this season and if Oliver can engineer his disciples through it and into first place he will have accomplished something no other coach ever has done here—the winning of two major championships in the same year. Oliver's track team won both the Southern California and State titles this spring.

The Saints open against Woodrow Wilson of Long Beach, a new member of the stronger-than-ever Coast Preparatory league. The Wilson game is to be played at Long Beach October 11.

Then in rapid Saturday succession follow these opponents: Compton, Pasadena, San Diego, Glendale, Long Beach Poly and Fullerton.

The Fullerton scrimmage, renewing athletic relations between these ancient football rivals, is scheduled for the Santa Ana gridiron Thanksgiving Day.

Santa Ana junior college's football schedule will be virtually the reverse of the high school's. The Dons will play the same cities but at opposite places. When the Saints are home the Dons will be away and when the Dons are home the Saints will travel.

Elect Officers At Skeet Club Dinner Tonight

Officers for the coming year will be elected at a dinner meeting of the Santa Ana Skeet club at the Santa Ana cafe tonight. Members will assemble at 7 o'clock.

Vernon Barnhill, Walter Berry and Cal Gregg all tied for first place in yesterday's shoot. They broke 22 birds. Herb Carter, Mel Morgan, Arnold Peek and Arthur Steward hit 21. Joe Teel had 17, Les Hare and Theo. Reuter 15, and Warren Barnhill 6.

SIX GAMES ON CITY LEAGUE'S SCHEDULE HERE

This will be one of the most important weeks of Santa Ana's night baseball season.

While the Stars are meeting Whittier here Tuesday and Long Beach at Long Beach Friday, City league pastimers will be anything but idle.

The race for the second half championship of the inter-mural circuit is proving almost as hot as that for the first half which found two teams tying for the streamer.

At present the Pacific Telephone company is out in front, having scored four straight victories, but the Pole-Climbers have a tough row ahead of them with the American Legion, Peek's market, Eastern Oil company and the Richfield Oilers on their schedule in almost successive weeks. These four teams are tied for second place with three victories as against one defeat.

Three double-headers are scheduled for City leaguers this week.

Tonight at 6:45, the Dennis Printers play the Auto Club of Orange County. When they are through the Excelsior creamery takes on the Orange County Builders' exchange.

The Courthouse and the Richfield Oilers mingle in the curtain-raiser Wednesday. The American Legion and the Pacific Telephone company clash in one of the most important games of the season at 8:15.

Peek's market goes against the Eastern Oilers at 6:45 Thursday night. The Dennis Printers and the Builders' exchange clash in the second game of their two-out-of-three first half playoff in the nightcap Thursday.

YANK PLAYERS DOUBT BOROTRA TO QUIT TENNIS

BY DAVIS J. WALSH
(I.N.S. Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—Members of the Davis cup tennis team, who have been gamely enduring life at Southampton, profess themselves to be amused today by the announcement that Jean Borotra will play no more tennis on behalf of France and that the shock is almost too much for a saddened nation to bear.

This must be very comical, because a tennis player is all to seldom amused. He has to stand out there in the fresh air all afternoon and naturally is greatly depressed about everything.

The Davis cup squad also seems to be unimpressed with Rene Lacoste's declaration of doubt as to his ability to return to international tennis next year. The young man, it seems, is now so ill that all he can do is play four or five sets of tennis every day.

Stronger Than Ever

Anyhow, they say that Borotra will cease to appear in tennis matches at such time as they drive up in a hearse and bear him tenderly away. There are said to be several reasons for this and that neither of them is at all unimportant.

The implied result of these observations would seem to be that France will be stronger next year at a time when America may be at its weakest. They will have Cochet and Lacoste, respectively, the one-two ranking stars of world tennis, and Borotra, if they deem that he is needed. We will have what we lost with this year, minus Mr. William T. Tilden. There is alleged to be only one essential difference between the withdrawals of Borotaa and Mr. Will Tilden. The latter will not be asked to change his mind.

At that, he is the only American to win a singles match in the challenge round since France took the cup in 1927, so the inference is rather significant. It seems that our available singles players must bet very much better or that France's must get very much worse. As to that even the returning Americans admit that France can win the cup next year with Cochet and a couple of poor relations. They say he is greater now than ever before and that his defeat by Wilmer Allison at Wimbledon was due to the fact that he thought he couldn't lose and, then when it was too late, found he couldn't win.

U. S. Must Plan Anew

Frankly, American's failure this year with Lacoste out of action represents the end of plans for immediate results and the beginning of a tedious reconstruction period, looking toward the future for its hope. Our best man, Lott, seems to be just good enough to lose in the challenge round by close scores. Van Ryn and Allison were the world's ranking doubles team when it left Wimbledon but Allison since hasn't even been able to hit one as far as the net. The only thing certain about Doeg and Mangin, reserve singles players, is that they are extremely uncertain.

Maybe the immediate future rests with 18-year-olds like Sidney B. Wood and Ellsworth Vines. A lot of people seem to think so.

Vines, for instance, beat Frank Hunter twice in one week and looked the part of quite a man, Woods then beat Vines in straight sets and last week came from behind to win from Lott, Frank Shields, winner over Tilden, and Allison. It takes a good man to do that.

However, only victories in the national championship really count and, besides, we don't need men who are merely good.

HE'S VERSATILE

Do you know this young man? He has been a tennis star of high ranking this summer. This fall his name will be in bold headlines because of his sensational football feats for Harvard. Sure, he is Barry Wood jr., the forward passing, quarterbacking youth who cut such fancy capers on eastern gridirons a year ago.

HERNANDEZ IN HEADLINE BOUT HERE THURSDAY

Rewarded for many months of able service in the ranks, Urban Hernandez, clever young lightweight from Placentia, is promoted into the main event class this week by Promoter-Matchmaker H. T. Foust of the Orange County Athletic club.

The Delhi impresario promised Hernandez a main event if he made a good showing against the tough Battling Ortega two weeks ago, and Foust made good when Hernandez stopped Ortega after being all but knocked out himself in the very first round.

Hernandez has been an honest, conscientious performer at Delhi for two years. Starting in curtain-raisers, he slowly but surely improved until he moved from spot to spot and finally into the semi-windups a few weeks ago.

Many shrewd boxing men believe Hernandez is even a better prospect that "Wild Man" Macias who graduated from the ranks into top spots several months ago and instantly made good with a vengeance.

Jimmy Fox, a 21-year-old lightweight from Los Angeles, will met Hernandez in his first "main." Fox is considerably more experienced than the Placentian and probably will go postward a favorite. Fox has boxed such fellows as Baby Sal, Joey Medill, Jackie Carr, Richie King and Dario Barron.

Hernandez and Fox are slated for eight rounds at 135 pounds.

Promoter Foust announced the rest of his card today also.

Battling Ortega, the lightweight who nearly spoiled Hernandez' main event hopes, is slated for the semi this week. Ortega will face Don Smith, Compton amateur sensation, over the six-round distance.

Eddie O'Day and Jack Gilmore, heavyweights, will travel six rounds in the special. Other bouts are Art Molino vs. Willie Pitcher, six rounds; Andy de la Parra vs. "Sunny Boy" Thompson, 4 rounds.

WHITTIER DUE TOMORROW FOR SEASON FINALE

Eighteen weeks of the keenest kind of competition will be completed by the Santa Ana Stars Friday night when they unofficially close their season in the National Night Baseball league.

Two games this week, one in the Bowl tomorrow with Whittier and the other at Long Beach Friday, will be the thirty-fourth and thirty-fifth that Herb Salveson's merrymen have played since the conference schedule got under way in th ecool spring evenings of April.

Finishing their regular schedule does not mean that the Stars will turn in their flaming red monkey-suits for the summer, of course.

Barring an unexpected turn in its fortunes, Santa Ana this week will cinch the second half of the National league's split schedule and thus qualify for a playoff with Whittier, the first half champion, to determine which meets Colton for the Southern California title.

Colton Cinches Inland Title

Colton cinched the second half of the American Night league's split season by defeating Riverside, 6 to 2, Friday night. Colton also won the first half so it will not have to indulge in any kind of a playoff in its own confederacy.

The Santa Ana-Whittier game tomorrow will be the last league tilt the Stars play in the Bowl unless the championship hinges on the outcome of the so-called "postponed game" with Orange still held over from the Fourth of July. Santa Ana will not play Orange if it defeats both Whittier and Long Beach, or if it wins either game and La Habra beats Anaheim at Anaheim tomorrow.

Tickets for reserved seats to the Santa Ana-Whittier affray went on sale today at Baker's bakery, 214 West Fourth street, and the El Corral service station, Third and Birch streets. The demand was brisk this morning but Star officials do not anticipate a sellout, and are reserving seats only as an accommodation for local fans who thus will not have to go to the park early in the evening to be sure of vantage points. No tickets are being sent to Whittier which usually supports its club enthusiastically.

Whittier Team Slumps

With so much at stake, the contest would figure to pack 'em in under ordinary conditions but Whittier, already in the playoffs because of its first half success, will not send its usual large delegation here. The Quakers have made a disappointing showing this half, and interest in Quakertown is said to be apathetic. This will pep up, of course, when the first and second half champs get together later.

Whittier has won three straight games from the Stars and will be an even bet to take it four in a row. Good pitching, fast baserunning and timely hitting have made the Quakers invincible every time they have opposed the Stars. Lloyd Johnson and "String" McDonnell are Whittier's pitchers. Johnson probably will work here.

Joe Cornelius will draw Santa Ana's assignment as usual. Whittier is the only team in theleague the iron man hasn't 'taken" and he has set his heart on turning this trick tomorrow.

THE PHILLY MYSTERY

Will somebody please rise and tell the class why the Philadelphia National League ball team cannot win ball games? This has become to me an awful mystery of this baseball age.

It is a team of sluggers. Led by Chuck Klein and Lefty O'Doul, to both of whom the average of .400 is just a whole lot of fun, the club leads the league in the department of pitcher punishment. When I looked at the team batting marks the other day, the Phils were leading with a mark of .328. That, my friends, is a whole lot of lumber work.

NOT IN THE FIELDING

Would the secret be hidden in the fielding averages? No, not there, for the Phils as a team are not bad fielders. In recent tabulations they were fourth in the league in flycatching and grounder-stabbing. There are some nifty thirdbasemen. There are Thevenow, Hurst, Fresco Thompson, Jack Sherlock and the efficient Barney Friberg, the handy man.

THE CULPRITS

Shufflin' Phil Collins has won a top-heavy percentage of his games. A recent average was 10 won and three lost. But aside from Collins there is not another .500 pitcher on the club. Much was expected of Willoughby this year. He won one and lost nine of his first 10 games. Of his first 12 games, Ray Benge won six and lost seven. Collard won five and lost six of his first 11. Elliott won three and lost six out of nine. Sweetland, in his first eight games, won two and lost six.

From the figures, it begins to appear that only the pitchers can be blamed. Yet they simply cannot be that rotten. In two recent games the team made 30 great big runs—and lost both games. It looks as though Burt Shotten himself could step in there and pitch better ball than that.

The team has been playing the toughest kind of breaks a ball team ever fell heir to. In one game recently the Cubs beat them 19 to 15. They pile up lots of runs in one game, but the other team makes lots of runs, too, and they lose. The next day they make three runs and the enemy makes four or five.

BURT BEARS UP

In the face of perverse fortunes, Burt Shotten is bearing up nobly like the true gentleman that he is. These things are very hard to explain sometimes. Look at Brooklyn last year and this year for the other side of the luck story. Last year the Brooklyn pitchers looked sour. This year Flatbush has a park full of Christy Mathewsons and Eddie Planks. The same guys, too, with a couple of news faces.

Burt is sure of his job for next year, according to advices from Philly. Baker likes him. Everybody likes Burt, in fact, but the baseball fates that have treated him so harshly. Here is a man to whom we wish a whole lot of good luck and a benchful of capable flingers.

SPRINGTIME AND FALL

They started as pals at the bottom of the ladder in 1920. They played the little towns around Chicago, then gradually ascended to the heights. Ten years later, we find them both skidding rapidly down the shute with little, if anything, to keep them from plunking into the pit. Who? Why, Sammy Mandell and Bud Taylor.

Both were great lads and both were great boxers. Taylor also was a savage little fighter and a terrific hitter. Each remains a drawing card in the vicinity where he started. Both probably will continue Sammy is only 26 and Bud is 27. The rungs in the ladder they climbed once before have been broken out. It's sad, but their pugilistic dreams are over.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

Jackie (Kid) Berg and "Keed" Chocolate, who fought Aug. 7 at the Polo Grounds, might have been matched on some other date if it hadn't been for a hunch of Luis Guitterez, pilot of Chocolate . . . Luis insisted on that day because it is the second anniversary of the Keed's first bout in the United States . . . Chocolate drew exactly $35 for whipping Eddie Enos at Mitchel field in that bout . . . "Hey George, whose working today?" a fan yelled to Pitcher Pipgras as he warmed up before the dugout recently . . . "Me and the outfielders," calmly replied the big Yankee . . . Dwight F. Davie, governor general of the Philippines and doner of the Davis cup tennis trophy, advocates creation of a new Far Eastern zone in the championship play . . . He says it costs too much time and money for teams of the Orient to play in the American or European zones . . . With a third zone, Davis believes greater interest will be created in Japan, China, the Philippines and Australia.

M'KINNEY AND JOHNSON SCORE IN MEDAL PLAY

Both shooting net 67's, B. Z. McKinney and M. E. Johnson won Class A and Class B medal play sweepstakes, respectively, at the Santa Ana Country club yesterday.

L. D. Coffing, with 82-12—70, and Z. B. West, jr., with 84-14—70, tied for second place in the Class A division. B. V. Curry was a close fourth. He had a card of 78-7—71.

Dr. E. H. Rowland trailed Johnson in the "B" section with 92-22—70. Millburn G. Harvey, 91-20—71, and A. A. Beard, 95-24—71, were next in line.

L. W. Bemis and S. R. Bowen were "A" and "B" match play winners Saturday. They were both one down to par.

Z. B. West, jr., 2 down, and M. B. Lacy, B. V. Curry, B. Z. McKinney and C. R. Furr, all three down, were other winners in Class A.

W. S. Spicer, 2 down, and R. C. McMillan, R. A. Mosher and Millburn Harvey, 3 down, finished closest to Bowen.

ANAPAUMAS DEFEAT JAPANESE PLAYERS

Al Encinas was "right" and D. Eyman Huff's Anapauma Roncho baseball team turned back the Hollywood Japanese, 4 to 1, at the Orange County Fair grounds yesterday. Encinas allowed only six hits, fanned 13.

Anapauma got a run in the first inning and another in the second, then went scoreless until the sixth when it pushed around two more tallies.

ANAHEIM, COLTON IN CLASH TONIGHT

Colton, the team that has won 19 of its 20 games in the American Night Ball league this summer and which Santa Ana may play for the Southern California championship, will make its first appearance in Orange county tonight.

The Railroaders play Anaheim an exhibition game at Anaheim, repaying a visit the Valencias made inlard last week. Colton won the first Anaheim set-to, 6-5, in 11 innings.

SHOOTING with SHUTE

by DENNY SHUTE

Of all the shots one faces in the course of a golf season, I think none is so trying as the explosion. I believe most golfers feel the same way about it, too.

An explosion shot, to become fundamental, is one made in deep sand where the ball lies in a heel print, depression or is so placed that is cannot be lifted out of the bunker by being hit cleanly.

In other words, an explosion shot is one made, not by hitting the ball, but by hitting back of it into the sand and letting the sand raise the ball up and onto the green.

The distance one hits into the sand back of the ball varies according to the distance one wants the ball to go. Sometimes the lie is such that one must shoot over a second bunker to reach the green or, in other cases, he may need a fairly long shot because the [illegible] lies across on the other side of the green.

In that case, hit into the sand only an inch or so back of the ball. I cannot tell you exactly how much back of the ball you should hit. You will have to judge simply by going out and tearing up some green-keeper's well-smoothed trap with a lot of practice.

All I can tell you about it is to hit back of the ball wit ha tremendous lot of force. You'll have to try it yourself.

MISS CRUICKSHANK DOUBLES CHAMPION

Sharing with "Midge" Gladman of Santa Monica the women's doubles championship of the Easthampton, N. Y., tournament, Miss Josephine Cruickshank, Santa Ana's sensational young tennis player, today was scheduled to begin play in a tournament at Rye, N. Y., the last in which she will engage before entering the National championships at Forest Hills.

The Misses Cruickshank and Gladman won the doubles crown by beating Marjorie Morrill, Dedham, Mass., and Penelope Anderson, Richmond, Va., 3-6, 8-6, 7-5.

The Californians failed to hit their stride until the second set when they lashed out after trailing at 2-4, evened the count at 4-all and then won the set on the fourteenth game with Miss Cruickshank serving. Miss Cruickshank scored the winning point, an ace that Miss Anderson could not reach. In the final set, with the score 6-5 in favor of the Californians, Miss Cruickshank served a love game for set and match.

Daylight Delays Playing Of Game

WACO, Tex., Aug. 11.—(INS)—"Game postponed on account of daylight."

That is a new one heralded to an eager sporting world. At a night's contest between the Waco Clubs of Dallas, to be played under flood lights and beginning at 8 o'clock, there was too much daylight for the game to be played properly.

So the umpire in a resonant voice announced to his fans that the game would be postponed twenty minutes in order to allow darkness to creep upon the field and give the lights proper glow.

COURTS GRANT SIX DIVORCES TO PLAINTIFFS

Six interlocutory divorce decrees were granted in superior court on Friday after hearings in which the defendants all failed to appear to contest the actions.

Lucile S. Jackson, who was married in Caddo, Louisiana, in 1920, was granted a divorce from Walter N. Jackson on a charge of cruelty. Mrs. Jackson was represented in court by Mrs. Clara Cushman, attorney.

Instances of cruelty and charges of desertion were told to the court by Martha C. Gleave, who has been married to Richard E. Greave for over 29 years. Her decree was granted.

Mannie Simberg charged that his wife, Ella L. Simberg, whom he married in 1913, started a course of cruel conduct with him in 1929, kissed another man, who was a guitar player, on numerous occasions and seemed to prefer the company of the other man to that of himself. He was given a divorce decree.

Cruelty was the charge that won freedom from Cipriano Errecarte for Frances Errecarte, who took the stand and told of several instances that resulted in the court granting a decree.

Helen C. Reyes won a divorce from Ynsente Reyes on a charge of cruel and inhuman treatment.

These five cases above were handled by Judge James L. Allen.

Judge G. K. Scovel tried the case that resulted in a decree for C. W. Kibel from Bessie M. Kibel. They had been married 21 years. Cruel and inhuman treatment was alleged by the plaintiff.

Vote for James Sleeper, incumbent for County Assessor. He has fought the people's battle against the big interest for years, and has made their assessments in proportion to the small tax payers.

TAXPAYERS AND VOTERS

My opponent Mr. Montgomery and his friend, Mr. Sidnam have in the past few evenings been working on the assessment rolls, now in the Auditor's office, checking the assessments (I am informed) of the Bixby's, Hellman's, Irvine Company, Susan P. Bryant, Union Oil Company and others, and for fear that they will not give their information out in time for the tax payers, before election, to make a personal investigation and examination for himself of these assessments and any others he wishes to and compare with the adjoining property, his own property or the property in the other districts of the county.

I am extending to you an invitation to come to the Assessor's office, Room 204, Court House, where we have maps showing the location of all the real property in the County, the kind of trees, their age, condition and number of acres, a list of all the personal property and improvements and how we arrive at the value of Mineral Rights of the Oil Companies. Make this investigation yourself; we will assist you in every way we can; do not let someone do this for you who has, to the best of my knowledge, never been in the Assessor's office of Orange county.

I have no fear of how you will cast your vote if you personally investigate this matter as you should.

JAMES SLEEPER,
County Assessor.

Little changes in the standings of candidates in the Fox Theaters-Santa Ana Register popularity contest, was noted Saturday night with the latest counting of ballots.

Mario Mercurio continued to hold first position among the boys in the contest and Luvina Layton Schade, of the Green Cat cafe, was still safely intrenched in the women's first position.

The leaders in the contest all polled a large number of votes during the last two days of the week, but it did not change their positions.

Ted Newcomb, who went into third place a week ago made big gains, while Leona Zimmerman showed unexpected strength during the last counting of the ballots.

The contest comes to a close on Aug. 24, two weeks from yesterday and the mad scramble for votes will be particularly more interesting the last two weeks of the contest.

The first prize is the choice of any of the prizes offered by a number of Santa Ana merchants, together with the leading part in a feature motion picture to be made in Santa Ana by the Fox organization.

County Aid For Woman Greater Than Reported

A statement issued today by Walter S. Gregg, director of the county department of social welfare, calls attention to the fact that instead of an allowance of rent money and 50 cents a day being made for the support of Mrs. John C. Knight, as stated in an article yesterday quoting Superior Judge James L. Allen, his department has spent $70 on the case since it first came to his attention on June 9, 1930. This covers a period of 61 days. Of this amount, $42 was spent for food, according to Gregg, and the balance for rent.

Gregg further stated that the woman, whose husband is serving a jail sentence as a condition of probation, has refused to ask for or accept help from her relatives, who came here from Fresno and Los Angeles to see the department in connection with the case, but insists that because of her husband's incarceration, the county must support her.

The fiftieth anniversary of the installation of the first telephone in the City of Duluth, Minn., was celebrated on August 1, 1930.

Why Age 40...
is often the turning point in health

THE turning point in health is 40; the average age when wear and tear of life begins to take its toll.

One of the most prevalent "after 40 ailments" is kidney breakdown. Over half of men and women are afflicted in some degree; many without knowledge of it, for there are no warning symptoms.

Medical Science now gives the cause: 75% of poisonous waste from the system is excreted by kidneys, much in too concentrated form. Overburdened, delicate kidney cells break down. Congestion occurs, throwing back into the system the poisons which should be eliminated. This becomes the forerunner of many serious ills.

Doctors now advise this preventive: Drink six glasses of Puritas mineral-free water each day. Puritas dilutes poisonous waste, dissolves and washes it away, thus lightening the load of kidneys. Mineral-free, it leaves no congestion-forming deposits. Thus Puritas constantly protects the normal functioning of kidneys.

Puritas water, scientifically distilled and aerated, is mineral-free, impurity-free; water in its purest state. Although you'll find its taste different at first, each drink becomes increasingly enjoyable.

Addresses Heard Yesterday In Santa Ana Churches

INCIDENT FROM REBELLION OF ABSALOM TOLD

At the Broadway and Walnut street Church of Christ yesterday morning, the Rev. James S. Sewell, minister, took for his subject an incident in the story of Absalom's rebellion against his father, David, King of Israel, found in the 17th chapter of II Samuel.

He related briefly the story of Absalom's stealing the hearts of the people of Israel from his father, gathering an ary and raising a revolt against David. The king fled from Jerusalem with only a small array of followers compared with Absalom's army that would be as the sands of the seashore for multitude, and then attack. Absalom took the advice of Hushai, and waited to gather a huge army; but David also gathered such an army that when the battle occurred, Absalom lost his army, the kingdom and his life.

The pastor then said:

"We may learn two lessons from this incident. The first is that God exercises protecting care over those who try to do His will. The record says God saw to it that the counsel of Ahithopel, which would have brought victory to Absalom, was rejected, and that Hushai's counsel, which would bring defeat to Absalom, was accepted. David was a man after God's own heart; not that David did not sin. He committed grievous sins, but when reminded of them, he sincerely repented and turned from his sin. Hence God protected him in his hour of distress, and David could well say in the language of the sublime 23rd Psalm: 'The Lord is my Shepherd; I shall not want.'

"The second lesson to be learned from this incident is that when we have a work to do, let us do it now, to the best of our ability, not waiting till we have greater ability or greater opportunity, not waiting till circumstances are more favorable, till we are more influential, till our resources are increased; but do now, to the extent of our ability, the work that lies before us, trusting God to give us increased ability, strength and influence."

PASTOR URGES CONGREGATION TO GUARD AGAINST DOCTRINES SPREAD BY 'FALSE TEACHERS'

Declaring that the only way to be safe in religion is to reject everything that is not taught, either by express precept or inspired example, the Rev. J. W. Saunders, evangelist at the Southside Church of Christ, preached yesterday morning on "False Teachers."

"The discourses of Jesus are filled with denunciations of and warnings against false teachers," he declared. "He realized that false teaching would be the greatest hindrance to the progress of His kingdom in the world. For this season he pointed out their characteristics that his disciples might be on their guard. Here are some of them.

"They teach men to break what they are pleased to call least commandments. In other words, some of the things which God has plainly commanded are to be treated with indifference because they are non-essential. This idea is utterly foreign to the teaching of the Bible. God does not tell men to do anything that is non-essential. If it is commanded it is essential to the salvation of our souls.

"They are described as being wolves in sheep's clothing. This clearly indicates hypocrisy. They wear the mask of friendship to God's cause when in reality they are its worst enemies.

"Then often do many wonderful works in the name of Christ. This, however, is no guarantee that they are of Christ. Many wonder-workers will be invited to leave the presence of Christ as workers of iniquity.

"The only way to be safe in religion is to reject everything that is not taught either by express precept or by inspired example."

UNION SERVICE SERMON GIVEN BY DR. WARMER

Dr. George A. Warmer, of the First Methodist church, was preacher at the union evening church service in the First Presbyterian church last night. His subpect was: "How May We Think of God?" and his text was the first four words of the Bible, "In the beginning God." Dr. Warmer asserted that a strange thing is happening in our world and that we are scarely aware of it. He pointed out that theologies are written on practically every religious subject save that of God, yet He is the greatest idea in the minds of men.

"In a real sense every man creates his own God," he declared. "He is not made different by our concepts of Him, but He is to us only what we conceive Him to be.

"The rise in the quality of the thought of God from a mere physical being to the great 'world soul' of Emerson is a story worthy of deep consideration.

"Thugh much of individual as well as radical experience the idea has grown up that the God our hearts today have conceived of is personal, busy, interested, loving—a Father.

"The first law of science is that of cause and effect. Since evolution is the vital principal operating in the heart of the universe the superintendent of the process must be giving deep concern to its ongoing. A completed creatin would imply an exhaused universe and a dead creator. Said Talling 'Science finds God everywhere and everywhere finds Him busy.'

"To distinguish God from the gods Jesus revealed Him as one who is Father. He is Father to every race and class and nation. He is the God of the second chance. He is not the trial of the disobedient to overwhelm them in their way-wardness, but to woo them back to His own heart and to the abundant way of life."

The music at this service was furnished by the chior of the First Methodist church, with Mrs. W. B. Snow at the organ. A special feature was a solo by Mrs. Warmer, with a 'cello obligato by Edward Burns.

CONQUERING OF FEAR IS TOPIC OF DR. WARMER

Using as his text those words of the Psalmist "God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble; therefore we will not fear," Dr. George A. Warmer discussed the subject "The Conquest of Fear," at the First Methodist church yesterday morning. He said in part that fear is one of the greatest deterrent forces in the development of a normal life, that fear is the most subtle enemy of mankind and that the elimination of fear is essential to our true happiness and success.

"Many are fearful that when old age arrives they will be sick and afflicted, without sufficient means with which to care for themselves. Some are fearful that they will lose their positions and that another one will de difficult to find," the pastor said.

"On account of this fear thought, men and women every day are creating the circumstances and conditions which attract to them the very things which they fear most. No man can think in terms of poverty and have abundance, in terms of sickness and have health, in terms of hatred and have love. Nor can a man think in terms of fear and possess peace and courage.

"We are not saying this for the man or woman who day in and day out permits himself or herself to practice deception. It is folly for the medical man who deceives his patients, the lawyer who daily indulges in sharp practices, the business man who endeavors to succeed by dishonesty, to expect beneficial results unless all such conduct is immediately discontinued.

"He has no great fear who is self dedicated to a great purpose. Arriving at his objective may require terrible sacrifice and long patient hours of waiting but the pull of the goal holds him steady. Fear is conquered by a great affection. 'Perfect love casteth out fear.' These words of the apostle have been demonstrated in a thousand ways throughout the centuries. The fear complex is annihilated by a deep sense of dependence upon God.

"It's a great thing to have a father. One feels that there is someone who will stand by in every crisis, through every trial. A friend demonstrates friendship by carrying so much of the overload as one is not able to bear. Fortunate the man who is a friend maker.

"God is the great friend. As a ship stands by to assist a crippled seamate, so God gives grace for the trial, strength for the burden and helps us carry on until carrying on is carrying through."

PASTOR TELLS ABOUT GOSPEL OF GOOD CHEER

"The Rev. Edgar Rothrock, pastor of the Church of the Brethren, spoke on "The Gospel of Good Cheer," yesterday morning. He said in part:

"There are five kinds of good cheer of Jesus that should be realized in every heart. The first was spoken by the mulltiude to the blind man on the Jerico road, who cried "Jesus, thou Son of David, have mercy on me.' At Jesus' request they said, 'Arise, be of good cheer, He calleth thee.' The world is a blind man sitting beside the road of life that leads to the holy city, begging for a pittance while the gift of light is passing by. This good cheer is attained by the blind when they throw away the garments of sin and hasten to Jesus. He only can give light and life.

"The second good cheer was spoken by Jesus to the man paralyzed, who was carried by his friends to Jesus. Jesus looked on him with compassion and said 'Son be of good cheer, thy sins are forgiven thee.' The forgiveness of sins removes from the human heart the bonds which hinder the soul in its normal functions. Rottenness is healed and purity shines out. Fear loses its grip in the confidence of true love.

"The third good cheer was spoken by Jesus to the timid woman who said, 'If I but touch the hem of his garment I shall be made whole.' She touched and was healed. Jesus met her faith by saying in the presence of all: "Woman, be of good cheer, thy faith hath made thee whole.'

"The lack of faith keeps many in spiritual poverty. Even the material world lavishes its best blessings on the men who dare. Try Jesus, and hear Him say 'Be of good cheer, thy faith hath made thee whole.'

"The fourth good cheer was spoken to the fearful group in the storm tossed boat in the Gallean night storm. They cried out in fear but the voice of the Master came out of the dark night 'Be of good cheer, it is I, be not afraid.' They thought He did not know or care for their helpless plight. But He saw from the mountain top of prayer their peril and when the danger was most imminent His presence brought the good cheer.

"The fifth good cheer is one of victory. The cross was now casting a long shadow but the Saviour of all said 'In me ye have peace, in the world ye have tribulation, but be of good cheer I have overcome the world.' Our leader was made perfect through suffering. His was the victory of humiliation and suffering, the only one that can bring the good cheer of victory and bestow the peace that passeth all understanding. These constitute the Gospel of Good Cheer."

NEVER FAILING FRIEND TOPIC OF S. A. PASTOR

At the First United Brethren church yesterday, the Rev. R. W. Harlow, pastor, spoke on the topic: "The Never-Failing Friend."

"The wise man Soloman was talking about true friendship," he began. "No one can truthfully say, I am independent, I need the help and friendship of none. It seems that God has so arranged it in the affairs of this life, that each of us is more or less dependent on the other. From the cradle to the grave we are dependent creatures. With all the wealth of all the world placed at our feet and not a friend with us, we would be of all men most miserable.

"If friends are necessary to happiness, then we must show our sleves friendly. One has said that a true friend is one who comes into one's life when all others have gone out. Socrates when building a house, was asked why he didn't build larger. His answer was, 'I consider it large enough if it were filled with real friends.' Human friendships are sometimes very changeable. Humanity is about the same today as in the time of the apostles and when the Lord healed a crippled man under Paul's preaching at Lystra, the people were ready to worship him. But in a few hours, under another kind of an influence they stoned him and carried him out of the city for dead.

"Sometime ago a father made an agreement with his son to deed him all of his property if he would take care of him in his home as long as he lived. All went well for a time. One day the son was making a trough and his little boy came out and said, 'Papa what are you making?' 'Well my boy,' he replied, 'you know that Grandpa is getting old and feeble now and is not nice and tidy at the table any more, so I am making a trough for him to eat out of.' 'Oh yes papa, when you get old and feeble and trembly, like grandpa, then I will make a trough for you to eat out of.' Let us honor father and mother, that our days may be long on the land which the Lord our God hath given us. For what we sow we shall reap.

"True friendship is different. It sticks to the last, though all earthly friends may forsake us, there is one who will never forsake us. Though father and mother forsake us the Lord will take us up. He will be with us in the sixth trouble and in the seventh. He will not forsake us. I will go with you all the way, even unto the end of the world. This friend will be your friend if you will accept Him as your Saviour King. In Him all your need shall be supplied."

REV. O. SCOTT M'FARLAND TALKS ON 'RIVER OF LIFE' AT UNION VESPER SERVICE

A good attendance again marked the vesper service at Birch park beginning at five o'clock last evening. The audience enjoyed an especially fine worship hour which was under the direction of the First Presbyterian church.

Music was furnished by a chorus of 25 voices under the direction of Miss Ruth Armstrong, and by Oswald Stock, who played a trombone solo, "The Holy City." The choir sang for an anthem "Praise Ye the Father," by Gounod.

The sermon was on the subject "The River of Life" and was delivered by the Rev. O. Scott McFarland, minister of the First Presbyterian church. Taking as his text—"All the rivers run into the sea; unto the place from whence the rivers come, thither they return again," the Rev. Mr. McFarland spoke about the mysterious river of life—its origin, its meaning, its destiny. In his opening words he referred to David Livingstone who was called by the natives of Africa "The Seeker of Rivers." He said in part:

"A three-fold purpose moved Livingstone toward Africa: the evnagelization of the native races, the exploration of a hidden continent and the abolition of the slave traffic. Evangelization, exploration, emancipation—no mortal man has ever had a greater life purpose. Livingstone saw three great rivers—the Nile, the Congo and the Zambesi—emptying into three separate oceans and he thought that if he could solve the riddle of their sources he would be able to open up a continent to commerce and civilization.

"We all oat for a brief day upon the mysterious river of life. Many give no thought to its origin nor to its destiny. Others are perplexed about it all and sing the plaintive song of their perplexity—'Nobody knows.' The more thoughtful of us wish to know whence it came and whiter is goes and wat it is all about. Here, only religion can help us. The worth of religious faith depends on the light it throws upon life's origin, meaning and destiny.

"The Scriptures tell us who made things and with what loving intent Me made them. Nothing came into being until God said 'Let it be So.' The creation of the world and of man is the result of God's loving wish. How shall we explain God who had no beginning? Here is where the finite mind of man is completely baffled. Sir Arthur Thompson says that 'the vulgar belief that science has explained everything is a gross misunderstanding.' We know by faith and revelation that man came out of the loving heart of God and that we are God's children.

"The average man, however, is not troubled much by the problem of his origin; but he is greatly checked for lack of a program in life. Louis Untermeyer, in trying to explain the suicide of his son, puts his finger upon the blind spot in modern civilization when he says, 'We do not understand life. Anyone who pretends to is bluffing—preachers and all. We are done with religion. What we want in place of religion faith is faith in life itself.' That is tragically humurous. What is religion but faith in life itself? Jesus came that man might find himself—His great business is to interpret the meaning of life—and to show us the way into abundant living. But in this day when people need a religious faith and teaching that will enable them to motivate their living in keeping with the spirit and power of Christ, we people of the churches have allowed the traffic on the main boulevard of religious teaching and experience to become jammed with little isms and petty dogmas that should be parked on the allays and side streets.

"What is life's destiny? Wiggam, in his 'The New Decalogue of Science' says that 'The universe stands revealed at last in all its gaunt nakedness as a mere machine without sympathy or purpose. Man is found to be a brother not only to the brute but to the clod and crystal. He sweeps for a brief moment round his little orbit and passes into the trackless void with the same mechanical precision as the stars.' But Jesus, the North Star, from whom we take our bearings, says, 'Whither I go ye know, and the way ye know.' He was really saying, 'Out of the loving heart of God I came and to the loving heart of God I now return. Unto the place from whence the River of Life came, thither the River of Life returns again. I am the Way.' Jesus is the 'Breaker of the Path' to the house of our heavenly Father. Following Him we shall reach home at last and dwell in the house of the Lord forever."

FRIENDLY INDIAN CAMP UNDER WAY

Friendly Indian camp at Camp Osceola started off in fine shape yesterday afternoon. Two busses, containing 65 boys and 12 leaders, arrived at about 1:30 p. m. Assignments to cabins were made and each tribe went to wor kto put its cabin in shape.

Secretary Tibballs, assisted by R. H. McArthur, and the leaders of the whole camp, is planning a program of activities which will include baseball, hikes, swimming, campfire programs, nature study, archery and many other activities.

Following the nominating of a councilman from each cabin, Byron Nott was elected chief of the camp. He will head this council and will make suggestions to the directors of the boys' wishes in matters of program and policy.

GOD'S WAY IS EXPLAINED IN BIBLE LESSON

"God's Way" was the subject discussed before the Men's Community Bible class at the Fox West Coast theater yesterday morning by the Rev. Walter S. Buchanan, class teacher and pastor of the First Christian church. The text was "For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth on Him might have everlasting life."

"What is God's way?" the teacher asked. I want to know so that I can walk there. God has erected sign posts to show men the right way, and the text is one of the best guides.

"There are over 122,000,000 persons in the United States now, in all walks of life. Does God love all of them? Does He know them? Yes, absolutely. You and your troubles and trials are known of God. We make a mistake when we think He doesn't care.

"I can understand God better since radio has come. If one man can stand in a little room in New York and speak so 75,000,000 people can hear him distinctly, what do you think God can do? God wants no man to perish. He wants to help and save all. Some men are discouraged and say that the world is going to the devil. Some of it is, but God is going to reign supreme and it is up to you men in Santa Ana to help.

"God's way is the narrow, happy, truthful way to success in this life and eternal life."

The soloist yesterday was C. M. Lane, who sang "Invictus." The class orchestra, under the leadership of James Ingham, played several numbers.

Garden Setting Gives Colorful Charm to Luncheon

In the picturesque setting of her garden at 811 Lowell street, Mrs. M. M. Holmes entertained Saturday afternoon, with a daintily appointed 1 o'clock luncheon, assisted in her hostess duties by her daughter, Miss Mildred Holmes, her two daughters-in-law, Mrs. Max C. Holmes, and Mrs. Edwin D. Holmes, and Mrs. John A. Tessman.

The wealth of shrubbery and flowers made a lovely background for the tables, set beneath large garden umbrellas, gayly adorned with festoons of crepe paper. The tables were laid with tinted linens, and bore umbrella nut-cups of harmonizing pastel colors. Place cards also were tiny Japanese umbrellas, while baskets of gay zinnias, asters, and dahlias, placed about the gardens, lent their gay note of color to the scene.

Following the delicious two course luncheon, a contest involving the names of shrubs in the garden, took place. Miss Lula Minter, with the names of 75 plants, and Mrs. Warren Brakeman, with names of half a dozen plants that no one else could guess, were awarded prizes, which were lovely Japanese parasols.

A demonstration of each guest's favorite hobby, that included anything from vocal solos to the recitation of poetry, concluded a very interesting afternoon.

Those present in addition to the quintet of hostesses, Mrs. M. M. Holmes, Mrs. Max C. Holmes, Mrs. Edwin D. Holmes, Miss Mildred Holmes, and Mrs. John Tessmann, were Mrs. Charles Nalle, and mother, Mrs. Crawford; Mrs. J. P. Williams, and mother, Mrs. Rutherford; Mrs. L. C. Santa Ana Visitors to Avalon Share Social And Musical Life

Having achieved world-wide fame as the ideal playground of Southern California, Catalina island is now stepping into the limelight as a cultural center, and the musical life of Avalon at the height of the summer season, is one of the outstanding features of this "Island of the Blest." Contributing to the pleasant activities of the little summer city, are several well-known Santa Anans including Miss Allien Lair, pianist, and Edward Harrison Burns, 'cellist.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Lair and their daughter, Miss Allien, have the Mrs. Mary Matthews-Walters cottage at the island, for the summer, and have taken active part in the social life, with Miss Lair appearing on frequent musical programs. They have been entertaining, among a host of other guests, Mr. Burns and his fiancee, Miss June Rose, and their friends among Avalon residents, extended many courtesies to the guests.

Musicales were given in some of the most beautiful homes in Avalon, including that of Mr. and Mrs. David M. Renton. Mr. Renton is general manager of the island and vice president of the Santa Catalina Island company, of which William Wrigley is president. Mrs. Renton is one of the Southland's better known poets, and their two sons, Malcolm and Arthur, are accomplished musicians.

Another delightful party complimenting Miss Lair and Mr. Burns and his fiancee, was given by Mr. and Mrs. Sinclair E. Carpenter. Mr. Carpenter, who is a civil engineer with the Island company, is a baritone soloist, and serves as music chairman of the community church for which Mrs. Carpenter is pianist. Joining with them in the gracious hospitality, was Hazel Page Everett, a pupil of Mme. Ellen Beach Yaw and for whose solo work of the summer, Miss Lair has served as accompanist.

Of unique charm was the hospitality extended at the Arthur Stevens home, when members of the S. S. Avalon orchestra were among the guests. Arthur Stevens is perhaps more directly responsible for Avalon's musical propensities than any other one man, as he has organized several bands and choral groups presenting concerts, cantatas, etc. He is also a musician of note, playing the piano, Tuba, French horn and trumpet.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl R. Osborne presided at another evening function with music as its theme, and the young Santa Ana artists took prominent part in the program, as well as in guest honors. Mr. Burns played such beautiful 'cello numbers as "Danse Rustique," by Squire; Schumann's "Evensong," "Traumerei" and other numbers by Wagner, Mendelssohn, Mozart and Bach. Miss Lair's piano solos included "Sospiro," by Liszt; "Danse Americaine," by Dent Mowry; "Spanish Gypsy Dance," and several other classics, and she also played accompaniments for various soloists, including Mrs. Everett.

It will be remembered that last year, while summering at Avalon, the young pianist appeared as guest artist with Maurice Menge and his orchestra in the amphitheater, and also appeared on the programs as accompanist for Mme. Mallie de Luca and Ethel Patton Roberts.

Mr. Burns is teacher of 'cello at Santa Ana Conservatory of Music, soloist with the Symphony orchestra, and connected with the Municipal band. Avalon seemed to appreciate his talents as fully as does his own community, and apparently a special effort was made to crowd as many pleasant courtesies as possible into the limited time of his stay.

The Lairs will linger at the island until the middle of September, and are expecting to entertain other friends in the meantime.

FATHER CONDUCTS BEAUTIFUL WEDDING FOR HIS DAUGHTER

Surrounded by those family and church friends who have watched her develop from a bright-eyed little maid into a charming and gracious young woman, and in the First Christian church of this city where her father was pastor for so many years, Miss Lorene Porter on Saturday night, spoke her wedding vows to Donald Nash, of Hanford, with her father, the Rev. F. T. Porter, now of Los Angeles, conducting the nuptial rites in a manner that was especially impressive to the large crowd assembled for the event.

Loving hands had garlanded the church altar with flowers—quantities of exotic lilies nodding amidst trailing asparagus fern—and had set slender tapers to make gleaming paths down the aisles and glow amidst the altar appointments. In this setting, the musical program was given added beauty, with Miss Carrie Seaton as organist, Miss Georgia Belle Walton as violinist, and Fred Bentley of Pomona, soloist. The program included "Songs My Mother Taught Me" (Dvorak) and "O Promise Me" (DeKoven) as organ-violin numbers; "Calm as the Night" by Bohn, and "Because" by d'Hardelot, as vocal solos, and the Lohengrin Wedding March as the organ processional to which the bridal party entered.

College Men Usher

A group of Mr. Nash's Delta Upsilon fraternity brothers, who served as ushers, included Messrs W. Frank Bort, Richard Henderson, Stanley Seymour, Douglass Truett and John M. Hartley, and at the signal of the Wedding March, they proceeded to the altar where the Rev. Mr. Porter awaited them, together with Mr. Nash and his brother, Ivan Nash, who was best man.

Miss Porter, entering from the rear of the church on the arm of her brother, Merrill Porter, by whom she was given in marriage, was preceded by her attendants, led by Mrs. DeRoy Dickson as honor matron. Mrs. Dickson was herself a bride of only two weeks ago, and was formerly Miss Virginia Lowell, at whose garden wedding Miss Porter had served as bridesmaid. For her maid of honor costume, she chose a sheer French organdy, whose graceful skirt swirled around her ankles. Its tones of delicate apricot were repeated in the gladioluses which, combined with sweet peas and delphinium, formed her bouquet.

Miss Pauline Porter as her sister's maid of honor, chose pale yellow net and lace for her lovely frock, which was fashioned on princess lines with a great bow of lace and net in French effect. Her flowers were yellow gladioluses, sweet peas and delphinium. The yellow tones were evidenced also in the bouffant frock worn by dainty little Jeanne Merimee who immediately preceded the bride, scattering rose petals for her path to the altar.

A Girlish Bride

Miss Porter, radiant-eyed and lovely, had chosen softest ivory satin for her quaintly formal little gown, molded to her slender form in long flowing lines, with the corded edge of the long skirt touching the toes of her ivory satin slippers. Her long tulle veil swept from a narrow band of real lace and a filmy little cap, and to complete her loveliness, was her great cluster of snowy gardenias with showers of lilies of the valley.

Following the rites, the new Mr. and Mrs. Nash, left the church to the strains of Mendelssohn, to form a receiving line in the social rooms, where they were joined by members of the wedding group, and by the Rev. and Mrs. Porter, and Mr. and Mrs. Evan Nash, parents of the bridegroom. Mrs. Porter wore a pretty flowered chiffon gown with hat to harmonize, and Mrs. Nash chose a silk crepe in yellow tones.

School Friends Aid

A bevy of pretty girls aided in serving punch and wafers, to the large guest group, and were school and college friends of the bride, including the Misses Lois Winslow, Charlene Lowell and Carol Ellisworth, Mrs. Russell Wilson and Mrs. Baxter Lowe.

Both Mr. Nash and hisb ride at-

Both Mr. Nash and his bride at-their romance began. They will make their home in Hanford after returning from the Southern California honeymoon upon which they departed after the wedding reception. Mr. Nash is associated in business with his father, Evan Nash.

Town Minus Debt Is Congratulated

HADDAM, Conn., Aug. 11.—(INS)—A town without a debt is the town of Haddam, nestled beside the broad Connecticut river, and because of the generosity of a citizen, the town has a new hall of records, made out of what once was an historic school house—Brainerd Academy.

"Your example should be followed by 168 other towns in Connecticut," Lieutenant Governor Ernest E. Rogers told the citizens when they dedicated the new town hall with great ceremony in mid July.

In Africa there are about 600 languages; in India 222.

Many Flowers Afford Charming Setting For Nuptials

When Miss Gertrude Scheffer, attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Scheffer of Tustin, chose a home ceremony for her wedding Saturday evening, to Owen Woodruff of this city, she figured in one of the prettiest nuptial rites of the late summer months.

In harmony with the prevailing color motif was the improvised altar of pink roses, stately lilies and graceful fern fronds, arranged at the archway between living room and dining-room. As members of the wedding party advanced to this altar to the strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March, they made an unforgettable picture.

Gowned in an ensemble costume of soft blue enhanced by touches of shell pink, and wearing blue satin slippers and a lacy hat which revealed her curling auburn hair, the bride was indeed lovely as she entered the room with her father. She carried a shower bouquet of pink sweet peas. Attending her as maid of honor was Miss Henrietta Scheffer, her sister, dressed in a powder-blue frock, lace-trimmed. She, too, carried pink sweet peas. Samuel Blassman, of this city, served the bridegroom as best man.

Miss Anne Scheffer, the third member of this interesting sister trio, was bridesmaid, and was very sweet in a lavender-flowered dress fashioned on long lines, and wearing a shoulder corsage of pink Cecil Bruners. The Rev. O. Scott McFarland, of the First Presbyterian church, officiated.

Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Scheffer were hosts at the wedding supper in which the pink motif was expressed in table linen and flowers. Musical features which followed, included appropriate songs by the Misses Henrietta and Anne Scheffer. Miss Anne is at present, one of KREG's leading entertainers, following in the footsteps of her two sisters, both well-known singers. The charming bride has frequently appeared on KREG programs.

Mr. and Mrs. Woodruff left for a northern honeymoon trip, presumably to Santa Barbara. Mrs. Woodruff wore a smart costume of green with harmonizing accessories. Upon their return at an early date, it is expected that they will make their home in this city. The bride has been employed as Dr. W. A. Flood's assistant for the past five years, and plans to continue in her duties there. She came here from Grand Rapids, Mich., about 13 years ago, and was graduated from Santa Ana high school. Her husband has lived in this city for a little over a year, having come here from Ontario, Calif., where his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Woodruff, have lived for some time. He attended Ontario high school and junior college. At present he is affiliated with a service station on South Main street, but is by profession a tree surgeon.

Those present at the wedding and reception included Mr. and Mrs. John Scheffer, the Misses Anne and Henrietta Scheffer, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Woodruff, and daughter, Miss Hazel Woodruff, of Ontario, Samuel McCall of Ventura, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Blassman of this city, and Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Holmes, of Long Beach.

Each member is requested to furnish his own table service. The evening will be spent in out-of-door games.

Sportsman, 87, Is Still Good Rider

DENVER, Aug. 11.—Four score years is generally enough to dim the enthusiasm of even the most ardent sportsmen, but such is not the case with Judge E. A. Colburn, millionaire Denver sportsman, who is "just beginning to enjoy horse racing" at the age of 87.

Judge Colburn is to western horse fanciers what Edward F. (Pop) Geers was in the east until his death a few years ago.

Judge Colburn, who in his earlier days headed mining companies that took fabulous amounts of gold from the Rockies, has been a leading figure in the horse world since he inaugurated gentleman's riding and driving in Denver and Colorado Springs four years ago.

"The young men of today don't know the enjoyment to be found in riding and driving good horses; they've missed one of the big pleasures of life by being born in the automobile age," according to Judge Colburn.

CHURCH CLUBS FRATERNAL WOMEN - SOCIETY - THE HOME WEDDINGS FASHIONS HOUSEHOLD

The MIXING BOWL by ANN MEREDITH

For Your Church or Lodge Supper

Women who anticipate serving on the food committee of church, lodge or club should cut out and save this list for serving a large number of people. If it is pasted in a favorite cook book, it is sure to be at hand when wanted.

PROVISIONS FOR FORTY PEOPLE

1 pound ground coffee, 10 quarts water, 1 quart coffee cream.
20 pounds potatoes, cooked, mashed, well whipped.
2 quarts of gravy.
1 quart of mayonnaise when used to dress any salad or on lettuce.
4 quarts crab, chicken or potato salad.
4 pounds celery, 10 bunches radishes, 10 bunches green onions, 6 heads lettuce.
6 cans of corn, peas or string beans (2½ size can).
1½ pounds butter cut in cubes for table service.
4 glasses jelly, 1 quart bulk mixed pickles, 1 quart bulk olives.
4 loaves bread, 6 dozen small rolls.
4 quarts punch.
1 cake, 12 inches square (layer), cuts 36 Small slices.
15 pounds pork (raw weight), solid meat.
Two 12-pound boiled hams.
20 to 22 pounds beef (raw weight), solid cut of meat.
36 pounds chicken (raw weight).
30 pounds turkey raw weight).
5 quarts brick ice cream.
4 quarts bulk ice cream served with small scoop.
8 pies, cut in fifths.
4 quarts fruit cocktail (can be stretched by adding orange juice).
10 quarts consomme or chicken broth.
10 quarts thin cream soup.

Materials for making fruit cocktail: 1 large can grated pineapple, 1 quart canned peaches, 1 pint pitted canned cherries, 12 oranges, diced, juice of 4 lemons, diced ripe apple, juices of all fruits, 1 to 2 cups powdered sugar to sweeten. Measure and add finely chopped ice to make up full amount, if short.

TODAY'S RECIPE
TOMATO JUICE COCKTAIL

1 cup strained tomato juice
¼ cup boiling water
1 beef buillon cube
2 tablespoons lemon juice
½ teaspoon sugar
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon white pepper
Finely chopped ice
Minced parsley

The clear vegetable or fruit juice cocktails came into their own when reducing diets made their appearance. The innovation is a sensible one—the icy-cold cocktail gives zest to appetite without adding materially to the calory-count.

Strain the juice off a can of tomato and chill thoroughly. Dissolve the bouillon cube in the quarter-cup of boiling water, cool, and combine with the chilled tomato juice. Add the lemon juice and seasonings.

Have the cocktail glasses half filled with finely chopped ice, pour the seasoned juice over the ice, sprinkle a pinch of the minced parsley over the top, and serve immediately.

There are four cockail portions in this recipe and each has a calory value of 25. The important thing to consider is the health value of this cocktail. Tomato juice, canned or fresh, contains much vitamin C, that important aid to general health and growth.

The cleaning of over stuffed furniture and similar upholstery is a problem with the housewife. To send them to a professional cleaner is out of the question with many women, and to attempt to clean them at home is often a disastrous job. I think I can offer some sensible suggestions and methods for cleaning such furniture, and these suggestions I have put into the current leaflet, available free of charge all this week on receipt of your stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Peppermint ice cream recipes are legion, some good, some bad. I have just found one that works beautifully in the electric refrigerators and will give the recipe and directions for making tomorrow.

FROG LEGS TICKLE JAPANESE PALATES

TOKIO, Aug. 11.—Japan is acquiring a taste for frogs.

Bull-frogs legs—the dish so ravishing to the palate of the Frenchman—are finding a steady market in the principal towns of Japan. They are being served at every hotel as a "speciality" item on the menu—and they are being enjoyed.

A few years ago frogs were practically unknown in Japan. All the thousands now croaking in Japan are the offspring of hardy exiles from the United States.

An enterprising Japanese heard the raucous croak of the frog in the marshes of Louisiana. It inspired an adea, and he ordered a shipment of 1,000 frogs for his native country.

JOHN McCORMACK AT FOX WEST COAST

If you want to give your ears and eyes the season's biggest treat, go to the Fox West Coast theater as soon as possible and there you will find the long promised Fox movietone triumph, John McCormack's first stellar vehicle, "Song O' My Heart."

John McCormack's singing is worth anybody's price of admission—at concert prices, but this movietone has a story, and is enacted ably by the colorful supporting array of talent that in our humble opinion it is something you'll want to see more than once.

Throughout the story, a beautiful romance with Maureen O'Sullivan ardently being wooed by John Garrick, we see—and hear McCormack and eleven really delightful songs. The agreeable surprise about the songs, aside from the clarity of their recording, is that never once is even a single one "forced." Each is an integral part of the story that evolves coherently with the well tuned plot of the story, thanks to author Tom Barry and adaptor Sonya Levien.

McCormack's characterization as a saddened lover is so humanly enacted, one almost feels that he is living the role with this favorite tenor of all the world. But credit must be given to lovely Maureen O'Sullivan, latest movietone find for her engaging role as Eileen, daughter of his former sweetheart which role is brilliantly handled by Alice Joyce. John Garrick, J. M. Kerrigan, Tommy Clifford, Farrell Macdonald and rest do justice to their parts.

ANAHEIM

ANAHEIM, Aug. 11.—Members of the Anaheim Rebekah lodge with their families enjoyed an outing at the city park Thursday evening. There were about 60 seated at the long table for the potluck supper.

Mrs. F. Machleb, of East Vermont street, was one of those present at the beautiful church wedding in Pomona of Miss Mary Oliver, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Oliver, of Trinity Methodist church, Pomona. The Rev. Mr. Oliver read the service. The Olivers are well known in this section.

Miss Mildred Knipe was made a full pledged member of the Eta Gamma chapter of Kappa Delta Phi when she was formally initiated at a special meeting held at the home of the president, Miss Hetebrink, of Chapman avenue, and was also installed vice president. Miss Knipe, a charter member of the chapter was unable to be present for the first initiation.

Following the initiation and installation Miss Knipe was guest of honor at a dinner party given by her sisters, who are the Misses Fern Smith, Kathleen Cook, Velman, Stewart, Ruby Williams, Juanita Fiary, Edith Mathews, Mildred Proctor and Miss Hetebrink.

Millholland, low for men; Mrs. Dora Ward high for women and Mrs. Sennett low for women. Sandwiches and coffee were served by a group of the club women.

"BLUSHING BRIDES" OPENS AT BROADWAY

Three plots in one is the unusual feature connected with Joan Crawford's latest starring vehicle, "Our Blushing Brides," which will open a four-day engagement at the Fox Broadway today. The picture centers about three individual romances, namely, that of Miss Crawford and Robert Montgomery, Anita Page and Raymond Hackett and Dorothy Sebastian and John Miljan, the threads of the three separate romances tieing up with one another in an ingenious manner.

The story by Bess Mederyth presents a true to life picture of three working girls who long for the luxuries of life and discover what it costs to attain them. Miss Crawford is said to give the finest performance of her career combining her well-known "modern maiden" characterization with a more mature depictation.

Harry Beaumont who recently directed "The Florodora Girl" for Marion Davies, handled the direction of "Our Blushing Brides." The director, incidentally, also produced the picture which resulted in stardom for Miss Crawford. This was "Our Dancing Daughters," in which Miss Page and Miss Sebastian also appeared.

Mrs. Milested was the mother of Mrs. George Cook and Mrs. Orville Daugherty.

Mr. and Mrs. Buster Well and baby, Barbara, Mr. Wells' cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Currary and son, Kelly of Barstow, Okla.; Mrs. Blanche Riley and son, Billy of Hollywood; Mrs. Elton Merriott and sons, Dean and Richard of Santa Ana; Mr. and Mrs. E. Wells and Mr. and Mrs. Dillard Etewart and children of San Onofre, enjoyed a weiner bake on the beach of Son Onofre recently.

E. S. House, who has been visiting in Redlands for some time, is again at the home of his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Henry House and has been quite ill for the last few days.

WALKER'S SHOWING "ISLE OF ESCAPE"

"Isle of Escape," the Warner Bros. and Vitaphone production which opened at Walker's State theater yesterday, is a genuinely thrilling motion picture. It is packed to the brim with scenes of exciting melodrama and tells an interesting story of the terrific struggles of a handful of white people in the midst of a tribe of primitives who have no regard for the conventions or laws of the white man.

Monte Blue, escaping from cannibals who have killed his companions, lands on the island of Samoa, where he becomes involved with the affairs of Betty Compson and Noah Beery and the eternal triangle enters the picture.

"I SAVED $18 LAST MONTH on Daily Transportation

...and I'm doing it again this month, without making any sacrifice."

"I LIVE a little over 13 miles from my office in Los Angeles," said this man who lives in a suburban city, "over a fine boulevard, but heavy traffic all the way.

"For two years I fought it twice every day...26 miles. It wore me out and I couldn't figure it cost me a bit less than 4 cents a mile. My friends said it was more. Some of them figured their costs as high as 6 and 7 cents a mile.

"Then one day I read an ad that said, 'Ride the Big Red Cars... they'll save you from $10 to $35 a month.' It said the commutation fares were only a fraction over ONE CENT a mile, that there was no traffic to fight, no parking bother or fees, and that I could rest and read while riding.

"It went on to say that schedules were planned to meet my needs, and that hundreds of thousands of busy people were riding the Red Cars to and from work every day. It suggested a ten-day trial to prove all these things for myself. I'm glad I took them up on it.

"Now I catch the car near my house every morning, read my paper or a magazine on the way to town, and I'm at the office before I know it. Going home I arrive rested, and enjoy my dinner. My wife says I'm going to keep on riding the Big Red Cars as long as I commute, and that's one thing we agree on.

"I liked the ten days so well I stretched it to a month, and figured I saved at least $18 in that time, besides parking fees. My wife likes it, because she doesn't worry any more about my having an accident in traffic. I haven't been late to the office even once during the month, and I feel a lot fresher on the job when I get there. I'm glad I made the test. I've told my friends about it, and several of them are trying the Big Red Cars this month."

Ride the Big Red Cars for comfort, safety, leisure, convenience and ECONOMY.

THE TINYMITES

STORY by HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES by KING

They watched the porter, on his way, and then wee Coppy shouted, "Say! He surely earns his money. Why that trunk must weigh a ton. I'd think 'twould make his back real lame. To carry such a load's a shame. I'll never take a job like that. It isn't any fun."

"Oh, he is used to that, no doubt. That's why he travels round about and never seems to mind it," said the kindly Travel Man. "He knows there's nothing he can gain by stopping work just to complain. He just goes on, from day to day, and does the best he can."

Then Scouty said, "I think that we are just lucky as can be. We just watch other people work and never do a thing. Once more I thank the Travel Man for doing everything he can to give us all a real good time. His praises loud I sing."

"Me, too," each other Tiny cried. The Travel Man just stood and sighed and then he said, "Well, thank you, boys. As long as you are good, I'm glad to take you here and there as long as you all treat me fair. So far you've been just dandy lads and done just as you should."

Just then they reached a funny tent and up to it the whole bunch went. "What's this?" one of the Tinies asked. The Travel Man replied, "That's where fine slipper patching's done. The man repairs them, one by one. You'll see that he is busy now, if you'll just peek inside."

And so that's what the Tinies did. It seemed the cobbler almost hid. He sat back in the tent and plied his hammer, tap, tap, tap. The old man smiled, but worked away. It seemed he had no time for play. They watched him sole a slipper, held on something in his lap.

(The Tinymites make friends with a cake seller in the next story.)

RULES

1. In playing golf on the Missing Letter Links the object is to change one word to another in a given number of strokes which is par. For example, to go from TEE to PIN in three strokes sound hard but isn't: TEE-TIE-PIE-PIN. It's probably more difficult on a real course.

2. Change but one letter at a time and be sure the word you have used is one in good usage.

3. The order of the letters cannot be changed.

NEW ROBOT PILOT

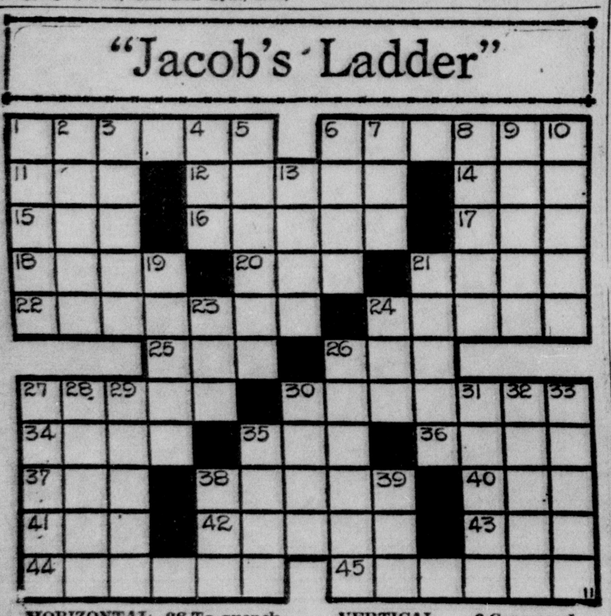

WICHITA, Kas., Aug. 11.—Richard D. Clark, of Ponca City, Okla., has recently tested out a new robot pilot here. It is to function automatically and to govern ship's elevators and ailerons, by the use of a non-powered mechanism. The device is said to assure level flight for ships when such is desired and to keep the plane on an even keel, once it has been set for that position.

'GOD SPEAKS TO HIS PEOPLE' IS LA HABRA TOPIC

LA HABRA, Aug. 11.—"How God Speaks to His People' 'was the subject of an illustrated talk last night by the Rev. Walter H. Jones, of Glendale, who is filling the pulpit at the Christian church in the absence of a regular pastor. The meeting was a union service of the four churches, the Baptist, Christian, Nazarene and Methodist, held at the latter church.

The three great dispensations of religion were shown to have a different and definite way in which the Lord spoke to his people, the first being that from the time of creation up until the code of laws was given Moses on Mt. Sinai.

"During that period God spoke directly to man many times by the use of the angels as unto Abraham, Jacob and others," the Rev. Mr. Jones said. "During the next dispensation known as the Jewish dispensation, God spoke from the written law to them, until the time of the resurrection. Since that time God has spoken through His written word and through human mentality.

"Although Jesus taught His disciples and others to obey the Mosaic laws they were no longer binding after the resurrection fulfilling the prophecies and completing the gospel which He commanded His followers to go out and teach others. That is our challenge in this, the gospel age."

NEW SLOGAN URGED FOR LAGUNA BEACH

LAGUNA BEACH, Aug. 11.—The Chamber of Commerce has asked that suggestions be made for a new slogan for the community.

"The Beach That Is Different," which has served for years, might be improved in the estimation of some.

The first two submitted were, "Laguna Beach By the Sea" and "Laguna Beach—Why Adam and Eve Left the Garden of Eden." These have been referred to John Jehle, chairman of the publicity committee. L. F. Walden, who proposed the idea of a new slogan, and Ralph Frost, who thought that the general public ought to be interested in a slogan campaign, have been placed on the publicity committee temporarily.

LAGUNA BEACH MAY CONTROL SCHOOL, CLAIM

LAGUNA BEACH, Aug. 11. — That this community, defeated in its initial skirmish to establish the first year of a high school here, has the power within its limits, or will soon have, to capture the Tustin union high school district and divert it to this place, was the assertion made before the chamber of commerce Friday night by George E. Thompson, member of the chamber board of directors and clerk of the school board here.

In his report to the civic body, Mr. Thompson said that one third of the pupils attending the Tustin union high school are transported from here in busses daily, that one fourth of the assessed valuation is here, and that more than one half of the votes are here. It is on this last that the balance of power hangs, he pointed out. Within three years, he prophesied, the voting strength of this community would be two thirds of the entire vote of the union high school district.

Several weeks ago, two mass meetings were held to consider, publicly, the project of establishing a high school here. Out of these came instructions to the local school board to take steps to establish a ninth grade this year. A committee of Mayor J. E. Bishop, A. B. Marshall as head of the chamber of commerce, Roy W. Peacock as head of the Realty board, G. B. Dunham as secretary of the chamber of commerce and Raymond I. Brahams was appointed to consider methods of organizing a high school district. Mr. Thompson has been meeting with the committee as clerk of the school board.

A petition circulated by Mr. Brahams to ascertain what support would be given parents of pupils entering high school for a ninth grade here indicated a majority. A formal request was sent to the board of the Tustin union high school and was turned down by that body at a meeting at which, it was reported, no members of the committee were invited to be present. The reason given was that all plans were made for the ninth grade and the budget accepted.

Between this decision, however, and the circulating of the petition by Mr. Brahams, a petition was placed before parents of school pupils in which the advantages of Tustin were set forth, it is charged, 22 being induced to sign. Mr. Thompson said he believed that the funds from county and state which would go to Tustin, had something to do with the interest in keeping local pupils going to the Tustin high school. He estimated this sum as totaling about $42,000.

That the increased vote would permit securing complete control of the affairs of the Tustin high school if necessary was a point made by Mr. Thompson a method which might be used if there was a lack of co-operation in the efforts to separate the Laguna grammar school district from the union district in the effort to establish a high school here.

This completes a work which has covered a period of many years. The first stretch of track between Los Angeles and San Bernardino to be placed under automatic contro lwas through the Santa Ana canyon, following a head-on collision between two freight trains in 1919.

TEACHERS FOR WESTMINSTER SCHOOL NAMED

WESTMINSTER, Aug. 11—Final arrangements for the coming school term were completed at a school board meeting.

The faculty has been announced as follows.

Main building, James M. Monroe, eighth grade and principal; Mrs. Mildred Payne Murdy, seventh; Nelson R. Johansen, sixth; Miss Nellie E. French, fifth; Mrs. Jewell Brown, fourth; Miss Geneva MacMilan, third; Mrs. Mary E. Johanson, second; Miss Maxaline Armstrong, first; Miss Bessie Ward, first and second; Miss Irene C. Roberts, kindergarten.

Hoover building, John C. Lane, principal and sixth, seventh and eighth; Mrs. Ethel G. Paulk, third, fourth and fifth; Miss Myra Evans, first and second.

The extremely heavy enrollment in the seventh and eighth grades has made it imperative to have those grades taught at the Hoover school, also teachers especially adapted to the Americanization work and the language difficulty are in charge of this school. W. A. Broyles will continue as janitor of the two schools.

School will open on September 10 at 9 a. m. Ample means of transportation will be furnished those children living too far to walk to school.

At the meeting it was announced that the new school bus valued at $3,925.00 was secured for a discount of $178.10 on account of cash being paid, making the actual cost of the bus to the district at $3746.90.

The resignation of Mrs. Ora Scheiber was received from Missouri where Mrs. Scheiber is locating, was read and accepted at the meeting. Mrs. Scheiber is a former principal of the Westminster school and last year a teacher in the Hoover school.

The receipt of the resignation closes the lawsuit which Mrs. Scheiber had brought against the district to be retained as a teacher.

When the Centenary International Exposition in Antwerp, Belgium, was opened in June, Mayor Mackey of Philadelphia made a transatlantic telephone call. He talked from Antwerp.

5 SAVED FROM RIP TIDE DEATH BY LIFE GUARD

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Aug. 11. Sam Smith jr., 32, of 6320 Stafford avenue, Huntington Park, was drowned about 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon. The body was not recovered. He was married and had five children. Smith came to the beach Sunday with his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Smith, residing at the same address in Huntington Park. His wife and family were not at the beach with him.

Smith was one of a group of six men and boys swimming far out from shore at Twenty-third street, a mile from the municipal beach at the pier where life guards are on duty. A rip tide, or heavy swell, caught the swimmers and all six were carried out to sea. Samuel Smith, aged father of the man who was drowned, rushed for help. He reported to Policeman Robideaux at Main and Ocean, 19 blocks away, and Robideaux got Gene Belche, the life guard, in his auto and rushed him to Twenty-third street.

Samuel Smith jr. had disappeared beneath the waves, when Belche arrived. Swimming back and forth from the beach to where the five drowning men were struggling, Belche saved them all, bringing the weakest swimmer to shore each trip. Carl Rix, 1270 Fifth street San Bernardino, was in a state of collapse when Belche dragged his body from the water. He was rushed to the emergency hospital and Dr. Ralph E. Hawes revived him and he was able to go to his home in San Bernardino Sunday night.

The five men saved by Belche were George Grant, 1182 Fifth street, San Bernardino; Ralph Barner, 312 East Olive street, Redlands; Melvin Ward, 722 Rialto avenue, San Bernardino; Ted Rix, 1270 Fifth street, San Bernardino; Carl Rix, 1270 Fifth street, San Bernardino.

Belche dived about the point where Smith went down for an hour, but could not find the body. His aged mother and father waited in the city until late at night in the hope of hearing news of the finding of the body.

Working Girls In China Delivered From Loan Sharks

PEIPING, Aug. 11.—(UP)—Two thousand "sing-song" girls in Peiping are happy because the police have rounded up a score of money lenders charged with extortion.

The Chinese press says that many of these money-lenders, starting with a few dollars, have amassed fortunes of $100,000 or more by lending money to the girls at unlawful rates. The practice has continued for years.

Recently, say the newspapers, the money-lenders have become constantly more unreasonable, charging in some cases $1.50 daily interest on a $30 loan. Their greed proved their undoing.

One of the girls had a high official as a friend. He ordered an investigation which has continued for some weeks. The city detectives gathered evidence against the entire group, and when they had enough, made wholesale arrests.

The police found that about 2000 girls had signed notes which made them virtually slaves to the money lenders, and had to pay out most of their earnings in interest on small loans. In many cases a lifetime's work would not suffice to pay off the loan.

When city officials finally moved they acted drastically. All of the loan contracts were destroyed, and money-lenders were either jailed or heavily fined.

The girls have been warned not to contract any further loans of the kind. They now start with a clean slate, and know that the police will protect them in future.

CHICAGO BD. OF TRADE

CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—(UP)—A strong rally during the latter part of the session gave corn a higher close on the Board of Trade today after an erratic day. The market fluctuated widely and rose around 3c from the early lows at the last when shorts attempted to cover and found offerings small. Additional bullish private crop reports and a fair decrease in the visible supply were encouraging. The late strength in corn gave wheat a good recovery after a day of weaknes but the market was still sharply lower and sank again at the last, oats following.

At the close wheat was 2 to 2⅝c higher, corn was ⅝ to 1c higher and oats were ½ to ⅝c lower. Provisions were very weak to lower.

SHERLOCK HOLMES—Case of the "Gloria Scott" The Fatal Letter BY SIR ARTHUR CONAN DOYLE

Sherlock Holmes had handed me as we sat before the fire some yellowed papers, saying: "It would be worth your while, Watson, to glance these over. They are the documents in the extraordinary case of the Gloria Scott, and this is the message which struck Justice of the Peace Trevor dead when he read it."

"It was the first case in which I was ever engaged," he told me. I tried to picture Holmes as he must have been then in his college days, when he was developing the technique which made him the world-famous detective. Not greatly changed now, I suspected, except for the difference between youth and age.

The paper I held in my hand was a short note scrawled upon a half sheet of slate-gray paper. As I glanced up from reading this enigmatical message, Holmes was chuckling.
"You look a little bewildered," said he.
"I cannot see how such a message could inspire horror."

"Yet the fact remains," Holmes returned, "that the reader, who was a fine, robust old man, was knocked clean down by it as if it had been the butt end of a pistol!" © 1930 By Sir Arthur Conan Doyle A-1

THE NEW TARIFF BOARD

Here is hoping that President Hoover will pick out just the right men to serve on the new tariff board. A great many of the evils of the present tariff act can be overcome if the tariff board is composed of men who are not first of all protectionists and free traders, but rather scientifically-minded and with an outlook upon all industry rather than upon the few branches of industry which got all the "swag" when the tariff act was passed.

There is no reason why all the people should be taxed to keep alive certain industries which are sick unto death. If a man starves trying to make shoes when he could support his family in comfort by raising corn, we should hardly call him a benefactor. More likely we should call him a fool or an ignoramus. This is equally true of certain industries. There are some things that can be done better abroad than they can be here. While there are many things that can be done better and more profitably here than anywhere else in the world. If this country is to continue on the road to prosperity now that other countries are developing their resources as never before, it will be because we are doing so well things which we are fitted to do well, and giving up doing things that others can do better than we.

This will be the job of the new tariff commission. If the right men are appointed to that commission we shall be told by an authoritative body what goods need protection and what do not. The whole making of tariffs has been a log-rolling proposition. "You help me get a tariff on my goods and I will help you get a tariff on your goods." By such a system, the few get the benefits and the many are horn-swoggled into thinking that they are getting gold when they are only getting a worthless red brick. We were promised a real tariff commission when the present law was in process of making. Let us see just what we shall get. We are hopeful. We would be much disappointed if the old-time tariff commissioners got the job.

"There's my biggest scoop of the year," said the cub reporter warmly as the soda fountain clerk dropped a generous ball of ice cream in his plate.

A FIESTA EDITION

The fiesta edition of the Morning Press of Santa Barbara has just been received. Santa Barbara, with adjacent Montecito is a beautiful and wealthy city. The Morning Press has done justice to the city and occasion. Saying that is saying that it is a beautiful edition of a newspaper and a most impressive publication. One idea stands out preeminent in the Morning Press' presentation of Santa Barbara. It is the glorification of the homes. Some cities have impressive and comfortable apartment houses where the majority of the people live. In other places emphasis is placed upon the home. Santa Barbara and Montecito are among these.

Santa Barbara is unique in the number of beautiful homes and gardens. We can sit back and be envious of the wealth that makes it possible to have such extensive and elaborate and beautiful estates, or we can come to a new appreciation of home by seeing how it had been glorified in Santa Barbara and do a little glorification of our own. There are few homes which wouldn't be better for some modest improvements which love and devotion and care could bring about. And devotion and sacrifice for the home makes it more precious. Santa Ana is a city with beauty, too, and the best part of it is that much of the beauty is not shut away as it is so frequently, hid behind hedges and walls in Santa Barbara. As time passes, however, there are more activities which attract one away from the garden and home. We must continue to care for what we have here and make it even prettier.

The recent installation of a $7000 soda fountain on the U. S. cruiser Memphis is what you might call a new naval treat.

TRANSPORTATION SERVICE

Action on the part of the city council to regulate the taxi and bus industry in Santa Ana is to be commended, providing the ordinance drawn up by the city attorney is not so drastic in its requirements that it will force the taxis to suspend operations.

Santa Ana is of such proportions that both services are needed. Neither the bus nor the taxi lines serve in such a manner that the city could get along with but one service.

The suggestion of the council that the taxis be painted a uniform color seems to be a fair one and one we believe the taxi companies will adopt without question.

However, we believe that the taxi owners should be given the privilege of naming their own rates. Undoubtedly they are better qualified to know what their charges must be to return an earning on their investments. The matter of zones could easily be agreed upon in a conference of the taxi men and the council members.

The city attorney at present is communicating with the various cities in California in an effort to ascertain how the transportation is handled and the information undoubtedly will be used advantageously for both the city and the taxi companies.

FINDING OIL

A farmer in New Jersey has been in the habit of pumping his water out of a well into a tank in the house by an electric motor. It was good water until one morning he got up to wash himself and draw water for his breakfast only to find that oil was running out of every faucet in the house. An examination of the tank showed that it was full of oil. And now he is dreaming of wealth.

Lucky for him, however, that the neighbors have not struck oil, and that good water is still obtainable within a reasonable distance. It would be a calamity if his good fortune should become the good fortune of everybody. We recall the story of Midas who coveted gold, and when his desires were realized everything turned to gold. The water he would drink, the food he would eat, the clothes he would wear, everything he touched, became gold; and the poor fellow became miserable beyond all description. We recall the Biblical story of Dives in the story of Lazarus and the rich man. Dives, in the other world, just asked for a drink of water. He wanted and needed nothing else. It was John Lathrop Motley who once said that heaven was largely a matter of good companionship and good water.

And so for us, we do not envy overmuch the farmer who found oil running out of every faucet. Doubtless, the money that comes from oil can buy many desirable things. But a drink of good, pure, cool water from the spring is not to be despised. A whole barrel of oil is not so satisfying as a drink from the spring by the roadside. The moral of all of which is: don't envy too much the New Jersey farmer. His troubles may be just beginning. He has had good water and good friends hitherto. If the oil keeps on flowing out of his faucets, he may have money. But what is money when compared with good water and good friends? Not that they are mutually exclusive. But if a choice is to be made, give us the last rather than the first.

Perhaps the only significance attached to the visit to England recently of King Feisel of Irak is that it has made crossword puzzle makers conscious of a couple of swell words.

A RADIO CURFEW

The city council of Boston has passed an ordinance prohibiting the use of the radio between 11 p. m. and 7 a. m., excepting when capable of being heard only by a limited number of people within the confines of a dwelling house or by people outside within a radius of fifty feet.

Such an ordinance is thoroughly in keeping with the traditions of the old Puritan city. The curfew was brought over by the early settlers, and rigidly enforced against youth and children. If we scoff at the old uses of the curfew we certainly cannot scoff at this new use of the curfew so far as it relates to limiting the use of the radio. Sooner or later something will have to be done everywhere to regulate the use of the radio. In large cities where houses are close together the indiscriminate use of the radio has become an intolerable nuisance. Recently a complaint was lodged against a woman who started her radio the moment she got up, and kept it going all day at its loudest. Whether she was out marketing in the morning, or at the whist party in the afternoon, or at the movies in the evening, the radio continued at full blast. There was no rest for the neighbors on adjoining piazzas or sleeping rooms.

This thoughtlessness of the few has been everywhere manifest; and Boston has started a very necessary movement to abate such nuisances. We might be able to stand it if the selections were of the kind we enjoy, but when there is a continuous crashing of the ears with strident and blaring jazz of one kind or another, its effect upon the spirit is quite as ravishing as it is upon the ears. We shall be interested to see if the example of Boston is to be followed in other parts of the country.

Long and Short of It For Service Candidate

San Francisco Chronicle

It seems tough luck for a boy otherwise qualified to be rejected by the Naval Academy because he is too large. Six feet four, he might have looked very well in Dick Glendon's boat at Poughkeepsie even if the international movement to cut down the size of war craft made it unlikely that he would fit into any berth on a fighting ship.

Pleasantries apart, one may wonder whether the boy's 225 pounds might not hide another Farragut, just as the four feet eleven of a rejected West Point candidate might conceal the raw material of a Napoleon.

It may be assumed, however, that the specifications on the length of candidates have a sound reason. Yet we think even Navy men will not kick if the board waives the disability of the long candidate. He is said to have had some football experience and any time now West Point and Annapolis may sign a treaty of peace and resume hostilities.

Criminal Round-up By a Private Citizen

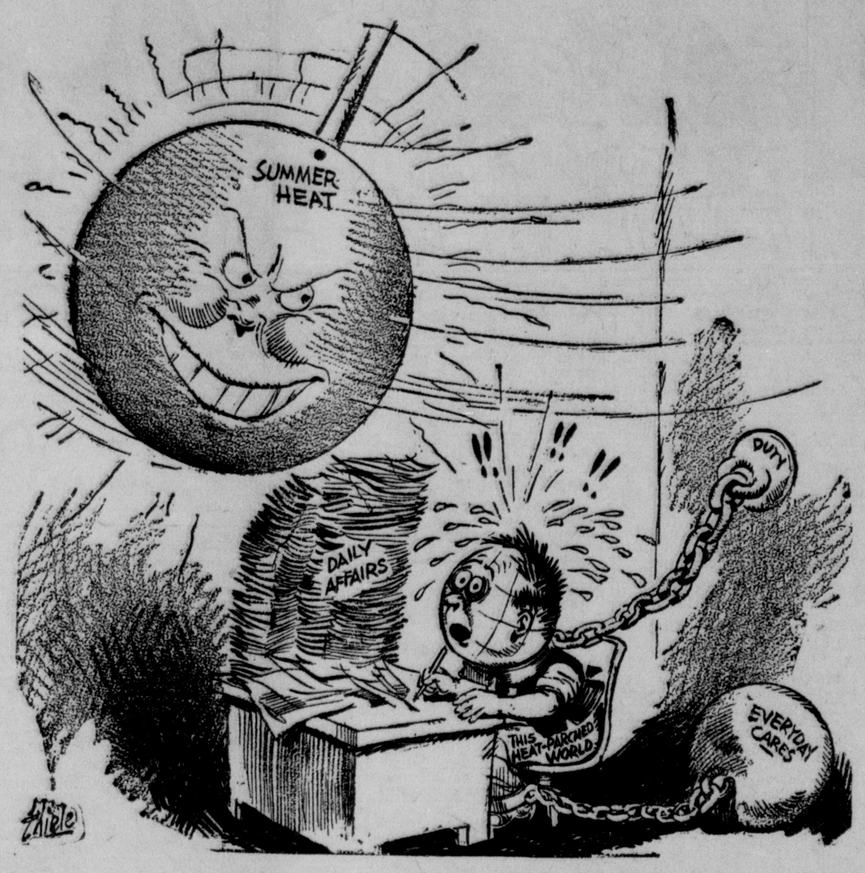

San Bernardino Sun

It is possible, after all, to catch criminals and punish crime. Anyone who questions this statement may meditate on the case of Arthur W. Cutten of Chicago.

Mr. Cutten, a respected and prosperous business man, was robbed in his home eight years ago by nine burglars. They not only got a lot of valuable jewelry but subjected the owner to the indignity of locking him in a vault. It was a sensational case. The police tackled it, but got nowhere and soon lost interest. Mr. Cutten tackled it himself, then, and kept right on. He hired good detectives and paid them out of his own pocket. He gathered evidence, obtained arrests and indictments, pressed the cases and got results.

Did we say results? Eight of those rash burglars are in prison, and the ninth, giving up all hope of going "unwhipped of justice," has now surrendered.

The Pit and the Pendulum!

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

THE AVERAGE MAN

Of a placid and mild disposition,
It would scare me extremely to meet
A gunman employed on his mission
Of sandbagging folks on the street.
I would quail in the presence of danger,
And I'd probably faint with affright,
If I noticed an evil faced stranger
Padding 'round in my bed room at night.
But whenever such birds in the "speakies" I see
They supply entertainment to me.

To the haunts where the gangsters forgather
I am never disposed to repair,
To state the cold truth, I should rather
Encounter a wolf in its lair.
No smug visaged butter and egg man
To the nearest policeman would fly
At sight of a gun-toting yegg-man
In any more hurry than I.
Yet three or four times every month I will go
To witness their crimes in a show.

I was never addicted to combat,
Contention or struggle or strife,
To be calm and serene as a wombat
Has been ever my habit of life.
I avoid any sinister glances
From men who would fain be my foes
For I'd rather not take any chances
Of getting a punch on the nose.
But when prize fighters wallop and counter and swing,
I am always right up near the ring.

August and October

By WILLIAM TRUFANT FOSTER and WADDILL CATCHINGS

In our daily article the fifteenth of last October, we observed that commodity prices had been falling for four months "at an alarming rate." We foresaw the usual result. We said that "if nothing is done toward stopping this fall in prices, there will be every reason to expect a serious business depression before next spring."

"The Federal Reserve Board," we explained, "can stop the fall whenever it decides to do so, provided it decides soon enough. There is no mystery about the matter. Prices are falling because the supply of bank credit is not enough to maintain the growth of business. The supply is insufficient solely because the Reserve Board has made it insufficient. The present gold reserves are ample, under the law, to support about double the present volume of bank credit. If the fall in prices DOES continue, if the result is another hard winter of unemployment, the cause will not be a real dearth of credit, for the credit stringency has been deliberately created. The business depression, if it comes, will be wholly monetary, artificial and unnecessary."

That was our opinion then. It is still our opinion.

As a matter of fact, nothing WAS done to stop the fall in commodity prices, and the business depression came as predicted.

That is now a matter of history. We call attention to what happened because it is just as important in August of this year, as it was in October of last year, to understand the relation between the quantity of money in circulation and trade depressions. We cannot possibly recover from the present slump in business while money in circulation remains at the present low level. That is a "quantity theory of money" from which there is no escape. Any one who accepts the multiplication table HAS to accept that theory. Tomorrow we shall explain why.

Little Benny's Note Book by Lee Pape

Me and ma was coming home from downtown and we saw Leroy Shoosters mother on her frunt steps, ma saying,Something tells me her grand dawter has had her tooth and I just know she'll crow over me like a merciless fiend because Willy hasent had his yet. Well, Id love to find out but Im determined not to give her the satisfaction of asking her outrite in so many pointblank werds.

And when we got up to the Shoosters house me stopped going pass, saying, What did you think of the heet today?

I dident think much of it, to tell the truth, Mrs. Shooster sed. But I sippose we've got to expect it at this time of year, she sed, and ma sed, I suppose so, but it would be nice if we could save a little of it for winter.

Izzent it the truth, Mrs. Shooster sed, and ma sed, Nuthing new with your fokes, I sippose? she sed and Mrs. Shooster sed, Nobody needs a doctor, touch wood, thank goodness, as we have our health we have everything, thats what I always say, and ma sed, Well, I must be on my way.

And we kepp on going, ma saying, It izzent out yet or elts she would of jumped at the chance to tell me like a drowning man jumping at a straw. Hee hee I can read her like a book, she sed.

Wich just then I looked back and Mrs. Shooster was still there looking after ma with a sattisfied expression as if she was thinking the same thing.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

IF CAESAR COULD SPEAK

If communication between the mortal and post-mortal worlds were practicable, I think Julius Caesar would want just now to write a letter to the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations.

And here are some of the things I think he would have in mind as he wrote:

Like the Senators who deal with the foreign policy of the United States, he once faced the responsibility of framing policies of contact with other regions that would bring peace, prestige, profit, and protection to his people.

As he undertook to write to the American Senators out of that experience, I think his letter would reveal a chastened Caesar, quite cured of his former confidence in armed might and ambitious imperialism as guaranties of peace, prestige, profit, and protection.

I think he would have difficulty in understading how any intelligent American, at all conversant with the world history of the last two thousand years, could play swashbuckling jingo or believe in the beneficience of the big stick.

Out of his hindsight, which he would be the first to admit to be better than his foresight, the great Caesar would, I think, call attention to the fact that virtually everything he achieved through a display of Russian power has passed away or fallen into other hands, while the things that came into life through a development of Roman culture have survived and today bear all the earmarks of an assured immortality.

I think Caesar would therefore urge the Senators of the Committee on Foreign Relations to keep America clean of the poison of imperialism, economic as well as political, and to make every discussion and decision respecting foreign policy contribute to a world politics that shall be a cooperation of national cultures rather than a competition of national armies and navies.

Certainly the Caesar of the Gallic Wars and the wide-sweeping dominion of Rome with its lusty legions would be the last to counsel a puling pacifism. He would assuredly advise an intelligent preparedness against possible emergencies. But I suspect that his centuries of quiet looking on at the human show would have convinced him that the ultimate strength of a people is its intelligence and its culture, not its military power.

And so I think he would say to the American Senators concerned with foreign policy, "Take the advice of an old warrior, and beware of the jingo. Be sure you are decently protected against wanton assault, but don't go about with a chip on your shoulder, for if you do, sooner or later, someone will strike at the chip and hit your head. My own career tells me that it is only now and then that the politics of naked power pays."

OUR CHILDREN

CANTANKEROUS YOUTH

"What is to be done with a 16-year-old boy who is earning his own living, staying at home with his grandmother and his aunt, and doing exactly what he pleases? The worst of it is that he goes out about twice a week and stays out until after midnight and refuses to tell where he has been. Should not a boy of this age tell his people where he is going and what he intends to do?"

Suppose he did tell. What good would it do? If he told the truth and shocked his family, what good would that do? If they told him to stay home, he would walk out as usual. If he told a lie, and he would be very likely to do so, what possible good would that do?

You see, when a boy reaches the age of adolescence and self-support it is a bit late to begin throwing the safeguards of home about him. All that has to be done when the boy is a dependent, helpless, searching child. He will take instruction and guidance then, if ever. If he is trained then to confide in his family, if experience with them teaches him the wisdom of that way, he will not turn from it. But if all home influence is in abeyance until adolescence all one can do is pray.

Force is out of the question. You cannot force a boy or a girl to give you their confidence and to rest upon your judgment. And you expect an adolescent to be able to sustain himself, do you not? If a boy or girl of that age has not been trained to self-protection and self-guidance, what is to be done but to let them go and hope for the best?

The background of the mind is the all-powerful force. Whatever experiences have registered most firmly in the mind of the child will be the force that guides him. If "to take," is stronger than "to give," "to take," wins out.

But that is not very helpful when one is facing such a situation. What is to be done with the adolescent who is heading into trouble? Try to interest someone outside the family, someone the child likes, in his welfare. Very often such a one has more influence for good than any member of the family can hope to have.

It is the nature of children to grown up, to become self-sustaining and independent persons, away from home. A child is going away from home from the day he is born. That is as it should be and our training should take that into consideration. But when he definitely cuts loose from home, and he is not self-sufficient, try to tie him to some good man or women who understands and who can help.

Don't make the mistake of trying to force things. Don't intercept mail, read notes not intended for you, pry into the young person's affairs. Treat him as a grown-up person. Drop all disciplinary notions. The time for them has long passed. Treat this child as what he is, a person. If he wants help he will ask for it and all you can do is to content your soul in patience, and hope and pray.

TODAY IS THE ANNIVERSARY OF

STEAM NAVIGATION

On August 11, 1807, Robert Fulton won recognition as the first man to make steam navigation commercially successful when he sailed his steamboat. The Claremont, up the Hudson river from New York to Albany, a journey of 150 miles.

In the presence of thousands of astonished spectators, The Clermont started on its epochal trip, making an average speed of five miles an hour, which was considered a great achievement. It took 32 hours to reach Albany.

When Fulton first proposed the idea of steam navigation he met with rebuke on all sides. As he himself said: "When I was building my first steamer in New York the work was viewed by the public either with carelessness or contempt, as a useless scheme. My friends, indeed, were civil, but they were shy. As I had occasion to pass daily to and from the building yard while my boat was in progress, I often loitered unknown near idle groups of strangers, and heard their remarks. Some scoff and sneer and ridicule. My work was always spoken of as Fulton's Folly."

Though he had great success in the construction of steamboats, various lawsuits in which he was engaged to the use of some of his patents, prevented him from ever becoming wealthy.

Department Store Balcony Collapses; 35 Are Injured

Firemen, Police and Volunteers Work Feverishly to Extricate Victims

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Aug. 11.—(UP)—A balcony of the Rhodes Jennings department store collapsed today as scores of women bargain hunters sought out dishes in a $1 sale, causing injuries to at least 35.

Out of the dust and debris, and amid shrieks from injured and panicky shoppers, police and firemen lifted the injured, many of whom were children. Only six were reported seriously hurt at hospitals to which they were taken and none was expected to die.

It was estimated that 150 persons were on the floor when the balcony suddenly dropped with a roar which could be heard throughout the block.

Huge clouds of dust rolled from the windows and doors of the building, choking the crowd which quickly became a fighting, screaming mob. The dust cloud handicapped firemen and police who were rushed to the store from all parts of the city. An automatic sprinkler system which opened during the confusion, poured hundreds of gallons of water upon the struggling mass of people. Many thought the building was afire and it heightened the excitement of the crowds.

Firemen, police and volunteers worked for an hour extricating the injured from the wreckage. The injured were rushed to hospitals in ambulances, police patrols and private automobiles.

Police physicians established temporary relief quarters near the store and as persons were treated had them removed to hospitals. The majority of the injured were women and children. Six were

MYSTERY AIR PILOT BOMBS ON KENTUCKY MINES

War Between Union and Non-union Miners Results in Near Tragedy

PROVIDENCE, Ky., Aug. 11.—(UP)—An orange monoplane bombed five coal mines in the vicinity of Providence today with bundles of dynamite laden with iron slugs.

Only one of the bombs exploded, G. E. Palmer, manager of the Diamond mine which was one of those bombed, told the United Press. No one was killed or injured although many miners were at work.

The monoplane appeared about 6 a. m. Palmer said and after dropping its load of home made bombs, sailed back toward Illinois.

Besides the Diamond mine, the Lufton and the Rutman, all in operation were made targets of the air bomber. In addition an abandoned mine also was aimed at but the bomb did not explode.

Witnesses said the plane was an old-fashioned monoplane, painted a brilliant orange and bore the number 5088.

Falls Near Miners

One of the bombs fell within 100 yards of a crowd of miners. It exploded, showering the vicinity with iron slugs but none was struck.

Palmer said several hundred workers are employed at the four mines and had the aim of the mysterious aviator been better the death list might have been high.

The airplane swooped low over the mines as the bombs were dropped. At the Luton mine a guard opened fire on the low-flying aviator with an automatic rifle. The fire forced the flier to take altitude; one of two bombs dropped there exploded.

The mystery plane circled each mine as the bombs were dropped and then sailed off to the next one on its mission of death.

Altogether 750 miners are at work in the area, Palmer said, all non-union workers. He attributed the early morning bombing attempt to a feud between the unionists and non-unionists.

Sympathy, he said, in Providence is largely with the non-union workers.

Earlier in the morning, Palmer said, there had been four bombings in Providence, a mining town of 5000 persons; the bombs ex-

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO, Aug. 11.—Home again after her first visit outside of San Juan Capistrano in 27 years, Mrs. Valveneda Aguilar today recalled vivid memories of the "old days."

Mrs. Aguilar attended the Spanish fiesta held last week in Santa Barbara. With her she took a heavy black silk dress, ruffled and made in the style of a century ago, that was owned by her grandmother, and a number of dress accessories, including Spanish shawls, a large comb and old jewelry. She wore the quaint costume in the pageant. It was in 1903 that Mrs. Aguilar made her last trip outside of Capistrano.

Mrs. Aguilar, or as she likes to write her name, Valvaneda R. De Aguilar, is one of the few remaining residents of this vicinity whose history is linked with the early days of San Juan Capistrano. She is literally a child of the mission, having been born in the old west wing of the building, known as the barracks. A few days prior to her birth the home of her father, Jose R. Ruiz, was partly destroyed by fire, and the family took shelter at the old mission. A few days later, on the last day of February, 1876 little Valvaneda arrived.

Born In Mission

Old records, still in the mission, show her birth announcement, written by the mission father, and entered, "February, 29, 1876." From that time until the present she has lived in the shadow of the mission walls, the old adobe building which belonged to the Ruiz family being located just across the highway, on what is now the intersection of the Ortega highway and Oriental street.

Here in this quaint old adobe house, which is more than 125 years old, she has passed her life. She was married in early womanhood and received as a gift from her father, her girlhood home. Here she has raised five children, four boys and a girl, of her own, and several orphaned nephews as well. During the World war she proudly displayed a flag, carrying five stars, which waved from the top of her home, thus announcing to the world that Frank and Blas and Joe, her sons, and Emil Ruiz, a nephew and Paul Arvise, lads she had raised, were "doing their bit." This flag is now one of her most treasured possessions.

Recalls Early History

Mrs. Aguilar, who is remarkably alert for her age, recalls many interesting stories of early Capis-

O'BRINE AND JACKSON UP 512 HOURS

St. Louis Birdmen Drop Note This Morning Saying 1000 Hours Object

TWO DAYS TO FLY

Former Title Holders Will Break Record on Wednesday at 9:53 a. m.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 11.—(UP)—The goal of the St. Louis endurance fliers, Dale Jackson and Forest O'Brine is 1,000 hours in the air, they messaged today as they flew the monoplane Greater St. Louis past the 512 hours mark, and within two days of the Hunter Brothers record of 553 hours.

In a radio message fromt the plane, O'Brine said, "It looks like we might stay up 1,000 hours. We don't know when we're coming down. It may be next week or it may be next month."

At 3:11 p. m. they had been aloft 512 hours.

The two fliers, whose sense of humor is still functioning as well as their Curtiss Challenger motor, sent down instructions for the usual 70 gallons of gas and nine of oil on the 112th refueling contact. O'Brine sang the chorus of "Singing in the Bathtub" to those below until cut off by his companion.

Newspapermen and radio stations already have taken up their vigil.

The fliers will establish a new record at 9:53 A. M., C. S. T., Wednesday, if they still are aloft.

SEA GULL WRECKS PLANE PROPELLOR

LONG BEACH, Calif., Aug. 11.—(UP)— Clyde Stultz, student aviator, and Arthur Drake, his instructor, today recounted how they narrowly escaped death in a mid-air collision with a sea gull.

The gull flew headon into the propellor, smashing the whirling blades to splinters, they said. Stultz brought the plane down on a crowded boulevard, skillfully avoiding a number of automobiles and pedestrians, but could not keep it from smashing into a telephone pole. Both were unhurt.

HAWKS POSTPONES L. A.-N. Y. FLIGHT

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 11.—(UP)—The threat of bad weather and not a court order today caused Capt. Frank M. Hawks, transcontinental record holder, to postpone indefinitely a return speed flight to New York.

Hawks set an east-west record of 14 hours 50 minutes 43 seconds on a flight to Los Angeles last week and had planned to take off this morning for New York in an attempt to break the mark for this trip of 14 hours 45 minutes 23 seconds held by Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh.

Hawks said he will start the flight as soon as the weather clears. He will make the same refueling stops as on the east-west journey including Albuquerque, Wichita, Indianapolis and Columbus.

Says France And Italy To Decide Navy Limitations

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., Aug. 11.—(UP) — Italy and France eventually will determine world naval limitations under the London naval treaty, D. W. Wainhouse, assistant director of research of the Council of Foreign Relations, told the Institute of Politics today.

Wainhouse said it now appeared that naval limitation will not be accomplished by the treaty.

France is demanding a security she never sought when the German navy was less than two days' distance from her ports, he said. Pointing out that prior to the World War France concentrated her entire fleet in the Mediterranean. Now France demands not only a navy equal to that of Italy, but also large enough for defense of her Atlantic coast.

Two Die In Fight Between Officers And Rum Runners

LA FERIA, Tex., Aug. 11.—(UP) A battle between border patrol, customs and Hidalgo county officers and an alleged group of rum runners at Hargill near here had taken two lives and caused severe injuries to a third person.

The dead were: Customs Inspector Bert Ellison, 28, and Margarite Rodriguez, 25. Rodriguez' brother, Victor, was wounded severely.

KENTUCKY CROPS DAMAGED BY STORM

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 11.—(UP)—Northern Kentucky bore the scars today of a quarter million dollars storm which leveled crops and buildings between here and Lexington and resulted in injuries to at least six persons.

An 80-mile wind, accompanied by severe electrical disturbances, uprooted trees, tore the roofs off houses, disrupted communications, but at the same time did some good in that it broke a serious heat wave of many weeks' duration.

All the known injured were residents of Louisville who were struck by flying debris. It was feared other casualties would be reported when communications were resumed with several small towns.

PASTOR KILLED

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 11.—Funeral services for the Rev. Chauncey J. Dr. Hawkins met almost instant death when the automobile in which he was riding with his two sons plunged over an embankment on the Badger-Orosi highway.

WISCONSIN FIGHTS FIVE FOREST FIRES

ASHLAND, Wis., Aug. 11—(UP)—Five forest fires were being fought today in Wisconsin timberlines.

In the Moquah National forest, 17 miles west of here, 1500 acres of small trees and slashings were burned over by flames that continued to spread despite the battle put up by rangers and a crew of 150 volunteers.

Other fires burned in timbered areas near Cayuga in Ashland county, at Odanah in the Bad River reservation, near Drummond in Bayfield county and in the vicinity of Mellen.

The fire near Drummond seriously menaced summer cottages while advancing flames in northeastern Wisconsin moved toward a million feet of decked hemlock logs in its path.

COMPLAINT IS FILED AGAINST COAL CONCERNS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—(UP)—Charges of unfair methods of competition in interstate commerce in violation of the federal trade commission act were brought today by the federal trade commission against the local coal dealers' association, the Utah Coal Producers' association, and the Retail Fuel Dealers' association of Utah.

The commission issued a complaint charging the defendants with entering into a "conspiracy to restrain, restrict and suppress competition in the sale and distribution of coal in interstate commerce" by refusing to recognize other than its own members as retail coal dealers and by refusing to transport or sell coal to other than those members.

The commission also charged the three associations with entering into an agreement whereby their recognized retailers would have "the exclusive business" of selling coal to "all domestic consumers, all state, county and municipalities, and schools where truck or wagon service is required and to the employees of industrial concerns."

The effort of these agreements, the commission declared, "was to limit and allot the sale of coal in interstate commerce" to the members of the three associations in restraint of trade.

The commission's charges affect 311 members of the three associations doing business in Idaho, Montana, Oregon Washington and Utah.

A complaint of unfair trade practices was made privately to the defendants two months ago it was learned but no corrective measures were taken and the charges made public today cite the three defendants to show cause why a "cease and desist order" should not be issued. If a cease and desist order is issued and the associations and their members fail to heed it the charges will be filed in court by the commission.

Calvin Coolidge Says

By CALVIN COOLIDGE

Former President of the United States

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Aug. 11.—Good health is one of our chief national assets. Yet, in site of all the progress that has been made in the science of hygiene, the yearly losses in this country from the ravages of disease run into many hundreds of millions of dollars.

The discouraging feature of the situation is that much of this is needless. With the present knowledge of medicine, surgery and dentistry, and the possibilities of preventive measures, oftentimes illness is only personal carelessness.

People give altogether too little attention to their health. They neglect to get sufficient fresh air and exercise. They are not careful enough of their diet. They overstrain their physical and nervous systems with disastrous results. Because illness makes us a liability to ourselves, our family and our community, we all have a personal obligation to keep well. To neglect the health is one of the most wasteful things a person can do. It is a violation of a moral duty. While both state and national agencies are alert to preserve health, the real success of all their efforts lies in the vigilance of the individual. If we would all think and try to live healthful lives we would greatly increase the power of the nation.

HOOVER TAKES UP RELIEF FOR DROUGHT AREA

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—(UP)—Unemployment and disease are complicating a situation already made critical by the drought, President Hoover was informed today as he pressed forward with his organization of relief work for the most seriously affected areas.

John Barton Payne, chairman of the American Red Cross, gave Mr. Hoover a report collected from Red Cross agencies in 18 states. The need of assistance was shown, he said, by unemployment among farm hands in some localities and an unusually large number of cases of typhoid and pellegra. In some places actual starvation conditions were threatened, he said.

The president spent a busy day after a week-end in Virginia. In addition to seeing callers who reported upon drought conditions and helped with relief plans, Mr. Hoover prepared for the meeting of governors or their representatives from 12 drought-stricken states Thursday.

Alfred P. Thom, general counsel of the Association of American Railway executives, informed Mr. Hoover that railroads while ready to co-operate, desired not to assist profiteering in livestock feed.

Secretary of Agriculture Hyde gave the president the latest information regarding conditions.

Mr. Hoover promised callers he would use every possible government agency to meet the situation and told them he would check their reports with those collected by the agriculture department.

The Red Cross report indicated conditions were most severe in Virginia, Kentucky and Arkansas.

The Red Cross report from Alabama estimated the state cotton crop at 62 per cent normal and said typhoid cases are numerous.

INDIANS AID HUNT FOR DESERT BANDITS

NEEDLES, Calif., Aug. 11.—(UP)—Deputy sheriffs, Indians and an airplane continued a search in the desert today for three bandits who waylaid two Hollywood importers and robbed them of $55,000 in silks and tapestries.

Thomas Ashrawy a Syrian, and Soby Hallas, his companion, said they were taking the cargo to New York in a specially built automobile. Twenty miles from Needles the three men halted them with revolvers and took the cargo and $350 cash, they reported.

Authorities saw a possible connection with the robbery in a fire at a Needles hangar, in which one of the planes used in the manhunt was burned.

"ALFALFA BILL" MURRAY IN OKLAHOMA FINALS TUESDAY

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 11—(UP)—Bill Murray trekked into the torrid heat of Tishomingo today, removed his soiled campaign shirt, dipped his mustache into a pitcher of ice water and cooly declared he had rested his case as "a candidate for impeachment."

Murray is the man mentioned by most informants, including himself, to be Oklahoma's next governor. Oklahoma's hottest campaign since the roaring nineties will be climaxed Tuesday in a final primary election.

Tishomingo is the territorial town where Bill settled down in a house with a dirt floor, took himself an Indian wife and Indian land, read and wrote books and emerged "the sage" of Oklahoma politics.

He wrote the state constitution, sat in congress and more recently adventured five years as an American colonist in Bolivia. Today he was slated to win Tuesday over Frank Buttram, wealthy oil man and philanthropist. This would make Murray the Democratic nominee for governor, an attainment usually equivalent to election.

Murray said attempts were already on foot to impeach him. Even as far back as January 8, when he announced his platform "to jar the political trust loose from control of the state," Bill took a long sight down the barrel of his campaign gun and announced "be it so—then I am a candidate for impeachment."

Murray, known as "Alfalfa Bill," is poison ivy to his critics. His oratory against "high binders and flunkies," his platform for tax revision and legislation for "the great middle class," and his rustic appeal sent him into the run-off primary with a 70,000 vote lead over Buttram. It also brought the impeachment threat.

"But I'll impeach my impeachers," Murray said.

"If the legislature tries to impeach me, it will be like a bunch of jackrabbits trying to pull a wildcat from a tree."

ties varies from one-third to one-half while the corn loss south of Springfield was estimated between 50 and 75 per cent and other crops 50 per cent.

Heavy rains on August 6 aided the situation in Iowa where the corn loss was estimated 20 to 40 per cent.

In eastern Kansas conditions were described as serious with the prediction that corn will be 60 per cent normal if rains come within the next few days.

The Kentucky water shortage was described as "alarming."

Total failure of the old corn crop was reported from Mississippi. Pellagra, typhoid and employment conditions there were reported abnormal.

Conditions also were said to be generally serious in southern Missouri although health conditions are not affected. The same health outlook was reported by Montana where it was stated, however, that 50 per cent or more of the crops are destroyed. Half normal crops were reported by South Dakota.

GET 155 BOTTLES OF BEER IN RAIDS

One hundred and fifty-five bottles of beer were confiscated by officers in two raids in El Modena and Orange over the week end.

E. Ruiz, 40, of El Modena, was arrested on a charge of possession, when Constable George Bartley, Deputy Sheriff Harry Carter and Robert Sandon, investigator for the district attorney's office, raided his place Saturday night. One hundred bottles of beer and twelve pints of whiskey were found in a shed in the rear of his home, officers said.

Ruiz was fined $300 when he appeared before Judge G. W. Ingle in Orange this morning. He paid the fine.

Mrs. Santiago Suda, a cafe proprietor in Sonoratown, Orange, was arrested by Officers Joe Johnson and A. H. Westerman at 2:30 o'clock Sunday morning on a charge of possession. Fifty-five bottles of beer were found in a wood pile at the rear of the cafe, officers said.

Santa Ana Baby Is Paralysis Patient

Alene Lorene Howell, six-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Howell, of 1114 Oak street, Santa Ana, is another victim of infantile paralysis, according to a report at the health department today.

Partial paralysis of the leg and vomiting were the symptoms that were first noticed. It is not known how the baby became infected. There are seven in the family, including four children besides Alice. They will be quarantined until further notice by the health authorities.

trano life. Most vivid of these is concerned with the time when malefactors from Los Angeles known as "manilas," under the leadership of the one-eyed bandit, Chino Varelas, raided the town, striking terror to its peaceful inhabitants. Then it was that the heavy wooden shutters which hang at the tiny slit-like windows of Aguilar home, were closed, and the wooden door barred, and little Valvaneda, with other members of her family, hid themselves beneath feather beds, bedding and piles of clothing.

During this raid Varelas demanded shelter at the mission, but Don Marcus Forster, at that time owner of the property, who had barracaded himself and a few faithful friends within the section now used as the curio shop, refused to open the doors, and the outlaw turned his attention to the store, which was conducted by Michael Kroszenski, a Russian Pole, in the adobe building now owned by Don Juan Aguilar, second son of Mrs. Aguilar. Here he and his band of outlaws established themselves, and proceeded to raid the town.

Man Shot Down

In the rear of this building George Flughardt conducted a small trading post, and to him came Chola Martina, belle of Capistrano, with a demand that he open his doors, locked and barred against the outlaws. Chola Martina had gotten into some sort of a difficulty, and had borrowed money from Flughardt, giving as security a beautiful shawl. This shawl she now wanted, perhaps to dazzle the eyes of the bandits, and she came with money in her hand to redeem it. The trader at first refused to open his door, but at length yielded to the woman's demand, and appeared with the shawl. As she received it from his hands, Chino Varelas, who was standing nearby, shot the man in cold blood.

The killing of Flugharat was the signal for a general outbreak on the part of the outlaws, and the natives fled for their lives. The store of Kroszenski was broken into and goods scattered all over the street. Kroszenski escaped death by running across the street to the tavern, owned by Tomas Burrill. At the entrance stood a large deep bread basket, and the panic stricken merchant, realizing the outlaws were close behind him, turned the basket over, and hid beneath.

This raid stands out vividly in the memory of Mrs. Agular, and in the old cedar chests which stand against the walls of her home are several articles which were picked out of the street, from things taken by the outlaws from the Kroszenski store.

Mrs. Aguilar clings to the ways of her youth. Recently her son, Don Juan, now one of the guides at the mission, installed lights and gas in the old Aguilar home, but his mother refused to have them placed in her room, saying she preferred the candle and wood stove she had always used.

BANDIT TRIO GETS $16 AT GAS STATION

Three unmasked bandits, one described as short and the other two tall, late Saturday night, held up and robbed the service station operated by Clayton Wilson, 22, located at Seventeenth street and Clinton avenue, near Berrydale avenue, according to a report made to the sheriff's office.

The three men drove up to the station in a big black sedan, Wilson reported, and the shorter one got out of the car, and producing a pistol, ordered all the money in the place. When Wilson hesitated, he was struck over the head with the pistol and knocked down.

The "short" bandit then took the cash register, together with a slot machine, and after putting them both in the back seat of the car, drove away.

The cash register contained $16 in cash, it was reported.

PLANS EXPEDITION

His latest expedition will concentrate on finding traces of the ancestors of the "Peking Woman."

Suffers Knife Wounds In Liquor Brawl

Following what officers termed as a drunken brawl, one man today was in the county hospital suffering from a wound in the left hip, and another, charged with assault with a deadly weapon, was in the county jail.

The brawl took place at the Mexican settlement of La Jolla at 5 o'clock this morning. Joe Guerra was stabbed in the fight, he reported to the Anaheim police, who took him to the county hospital.

Deputy Sheriff's Steward and Buckles arrested Porfirio Rico, 42, several hours later and are holding him as Guerra's attacker.

Allen. Turner it was charged in the complaint, was driving a motor car on the Santa Ana canyon road July 20 while intoxicated. Witnesses today included Dr. R. A. Cushman, State Highway Patrolman George Stinson and Deputy Sheriff Harry Carter.

Members of the jury who will weigh the evidence introduced and determine the prisoner's guilt or innocence are Mrs. Alice Stephens, Mrs. Cecil P. Bonebrake, H. G. Moberly, Mrs. Katherine Manz, Carrie A. Love, Frank McLaughlin, Robert M. Charles, Henry Marquart, Austin Cody, B. F. McIndo, John Meurs and J. G. Mitchell.

ploded harmlessly, apparently having been placed so that no one would be injured or any property damaged.

Climaxes Trouble

The bombing this morning climaxed a series of troublesome incidents, Palmer said. Guards at the Diamond mine have been fired on. A house was burned mysteriously on the Diamond property.

Palmer said he believed the bombing and other trouble was sponsored by individuals rather than by any organization.

A. L. Donan, general manager of the Luton mine, also laid the blame on disgruntled individuals who are not working.

The miners continued their work after the bombings.

Authorities who hastened to the mines when the bombings were reported, said they had obtained the name of the store at which the dynamite was brought. They refused to reveal the name of the store or the city in which it had been bought.

Reports that the airplane had come from Marion, Ill., in the heart of the mining district of that state, were not confirmed although the possibility was discussed freely by miners, officials and authorities.

CANDIDATE FOR SHERIFF IS IN LOCAL BASTILE

J. W. McCardia, one of the seven candidates for the office of sheriff, was arrested at noon today by Deputy Sheriffs F. W. Howard and Jess Buckles, and this afternoon was in the county jail, on a charge of stealing water.

Complaint against McCardia was issued by the district attorney's office Saturday morning, but the warrant for his arrest was not served until this morning.

According to the complaint in the case, which has been filed in Judge Chris Pann's court at Huntington Beach, McCardia is charged with tapping a water company's line and stealing water from it. He is said to have used the water for irrigation purposes.

McCardia is a resident of 696 Buaro road, Santa Ana, according to the address he gave when he was booked at the county jail by Deputy Jailer William Bates.

The Buaro road district is just outside the city limits of Santa Ana and is in the eastern section of the Huntington Beach township. For that reason, it was necessary to file the complaint in Huntington Beach, it was said.

McCardia, who has been seen here on the streets for the past several days, driving a big car, with numerous McCardia signs on it, soliciting votes, probably will be taken to Huntington Beach this afternoon for a hearing.

thought to be seriously injured. None was expected to die.

The store had advertised the sale of 32-pieces of dish ware for $1, the sale to open at 9 a. m. Long before clerks were on the balcony it had become crowded. The crash occurred a few minutes after the store opened.

"It was awful," said Fred Aeschliman jr., newspaper employe who was entering the building when the balcony fell. "A cloud of dust filled the store. Women and children everywhere were screaming."

Stories of the courage of employes were countless.

One customer told of seeing a woman clerk seize a baby from the hands of its mother when the crash occurred and leap clear of the debris. Neither the clerk nor the child was injured.

Cause of the crash was not known although an inquiry was immediately launched by fire department officials and Commissioner Cliff Davis, public safety commissioner.

OPEN REVIVAL SERVICES AT LOCAL CHURCH

The Rev. U. E. Harding, pastor of the Church of the Nazarene, spoke Sunday evening on "A Good Mother-in-law," taking his text from Ruth 1:16. The minister made his address of the evening to the young people. The service marked the opening of a mid-summer revival, under the auspices of the Young People's society of the church, with services scheduled each evening during the week.

"When I speak of good mothers-in-law," he said, "some of you may feel like the colored man of the south, the first time he saw a giraffe. After looking at it steadfastly for a long time he exclaimed, 'There ain't no such animal.' In many cases good daughters-in-law or good sons-in-law have good mothers-in-law, and you can let that soak in.

"Naomi was a good mother-in-law and she had two fine daughters-in-law. These girls, too, were not of the Jewish religion, they were Moabites who had their own gods. This mother must have been a wonderful mother to win them as she did. Some parents are driving their in-laws to be outlaws.

"Ruth, the heroine of the book and of my text, was made a real convert to her mother-in-law's religion. She could not be turned back and she had determination, she had what a young man or a young woman has to have today if he or she will go with God. She respected her dead husband and clung to her widowed mother-in-law, against great odds and customs of that day. We can get a long needed lesson from her today in this respect.

"Her respect to the dead, her kindness and loyalty to the widow was rewarded. She wedded the rich and came in line with a family that later was honored with the Christ Child. If we boast of our blue blood, our kings and presidents, she had more. Young people you can't go wrong in respecting gray hairs and being true to your convictions.

"Orpha, the other girl, started well, but like the family she represented and like Lot's wife, she looked back and went back, and we hear no more of her. She went back from opportunities as good perhaps for her as for her sister-in-law, Ruth, but she went back to the gods of the plain. She made a wrong choice, but she had a great chance."

TWO MEN INJURED IN CRASH TODAY

Two men were injured at 11 o'clock this morning when the automobile in which they were riding overturned at Culver's Corner, on the San Diego highway.

Albert Quintana, 26, of 1325 East Second street, Santa Ana, suffered cuts and bruises, and George Newton, of El Toro, received injuries about the head.

According to a report made at the county hospital, Quintana, who was driving, failed at the wheel, causing the machine to get beyond his control.

CITY COUNCILS TO CONFER ON P. E. REMOVAL

Prepared to hold out for their declaration that the Pacific Electric tracks to Orange must be torn up if the service is discontinued, members of the Santa Ana city council will confer with the Orange city council and a special representative of the Pacific Electric railway at the regular meeting of the Santa Ana council in the city hall at 6:30 p. m.

At a meeting last week in Orange, the Orange city council told the local councilmen that Orange wanted the tracks for freight service at night but was willing to have the stages take charge of the passenger service. The Pacific Electric was granted permission to discontinue the street car service but it was stipulated that the city councils of Orange and Santa Ana must agree to the discontinuance.

The Santa Ana council tonight will award the contract for the paving and widening of East First street.

Final action will be taken on the application of Dr. N. D. Cash of Santa Ana, for permission to build a $4500 dog and cat hospital at 1614 South Main street and the request of Ralph A. Dunn, of North Hollywood, for permission to build a hospital at 1514 South Main street.

Regarding the proposed ordinance requiring barbers to open and close at specified hours, City Attorney Charles D. Swanner stated today that he was not sure just what he would present to the council. At the meeting last week, the hours from 8 a. m. to 6 p. m. were put forward, but since that time many barbers have asked for an opening hour of 7:30 a. m.

REVEALS PLANS FOR DINNER TO 'BILL' MURPHY

Jack Fisher chapter Disabled American Veterans of the World war, will tender to their comrade and past commander, William J. Murphy, a dinner and get-together meeting at their regular meeting to be held in the Legion hall, Wednesday at 7:00 p. m.

Murphy has just returned from the East where he has served for the past year as national commander of the D. A. V., with headquarters in Cincinnati. Through his efforts, this organization has increased its national membership, and has formed and installed more chapters over the United States than it ever before has experienced.

Murphy has been an outstanding figure in veterans' work for several years. He was the first commander of the local chapter of the D. A. V.

This meeting Wednesday night is a token of appreciation for Murphy's efforts and accomplishments, from the local chapter. A feature of the meeting will be the presentation to Murphy of the pen used by President Hoover in signing the recent veterans pension bill. The presentation will be made by Congressman Phil Swing, at the personal request of the President Hoover. Many organizations tried to obtain possession of this pen, and even have tried to purchase it, but President Hoover has expressed his desire that it go to Bill Murphy and Orange county.

The entire program Wednesday night will be broadcast over KREG, and many notables from Orange county, as well as other parts of the state, have been invited, and acknowledgements have been coming in from all over Southern California.

DUNCAN, Okla., Aug. 11.—(UP)—Eldris Taylor, 9 years old, and red-headed, was having a "swell" time in jail here today after having gratified his ambitions to "set fire to the whole blamed town."

Eldris was arrested Saturday night while "enjoying" a $75,000 fire in a lumber yard. Previously the boy had started five other fires, the first being in his parents' home.

SOCIETY MARATHON PASSES 394 HOURS

First class vaudeville, dancing and entertainment is in store daily for those who attend the Society marathon in Balboa and, with 16 couples left in the race, the 394 hour post was passed at noon today.

Interspersed with the marathon dancing were tap dances, songs, grand marches, character acts and other varied forms of entertainment. A large orchestra provided music for the marathon dancers as well as the spectators during the rest perid, when the floor was filled to capacity.

The endurance flagpole sitter is still on his lofty perch, determined to outlast the dancers.

TEN MEXICANS FACING DRUNK CHARGES HERE

They garnered ten Saturday night and Sunday, all of whom were charged either with possession of liquor or drunkenness. All were Mexicans. All are in the county jail.

Mrs. A. Garcia, 43, of 1805 West Second street, was arrested Saturday night on a charge of possession of liquor after the officers are said to have found thirteen cases of beer in her home, which they claimed she was selling at 25 cents per bottle. The beer was confiscated.

Wounded Mexican Refuses To Tell Name Of Attacker

The sheriff's office today was investigating the case of Julian Flores, La Habra Mexican, who was found on the Newport road ,near Costa Mesa yesterday, severely stabbed in the back.

The man was trailed from a point on the highway to 1203 Maple avenue, by Sergeant W. H. Wingood, of the Los Angeles police department, who reported it to the city police. Sid Smithwick, assistant chief of police, questioned the man.

YACHTING NEWS

BY STUART H. LUCAS

The first of the Inter-city annual series for star boats, as conducted by the Newport Harbor Star Boat fleet, was sailed Saturday afternoon over the triangular course off Balboa pier. One of the old time favorite skippers, Hook Beardslee, won first place over Walton Hubbard by two seconds after a hair raising finish which included a luffing match, and during which Merrill and Webster almost caught them.

On the same run home, Dan Murphy, Jack Keith, Billie Lyons and Preston Plumb were playing tag with each other while the Cheesewright youngster, coached by the veteran Lew Coffee, who was crewing for him, ran off to leeward and slid by them from ninth to fifth position. The finish was close, as six boats finished inside of nine seconds. But one round was sailed, as after the past week of steady racing, the boys were well content to shorten the course. The summary for the Saturday event will be found below.

As I sit here by the window overlooking the entrance of the harbor, the sad strains of Aloha come in from off the waves as it were. The gun is fired as one of the guest yachts slips out into the foreshortened horizon, and I realize that another friend of the past week's enjoyment has slipped away into the mysterious future, possibly never to be seen again.

The amplified hooked up with the phonograph at the end of the jetty and presided over by volunteer junior yachtsmen, is one of the many brain kinks that Joe Beck has introduced into the regatta program that will stand out in the memory of the visiting yachtsmen. Bidding the departing guest "God speed" by music in the Hawaiian manner is a happy relief from the sorrow of parting.

Sunday saw the completion of the inter-club series, which race was won by the Plumb boys in West Wind, who thus secured fourth place in the finals.

Hubbard, in Tempe, finished third and secured first by three-quarters of a point, over Hook Beardslee, who finished fifth today, Hook getting second. Keith made third money by finishing second today, and Webster made fifth by finishing sixth.

Jack Keith had the advantage of the start, as he hit the line hard a fraction of a second after the gun was fired, and was away to windward and had nothing to do but sail his boat. This he did to such good advantage that he continued to gain on every leg of the first round, being 43 seconds ahead of Plumb, one minute and 40 seconds ahead of Beardslee and two minutes and 53 seconds ahead of Hubbard, at the completion of the first lap. On the next beat, Keith overstood the mark on the leg toward Newport and when this mark was reached found himself a minute and 20 seconds behind Plumb and a minute and a half ahead of Hubbard, Beardslee and Lyons. Billy Lyons had made a leg off shore when half way down, and had picked up over a minute on Beardslee. He then deviled Beardslee all the way home and beat him in by 43 seconds, thus giving the race to Hubbard. It was seen early in the race that as the boats were running, all Beardslee had to do to win the series, was to beat Hubbard. He was able to keep Hubbard covered all the way around the first lap, but on the second windward leg Hubbard split tacks with him somewhere, and then Lyons, taking fourth from him, put him in for second money, three quarters of a point back of the Tempe.

SEEKS TO CANCEL FARM LAND LEASE

A complaint for cancellation of lease was filed in superior court Saturday by C. L. McComber, owner of a ten-acre tract of land at Buena Park. The plaintiff and defendants, J. E. Clinton and others, entered into the agreement on July 9, 1929, which was to last over a period of five years, the complaint said. Under the terms of the lease the defendants were to pay rental amounting to $25,000, payable at te rate of $1250 quarterly, according to the complaint.

In the suit the plaintiff claims that, according to the lease, he was to sell to the lessees all water necessary for plants and yard. The plaintiff charges that the defendants used water amounting to $22.35, which is unpaid and that the defendants have not maintained suitable fireplugs as agreed upon in the lease. Furthermore the plaintiff alleges that certain machinery was sold by the defendants which was not according to the terms of the lease contract.

The plaintiff asked that the lease be cancelled and that judgment be given for the sum of $14,754.60.

BARBER SHOP LAW CHANGE PLANNED

In view of the unexpected opposition to the proposed city ordinance making it mandatory for barber shops to open at 8 a. m. and close at 6 p. m., Charles Swanner, city attorney, will present an ordinance to the city council tonight calling for hours between 7:30 a. m. and 6 p. m., Swanner declared today.

At the last meeting of the council, it was said that nearly 95 per cent of the barbers were in favor of the 8 a. m. opening hour, but since that time many protests have been received. The barbers do not object to closing at 6 p. m., but think that it would be better for their business to open earlier.

As the rule will affect only the barbers, it is expected that the council will ratify the new ordinance to be presented by Swanner.

EDITOR REGISTER:

As I read the notice of the death of James D. Phelan I recalled the fact that once, at a time when he was running for the United States senate, I had the privilege of hearing Mr. Phelan make a good speech in our city hall, and during the time that Federal prohibition was under consideration I was one of thousands who listened to Richard Pearson Hobson in Birch park.

It seems to me that the interests of our citizens have lost rather than gained by the adoption of St. Ann's Inn as a place for political speaking.

I can hardly believe that any man intelligent enough to be a candidate for any office and desiring to be elected by the suffrage of the people would express a preference for an aristocratic minority as his audience; so I think that the responsibility for the selection of such an audience must rest with our political leaders.

Now Buron Fitts has been announced to speak tomorrow afternoon at St. Ann's Inn and I feel sure that many a poor man or woman would esteem it a privilege to be able to hear the speech of a man who has made good in public office and whose personality appeals as strongly to the imagination as does that of Mr. Fitts.

O yes, I believe that any person could hang around St. Ann's Inn in his old clothes waiting for the dinner to be over and sneak into the dining room through the back door without being kicked out—in fact I have done it myself so desirous was I to hear a political speech without needless loss of time and submission to the complication of social amenities. But who does not know that a larger place owned by the people would be more appropriate for a speech on matters of interest to every citizen?

I believe this change of custom in regard to the speaking of our political candidates to be one of several causes which have given rise to a conviction held by a large number of our citizens that our present political officers some time ago cut lose from the principle of considering the rights of all the people all the time.

TO ENLARGE SAMPLE SHOP FLOOR SPACE

Since bargains are always dear to the feminine heart, women of Santa Ana and its vicinity are reveling this week, in the remarkable values in suits, coats and dresses made available to them through the remodeling plans which Eugene Kahen is putting into execution at the Sample Shop, 418 North Sycamore street.

Kahen plans to give the women of the city one of the handsomest little specialty shops in this section of the country, and preparatory to his remodeling operations has moved his entire stock directly across the street to one of the first floor store rooms of the Ramona building. There he has arranged rack after rack of garments including the new fall styles just received, at prices that are surprising in their lowness. At the opening of the temporary store this morning, the aisles were soon crowded with eager women shoppers, intent upon taking advantage of the low prices and high qualities.

In the meantime, a staff of carpenters had taken possession of the original store, where remodeling plans include an enlargement of the floor space, moving the office to a mezzanine floor, adding new wall cases and an entirely new setting of decorated walls, lighting fixtures and carpets. The modern motif will be uppermost in all details, and when the work is completed, Kahen promised that it would please the most exacting customer.

He had his plans so perfected that the workmen have promised that the store will be ready for occupancy by next Saturday, and a gala opening is being planned, with special values set for the day on new autumn purchases. On Friday night, gowns from the Sample Shop will be modeled at a style show to be presented at the Broadway theater in connection with the special program for Greater Talkie season. A bevy of beautiful girls from Los Angeles and Hollywood, will model these costumes, all of which may be found in the Sample shop on the day of the formal opening.

King Snake Forced To Disgorge Victim

WILLOWS, Calif., Aug. 11.—(INS)—Frank Reynolds, Winslow rancher, was an interested spectator, during the yard-long meal of a king snake.

Reynolds came on the king snake just as it was swallowing a bull snake.

Then he touched the king snake with a stick and it disgorged its meal. Both snakes then crawled away in the grass.

Wee Kirk o' Heather Provides Setting For Nuptials

Many close friends from this city joined the half hundred guests privileged to witness the pretty wedding ceremony of Helen Thomson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Garstang, 617 North Ross street, and Frank T. Murphy of Salinas, son of Mrs. Esther Murphy of Alhambra, an event of wide general interest which took place at 5 'clock on Friday, August 8, in Gendale.

The Wee Kirk O' the Heather, where so many romances have seen their fulfillment in impressive nuptial ceremonies, was chosen by the young people as the setting for their wedding, at which the Rev. D. J. Kennedy of Alhambra, officiated.

An extreme simplicity prevailed and the bride made a striking appearance in a costume of black transparent velvet worn with a smart little black velvet hat, very close fitting. In accordance with the Hawaiian Islands wedding custom, she wore a lei of shell-pink carnations. This was especially appropriate, as she has been teaching in the Penahou school of Honolulu.

She is a graduate of Occidental college, while Mr. Murphy graduated from Oregon State college, where he was a member of Sigma Chi fraternity.

The young people are devoting their honeymoon travels to an automobile trip through the Big Tree country, and later will make their home in Salinas, where Mr. Murphy is a member of the teaching staff of the city schools.

Penrose-Cason Wedding Was Pretty Church Ceremony

Quietly impressive was the wedding Saturday evening at 8 o'clock of Miss Margaret Penrose, daughter of Mrs. William Penrose, 1112 West Second street, and Harry Cason of this city, a ceremony which found an attractive setting in the First United Brethren church.

The Rev. R. W. Harlow, pastor of the church, conducted the rites in the presence of about 30 close friends of the young people. Miss Penrose was very charming in a graceful gown of flowered georgette in soft autumnal colors, worn with a smart little orange felt hat. A great cluster of bride's roses and sweetpeas contributed to her attractive appearance.

Miss Ellen Penrose served her sister as honor maid and wore a silk ensemble costume in corn color with felt hat to match. Her flowers were late summer blooms in mixed hues. Lester Erickson attended Mr. Cason as best man.

Following the ceremony was a reception in the Penrose home, where close friends were privileged to inspect the many handsome wedding gifts which will find place in the new home which the young people will establish. Refreshments were served befre the departure of the new Mr. and Mrs. Cason on their honeymoon journey.

Upon their return they will make their home with the bride's mother, Mrs. Penrose, while deciding upon a permanent location.

GOVERNOR YOUNG DENOUNCES SECTIONALISM IN ADDRESS TO 20-30 CLUB DELEGATES

Denouncing sectionalism in government, Governor C. C. Young addressed 150 delegates of 20-30 clubs at the Anaheim Elks club Saturday night following a dinner at 6:30 p. m. Governor Young spoke briefly, as it was necessary for him to leave at 7 o'clock to catch a train for Sacramento.

"The governor must know the needs of the entire state, not merely those of the north or the south," Governor Young declared. "The state cannot afford to have a governor who thinks only about one section."

The dinner meeting was opened by President Jack Gledhill, who, after having the delegates introduced, turned the gavel over to Vice-president Clinton Griggs, chairman on entertainment. Griggs immediately placed the procedure in the hands of Lotus H. Loudon, president of the Anaheim Chamber of Commerce, who had been invited to act as master of ceremonies. Loudon introduced Governor Young, who, when cheers had subsided, addressed the eager audience.

In his opening remarks Governor Young reminded those present that the 20-30 club started in Sacramento only a few years ago already has become national in character. There is no limit to the possibilities of these organizations now in their infancy, and with such men interested in community and state affairs, the public is going to be much benefited, he declared.

The speaker pointed out that the population of California was less than a million and a quarter 30 years ago which is a striking contrast to that of today, and stated that it will have a population unheard of.

Referring to reapportionment, giving California six representatives in congress because of its rapid growth, Young stated that instead of 11 congressmen California will have 20.

No state can grow more rapidly than its water resources permit, Governor Young said, "We can get along without many of the commodities but growth is limited without water. Southern California has over 50 per cent of the population of the state and 20 per cent of tillable soil."

Expressing his pleasure in having something to do with the Boulder dam project, Governor Young assured his hearers that it will take considerable engineering and that it will be some 10 or 12 years before this area has any of the water. He said it is his belief that Southern California should try to see some way to preserve the underground supply which this portion of the state has and that it will take a tremendous amount of study.

Loudon spoke in grateful terms on behalf of the members of the 20-30 club, the citizens of Anaheim and of Southern California for the interest shown by the governor, after which he introduced special guests present, among whom were Leo J. Sheridan, of the Anaheim city council, William Jerome, county auditor; T. E. Stephenson, Santa Ana, author of "Caminos Viejos"; Freeman Miller, Inglewood, national president of 20-30 group, and Leo Thayer, San Diego, governor of 20-30 clubs of District 5. Mrs. Thayer, his bride, also was introduced.

Among the delegates present were three candidates for district governor, namely, Vern Pittinger, Ontario; Ralph Sage, Upland, and Robert B. Saucke, Riverside. Receiving special mention was Leland Findley, Santa Ana, sponsor of the Anaheim club.

At the business session in the afternoon the time was given over largely to plans for the annual convention to be held in San Jose August 29 to September 1 when approximately 85 from District 5 will attend. The entire top floor of the St. Claire hotel has been reserved for this group.

District 5, which includes 15 clubs all south of Barstow, voted unanimously to support San Diego for the 1931 convention.

The Triolian trio, of Hollywood, furnished music. Other special entertainment was furnished by a trio composed of the little Misses Doris Spencer, Lois Barton and Ada Mae Rowe, pupils of the Hollywood School of Dancing. Doris Spencer is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Spencer, of this city.

Representatives were present from Santa Ana, Fullerton, San Diego, Upland, Ontario, Victorville, Barstow, San Bernardino, Riverside and National City.

The convention activities were concluded with a dance at the Elks' clubhouse.

COMPLETE REDWOOD H'WAY

An important link in the Redwood highway was completed when the new alignment, just north of San Rafael, was thrown open to traffic, reports the Naitonal Automobile club.

Although only 1.8 miles in length, this section of highway saves more than a third of a mile in distance over the previous alignment. Starting at the northerly limits of San Rafael, the new road connects at Gallinas creek with the recently constructed pavement to Ignacio.

ITALIAN 'BUYS' PRETTY PARIS GIRL FOR $30

PARIS, Aug. 11.—(INS)—"She's a beautiful girl and I like her lots," said Roberto Saccolini, an Italian visiting Paris for the first time.

Roberto said this to a young man whom he had met during his wanderings in Montmartre. The young man in question was accompanied by a young woman companion apparently about 18.

"That's funny you should say that," was the reply Roberto received, "because I was just thinking of parting company with her. Her name is Marie, she is sweet and gentle and knows how to be nice. I'll sell her to you."

"What?" said the astonished Italian. "You'll sell her to me? Do you mean that?"

"I sure do," came from his companion of the evening.

Then Roberto turned to Marie: "What do you think about this?" he asked doubtfully.

"It's okay with me. You're not so bad—and anyway I've suspected for a long time that Al was tired of me."

"Then it's a go," said Roberto to "Al." "How much do you want for her?"

"Would 750 francs be too much?" asked Al.

This makes $30.

"No," responded Roberto, "here's your money" and he counted out the francs on the table.

"Fine," said Al, sweeping up the money. "Now I'll drop into the hotel next door and get my valise and leave the room for you and Marie. Better come along Marie—up to the room and say goodbye to little Al. No objections, stranger?"

"None at all," said Roberto. "I'll wait here."

That is all there is to the story. Roberto is still waiting, or at least he would have been if the cafe keeper has not told him he would have to leave as the cafe was closing.

Roberto dropped into the hotel but of course there was no sign of Al or Roberto's newly purchased prize.

The police are helping Roberto to get his $30 back.

INDIFFERENCE IN DOCTRINE IS ORANGE TOPIC

ORANGE, Aug. 11.—The Rev. Walter Loretz took as the topic of his sermon at the Immanuel Lutheran church yesterday morning "The Saviour's Warning Against False Prophets" and treated the topic under the following subdivisions: "To whom the warning is issued;" "Why it is so necessary," and "How it is to be heeded." The sermon was taken from the text found in Matthew 7, 15-23.

By the way of introduction the pastor said:

Indifference

"Indifference in doctrine is a characteristic of the time in which we are living. Most people nowadays think that very little depends upon the fine distinctions of doctrine in minor points that separate the various churches. Hence, they infer that it makes little difference to which church you belong, that it matters little what you believe in detail, as long as you trust in Christ Jesus, the Savior of the world. It is frequently claimed that all the various points of difference separating the denominations are unimportant and that they do not affect the vital nature of faith. Hence the wide-spread of unionism that endeavors to bring all the various church-bodies into a visible union, without first bringing about a true union in faith and doctrine, but rather overlooking and ignoring the differences that now divide them. Yea, there are those in our days that favor an amalgamation and conglomeration of all religious cults of the world: Christian, Mohammedan, Jewish, and pagan, asserting that all these systems of religions have elements of truth in them which we cannot afford to ignore.

False Doctrine

"Is there really no essential difference between the various Christian denominations, let alone the Heathen, idolatrous cults? Does it really matter so little what doctrine in minor points we believe and confess? Is it all the same to which church we belong, and what doctrine we are taught from the pulpit? The Bible says no, and it warns us often against any and every false doctrine and against all such as preach false doctrines. Such a warning we find in the text where Christ expressly says: 'Beware of false prophets.'"

In discussion of his topic, the Rev. Mr. Loretz said in part: "First: To whom is this warning addressed? Evidently it is meant for all people, especially for the Christians. It is here made their duty to watch that no false teachers are tolerated in their midst, that their pastors preach to them the pure, unadulterated doctrine of the Word of God. They are to watch that pure doctrine is preserved among themselves, that nothing but the truth of God's holy Word is preached to them from their pulpits. And it is very evident why it must be their duty to watch for this, for it is their soul that is to be saved. It is their soul, therefore, that will be endangered, if they allow a false teacher to be their pastor, if they commit their souls to the care of a man who does not believe and teach according to God's Word in all points, but follows his own notions and opinions at times.

Away From Christ

"Secondly: False doctrines are not such harmless things as many people in our day would represent them to be. All false doctrines tend to lead us away from Christ, and thus aim their blow at the very center of our holy religion and at the eternal salvation of our souls. Not only is this the case with the false doctrine of salvation by works, which teaches man to rely, not in Christ, but in his own righteousness, and thus leads him directly to hell; nor is this the case only with the many blasphemous doctrines concerning the person of our most adorable Savior, for example, that He is not the true God, but merely a good and virtuous man whose example we are to follow and thus save ourselves, which demolishes with one stroke the very foundation of our salvation,—but every false doctrine does this, however harmless it may appear. If we go to the bottom of the various false doctrines we shall find, that they all lead us away from Christ and the Word of God, and make us to trust in ourselves for our salvation.

Must Study Bible

'Thirdly: How are we to heed the Savior's warning? To that end we must prove the doctrine according to the Scriptures. To be able to do this, however, to be able to discern right and wrong teaching, according to the Scriptures, we must study the Scriptures. We must not only read a chapter in the Bible now and then, nay we must study it, we must convince ourselves what its teachings are and must compare what is preached with this written Word of God. Thus we will always, by the grace of God, attain to a clearer and more perfect knowledge of the truth of God's Word and constantly grow in the ability to heed the Savior's warning and to beware of false phophets."

Candidates To Speak When W.C.T.U. Meets

ORANGE, Aug. 11—The W. C. T. U. will meet at the Christian church at 2:30 o'clock Tuesday. All candidates who have answered the questionnaire are invited to speak. A state director will be present to explain the action taken by the state executive board and the county official board about the candidates for governor.

FRIENDSHIP IS DISCUSSED BY DR. W. M. TIPPLE

ORANGE, Aug. 11.—Dr. W. M. Tipple, pastor of the Villa Park Community church, spoke from the subject, "The Society of Friends," at the church service yesterday. The text of the sermon was taken from John 15:15, "I Have Called You Friends." Dr. Tipple said:

"A few Sundays ago, I spoke on the theme, 'Alone.' It is true we are alone, we must live and die alone, yet we crave friendship. Jesus bestowed the honored title of friends on His followers. Have we the right to the name 'friends?' If so, how shall we live our lives as friend or foe?

Long In Friendship

"We are living in a world quivering with life and death. Everybody hungers for friendship. Emerson said, 'Every man passes his life in a search for friendship. Our chief want is somebody who shall make us do what we can. That is the service of a friend.' Love is a necessity in the life of man. We give love as well as receive love. We have a craving for a perfect friend. A human friend is the best channel to God.

"Jesus alone can trace what friendship means. No wonder the Quakers chose the name. Jesus is the true friend to man. Are we friends to man? Or are we foes to man?

"The world requires us to act and choose. Are we as interested in people—as in things? Dr. Buckman observes that the Encyclopedia Britannica devotes 146 columns to electricity and only 70 columns to ethics; 68 columns to iron and steel, only 11-2 columns to personality; 83 columns to reptiles, 29 columns (including illustrations) to religion; 51 columns to minute calculus, 22 to Christ. What does this all mean?

'This is not the philosophy of the man who called His disciples friends. Humanity is seeking a different philosophy of life. Man is ever seeking friends and love.

True Mission

"The Christian church provides friends and love—or at least that is its true mission. Man's relation to the universe is more than to simply drift along from dayto day like a dumb animal. Man needs to rise above the commonplace of life and ascend the heights where he canget a new vision.

'The organized church needs to arouse itself from its slumber and to see the little it is doing as the friend of man. It needs to look up and see the universe and how good God is. As a church shall we disclaim the name friends?

"Man loves to work and to play, but neither is the real philosophy of his life. The legitimate stage provides amusement, and a certain amount of art. But in the society of friends does man gain the most satisfaction. The society founded on the principles of Jesus is the only place where we may really come in touch with those spiritual forces which lift above the ordinary level of life, and inspire a new purpose, and give a new meaning to life. The need of such inspiration is just as great as food. 'A friend in need is a friend indeed.' I have seen fair weather friends — I have seen friends in the time of storm. Smiles and sunshine—tears and sorrow. True friends never waver, never falter, but are by your side through sunshine or cloud.

Always Gentle

"Friendship is the sharing of the best of mind and heart. A sharing of the best, not a sharing of the worst. The friends of Jesus were not on guard against Him. He was always gentle, yet true. He was always reassuring, yet never deceived. He craved the friendship of His followers. He told them that they were 'yoke-fellows' with Him. He told them He had made double yokes when He was a carpenter. Jesus was a Savior just because He was a friend. 'Greater love hath no man than this that a man lay down his life for a friend.' Friendship proves itself in sacrifice. And H has called us friends. The people who live about you, who walk with you, are they your friends, are you their friend? Tomorrow in your business, the trampling instinct, or the brotherly mood, which shall it be?

"Does anyone look at us, and think of us as friends? Does anyone listen to us and think of us as a friend? Does anyone watch us in business and think of us as a friend? If not, we certainly cannot be classed as friends. Oh, if only the whole of humanity might be a great society of friends.

Great Principle

"From time immemorial friendship has been a great principle with all peoples. Friendship has engaged the attention of thinkers in all ages.

"I have called you friends. Friends because He loved them. There are many kinds of love with which human beings love one anothr. Of all loves the love upon which the heart leans in the hour of trial;—The love the soul cries out for in the horror of loneliness;—The love we want to clasp our hand when we breast the salt waters of death—Is the love of a loyal, true friend."

No More Piles

HEM-ROID, the prescription of Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, is guaranteed to banish any form of Pile misery. It gives quick action even in old, stubborn cases. HEM-ROID succeeds because it heals and strengthens the affected parts and removes blood congestion in the lower bowel—the cause of piles. Only an internal medicine can do this, that's why salves and cutting fail. Schramm-Johnson and druggists everywhere sell HEM-ROID with guarantee that it cost you nothing if it doesn't end all Pile agony.—Adv.

200 ATTRACTED TO GOSPEL TENT SUNDAY NIGHT

ORANGE, Aug. 11.—Nearly 200 people greeted the Rev. Gerald D. Hargis last night in the Seventh Day Baptist Gospel tent in Orange to hear him preach the first sermon in the second week of services there. Taking as his subject, "Why I Am What I Am," Evangelist Hargis said in part, "I am what I am because I am living up to the best light that I have Scripturally, because I want to live as Jesus lived, and because time is flying by and I want to be prepared to meet my Maker."

The orchestra of the Riverside Seventh Day Baptist church under the direction of Mrs. Hargis, opened the service by rendering "Song of Love," "The Old Refrain" and "Only a Smile." During the vesper service, the Men's Glee club of the same church sang "Keep Rank," "We Are Going Home" and "Walking With Thee." Mrs. Lester Van Meter also sang an appealing solo, accompanying herself on the guitar.

The Rev Lester G. Osborn, musical director for these meetings, led the congregation in a brief study of one of Hoffman's masterpieces, "Christ and the Rich Young Man," which was thrown on the screen by stereopticon, drawing from its lessons for today. Every boy and girl present received a copy of the picture. The stereopticon was also used to present an illustrated hymn, "America the Beautiful."

Topics for the week are as follows: Tuesday, "The Cancer of the Soul," Wednesday, "Four Bugle Calls," Thursday, "One Set Purpose," Friday, "A Man I Want You to Know," Saturday, "The Soul of America."

NECESSITY FOR CONVICTION IN RELIGION TOLD

ORANGE, Aug. 11.—The Rev. W. H. Galbraith, of the Bethany Baptist church, Long Beach, spoke at the sixth union Sunday evening service held in the Christian church. The choir of the Baptist church had charge of the music, giving for the prelude, "Heroic," by Faulkes, with Miss Lola Allen at the organ. A saxophone solo was given by Wayne Hoger. The offertory was given by Miss Allen. "Going Home," by Anton Dvorak, was rendered by Harold Galbraith, son of the Rev. Mr. Galbraith.

"We do not stand on our convictions, we are like a flock of geese in the air following the leader," the Rev. Mr. Galbraith said. "We hear it said today that we need trained leaders, but I say we need followers that can stand by their convictions. There are today 365 different sects false to the fundamental principles of Christianity. We are justified by faith and we have peace with God. The cross has been lost. It is a relic. It is a calamity when the Christia nchurch has lost its convictions.

'Writers say the church should be run on business principles, with an efficiency man. If the church would recognize God, He is the efficiency man. Back of all it takes the Holy fire to make it go, back of all human elements is the Holy Spirit. The church has lost its burning passion. There are lost men and women all about us. The church has lost her burning passion to show men home.

"Weep with people. Jesus went to the home of Martha and Mary and wept with them. We say, 'I would like to be of service before I go hence.' It is not what you can do but what God Almighty can do in you."

ORANGE LEAGUE MEMBERS ARE BEACH GUESTS

ORANGE, Aug. 11.—Mr. and Mrs. Charles Robinson were hosts at a meeting of members of the Epworth league of the First Methodist church at their beach cottage at Newport last night. After a delectable covered-dish supper had been served, Mr. Robinson spoke on the work being done at the Spanish institute at Gardena.

The speaker told what the school has done and what it is trying to do. A friendly spirit toward Mexico is being fostered by the institution Mr. Robinson said, and an effort is being made to raise standards of education for Mexicans, many of whom, the speaker said, formerly did not go beyond the sixth grade. Now many Mexican students complete high school and junior college work, he declared.

Numbers of young men are being trained at the institute to take their places as Christian educational leaders both in Mexico and among the Mexican people in this country. An effort is being made, it was brought out, to educate Americans to understand the Mexicans in America.

Miss Florence Riddle presided at the meeting in the place of Miss Helen Gillogly, who recently resigned her position as vice president and leader, when she left to go to Berkeley. No one has been elected to fill Miss Gillogly's place.

Those present with the hosts were the Misses Florence Riddle, Cleta Cotner, Clara Worall, Esther Ratliffe, Chloe Williamson, Minnie Christianson, Esther Scriven, Faye Bortz and Stanton Cole, Milton Cole, Ellis Hillyard, Lewis Bates, Walter Walkup and the Rev. Walter B. Cole.

Now! An Opportune Time to Furnish Your Home

Furniture and home furnishing prices have receded to the lowest level in 13 years. Not since 1917 has the household dollar been able to buy so much.

Furniture dealers, furniture manufacturers, and others who are in a position to know, are unanimous in their opinion that furniture prices have dropped to the lowest point and the next adjustment of prices will be upward — Economic barometers show no signs that prices will be lower but, on the other hand, there is strong indications that the trend will be upward very shortly.

Therefore, this is the opportune time to seize the economic advantage that decidedly favors the customer who is ready and willing to use his cash or credit for the furnishing of his home. Every article in our large stock has been marked to conform to present day low prices, and a visit here will quickly show you the wisdom of furnishing your home with quality furniture and furnishings while prices are so attractive.

"Will you tell me, step by step, exactly what happened yesterday? Try to take it impersonally, as if it had all happened to someone else. I know it's a strain on you, but it has to be done—and we haven't a great deal of time."

"Strain? I shall have to learn to bear strain, I think. Part of it I don't understand, myself, but I'll tell you what I can. Somehow it seems very long ago—not like yesterday."

Peter found himself ardently hoping that the sense of remoteness and unreality, the effect of shock, would mercifully not wear off before Aline reached the end of her recital.

"I did not know my sister very well," she began with slow clarity. "We were both left orphans very young, and were brought up by different sets of relatives. But whenever we met, we got along well enough, and when I found that she was at loose ends for the summer, I invited her to visit me. It did not once enter my head that—that Don—" Her lips twisted in a bitter line that was less like a smile than a grimace defying the ignominy of tears.

"I was so lost in Don—and I had every reason to suppose it was the same with him. I told you I didn't take these things lightly. Perhaps his manner had been a little different lately. But if it was, I attributed it to his moods. Essentially he was towards me as he had always been—as he had come to be in these last months. Then yesterday, Marjorie told me. She told me I had been a fool not to see it.

"I didn't believe her—I couldn't. I had been so sure—so utterly sure! My disbelief made her angry—so angry that she told me—other things. She taunted me on the difference in our ages. She said that Don told her he had only been playing with me, that he had turned from me at once when she, a younger woman, came. I don't think how he could have said that—or, if he said it, still it was not true. He had not been just playing with me—not at first, not before she came, I am sure."

Slowly and painfully, picking the phrases, the low voice went on. Peter paid silent tribute to the courage which could thus lay bare its own fallen pride in the face of necessity.

"She said that he did not know how to get rid of me, when I was so wilfully blind. She even said that the blindness was only a pretense, to try to keep them apart. It was then that I told her to pack her things and go—to go at once.

"'If I do,' she said, 'Don goes with me.' She was flinging her things into her suitcase, helter skelter, while we talked.

"'But Don can't go,' I said. 'He has to stay with the ranch. Max is counting on him.' It's strange, but that is really what I thought of—that Don must stay by the ranch, for Max's sake. I didn't expect Max back for at least a couple of weeks, you see."

"'I'm going, and Don is going,' she repeated. 'But before he goes, he will tell Max the reason. He will write him that he had to leave because you wouldn't let him alone. That's the only way—and it won't leave you in any position to make trouble for us.'

"I don't know why I believed such a thing of Don—unless it was that I had never really known much of his character. That flaming mist of emotion was always between us. It had kept me from seeing him clearly—even from trying to. And that flaming mist had caught Marjorie too. I knew that she was not thinking of anyone but herself and Don—that she couldn't. Oh, how well I knew it!

"She left me standing there, and sent Julio up from the lower, garden to carry her bags down to the road, where the stage passes by. I heard him come and go. I remembered the things Don had said to me—and those other things that Marjorie had told me he said. I seemed to be hurtling down and down into some hideous abyss.

"I remember I put my hands against the wall and pushed with all my might, as if I could by main force tear it apart. It was like some rending physical pain, when you scream that you can't bear it, and yet it goes on.

"And then, gradually, something emerged. It was Max. What it would mean to Max when Don told him about us. And somehow it was all mixed up with stray thoughts about the sheep and the herders, and how Don was going to desert the ranch when Max was depending on him.

"I heard a queer rattling sound—it was the sound of my own laugh when it dawned on me how utterly insignificant the sheep were, after all.

"Then suddenly everything became clear—very cold and clear. The hot afternoon sun was blazing into the room—and I shivered. It must be destroyed—this thing that had arisen, a flaming mist, between Max and me. It must be destroyed because of Max, because of his utter steadiness and faith.

"It was the thing in myself that must be destroyed—and yet that thing was Don. For Don to tell Max would be worse than killing him, because, if Max were dead, he would never know. 'Killing him.' I remember I said that aloud. I heard it, and it was like another voice in the room. I must kill the thing in the flaming mist. I must kill Don, so that Max would never be hurt—would never know.

"I took the pistol from the drawer of the table, where Max kept it, and went down the path to the lodge. I stood in the doorway and fired before I could see more than a dark blur in the shadowed room. Then I saw Don sitting at the table and I fired again. He toppled forward over the table top."

Mrs. Everett leaned back, her fingers pressed against her temples, and sighed like one who is very tired.

"But you said," Peter remined her, "that you did not shoot him twice."

Aline dragged her hands away from her face. Again, and again, and again she must life herself from that pit of uttermost weariness, and force her exhausted mind to meet the future that was he past, the past that had hurled her to this present.

"I didn't. The first shot went wild. It didn't hit anything at all."

"What what do you mean—it didn't hit anything at all?"

"Just that. It went through the open window."

"Then who did fire that other shot?"

"I don't know. And after all, I killed him, so what does it matter?"

"It matters everything in the world," Peter shouted. "If somebody else didn't kill Mortison, somebody else made a mighty good stab at it. Either one of the wounds was sufficient to cause death. For the matter of that, I don't see how you can be sure that your first bullet didn't hit him. You could hardly see into the room, you said."

"I don't know why I'm so sure. But the pistol was waving wildly in my hand, and I have a distinct impression that the shot went wild."

"I don't suppose you happened to notice where the first shell dropped?"

"No—Yes, I do! I heard the click as it dropped on a stone at my feet; then it bounced and rolled off into the grass."

Peter glanced at her keenly. Was it possible that he was lying—that she had invented the shell that dropped as she stood outside the door, on the spur of the moment? But what could be the motive in such an invention, when she had already admitted that her second shot had struck Mortison?

"I found two identical .45 shells on the floor of the room," he said meditatively. "But, by jiminy, if you're right, they may not be so identical as they look!"

"I still don't see—"

"Why, it's as plain as the nose on your face! If someone else shot Mortison after you did, the only thing for you to do is to stick to your original story and put up a defense of temporary insanity—or maybe we can work up some sort of self-defense angle. But with the jury you'll have here, it'll be a pretty tough proposition."

Aline Everett shook her head.

"No," she said. "I'm telling one big lie, and that's for Max. It's enough. I won't tell any others. I wasn't insane, and it wasn't self-defense."

"But don't you see, it all hinges on which of those shots were fired first! If one of them came from another pistol than yours, Kurtner can find it out, and can tell which shot came from your gun, even if they both look as alike as two peas. In that case it's possible that you didn't kill him at all—that he was already dead when you got there!"

"You mean—that perhaps—I didn't—do it?" The words came gasping, incredulous.

"I mean that I've got to get busy and work on that other bullet. Something tells me—"

But Aline had slumped limply and silently to the floor.

Herbert Smith, representative of General Motors, will have 35 salesmen in the field with the opening of his Santa Ana branch. The stores sell five different models in five different periods of finish, Hippleswaite, Sheridan, Italian, Queen Anne and Georgian. The last two are phonograph models.

The new store will have an efficient force of technicians able to install and service all makes of radios, especially General Motors. According to Smith, they feature the proper installation of antenna and ground connections, having proved that these two factors are very important. In Santa Ana, 12 salesmen will operate, going to the southern parts of the county. The Fullerton store has been in operation for three months and seven selesmen now have their headquarters there. The other branch is in Anaheim.

The opening tonight is free to the public and although no particular entertainment will be offered, all models in the General Motors line will be on display.

COSTELLO HEARING SET FOR AUGUST 13

The hearing of C. Costello, of the Santiago canyon, charged with three misdemeanor counts, in connection with a brush fire which occurred recently on the Bixby ranch, has been set for August 13 at 10 a. m. in the court of Judge G. W. Ingle, Orange.

Charges were brought against Costello by J. A. Sherman, forest ranger. The man was arrested by Constable George Bartley and was released from custody when he furnished bail which had been set at $200.

One man, Charles Alexander Livermore, lost his life in the brush fire which Costello is said to have started without a permit. He is charged with starting a fire without a permit, burning trash within 100 feet of grass covered land, and allowing the fire to escape.

Livermore was a gardener on the Bixby ranch.

Saints Open Against Orange

COACH OLIVER PLANS PAIR OF PRACTICE TILTS

Santa Ana high school will open its 1930 football season against Orange at Poly field September 26 or 27, according to tentative arrangements that have been made by Coaches "Tex" Oliver of Santa Ana and Stewart White of Orange.

This will be the first of two practice games for the Saints.

The second "tuneup" has not been scheduled but Oliver is hopeful of getting together October 4 with some strong prep eleven, perhaps from Los Angeles, which will give his charges a stern workout. Monrovia was the Saint's second opponent last fall.

Santa Ana has the toughest schedule in its history this season and if Oliver can engineer his disciples through it and into first place he will have accomplished something no other coach ever has done here—the winning of two major championships in the same year. Oliver's track team won both the Southern California and State titles this spring.

The Saints open against Woodrow Wilson of Long Beach, a new member of the stronger-than-ever Coast Preparatory league. The Wilson game is to be played at Long Beach October 11.

Then in rapid Saturday succession follow these opponents: Compton, Pasadena, San Diego, Glendale, Long Beach Poly and Fullerton.

The Fullerton scrimmage, renewing athletic relations between these ancient football rivals, is scheduled for the Santa Ana gridiron Thanksgiving Day.

Santa Ana junior college's football schedule will be virtually the reverse of the high school's. The Dons will play the same cities but at opposite places. When the Saints are home the Dons will be away and when the Dons are home the Saints will travel.

Elect Officers At Skeet Club Dinner Tonight

Officers for the coming year will be elected at a dinner meeting of the Santa Ana Skeet club at the Santa Ana cafe tonight. Members will assemble at 7 o'clock.

Vernon Barnhill, Walter Berry and Cal Gregg all tied for first place in yesterday's shoot. They broke 22 birds. Herb Carter, Mel Morgan, Arnold Peek and Arthur Steward hit 21. Joe Teel had 17, Les Hare and Theo. Reuter 15, and Warren Barnhill 6.

SIX GAMES ON CITY LEAGUE'S SCHEDULE HERE

This will be one of the most important weeks of Santa Ana's night baseball season.

While the Stars are meeting Whittier here Tuesday and Long Beach at Long Beach Friday, City league pastimers will be anything but idle.

The race for the second half championship of the inter-mural circuit is proving almost as hot as that for the first half which found two teams tying for the streamer.

At present the Pacific Telephone company is out in front, having scored four straight victories, but the Pole-Climbers have a tough row ahead of them with the American Legion, Peek's market, Eastern Oil company and the Richfield Oilers on their schedule in almost successive weeks. These four teams are tied for second place with three victories as against one defeat.

Three double-headers are scheduled for City leaguers this week.

Tonight at 6:45, the Dennis Printers play the Auto Club of Orange County. When they are through the Excelsior creamery takes on the Orange County Builders' exchange.

The Courthouse and the Richfield Oilers mingle in the curtain-raiser Wednesday. The American Legion and the Pacific Telephone company clash in one of the most important games of the season at 8:15.

Peek's market goes against the Eastern Oilers at 6:45 Thursday night. The Dennis Printers and the Builders' exchange clash in the second game of their two-out-of-three first half playoff in the nightcap Thursday.

YANK PLAYERS DOUBT BOROTRA TO QUIT TENNIS

BY DAVIS J. WALSH
(I.N.S. Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—Members of the Davis cup tennis team, who have been gamely enduring life at Southampton, profess themselves to be amused today by the announcement that Jean Borotra will play no more tennis on behalf of France and that the shock is almost too much for a saddened nation to bear.

This must be very comical, because a tennis player is all to seldom amused. He has to stand out there in the fresh air all afternoon and naturally is greatly depressed about everything.

The Davis cup squad also seems to be unimpressed with Rene Lacoste's declaration of doubt as to his ability to return to international tennis next year. The young man, it seems, is now so ill that all he can do is play four or five sets of tennis every day.

Stronger Than Ever

Anyhow, they say that Borotra will cease to appear in tennis matches at such time as they drive up in a hearse and bear him tenderly away. There are said to be several reasons for this and that neither of them is at all unimportant.

The implied result of these observations would seem to be that France will be stronger next year at a time when America may be at its weakest. They will have Cochet and Lacoste, respectively, the one-two ranking stars of world tennis, and Borotra, if they deem that he is needed. We will have what we lost with this year, minus Mr. William T. Tilden. There is alleged to be only one essential difference between the withdrawals of Borotaa and Mr. Will Tilden. The latter will not be asked to change his mind.

At that, he is the only American to win a singles match in the challenge round since France took the cup in 1927, so the inference is rather significant. It seems that our available singles players must bet very much better or that France's must get very much worse. As to that even the returning Americans admit that France can win the cup next year with Cochet and a couple of poor relations. They say he is greater now than ever before and that his defeat by Wilmer Allison at Wimbledon was due to the fact that he thought he couldn't lose and, then when it was too late, found he couldn't win.

U. S. Must Plan Anew

Frankly, American's failure this year with Lacoste out of action represents the end of plans for immediate results and the beginning of a tedious reconstruction period, looking toward the future for its hope. Our best man, Lott, seems to be just good enough to lose in the challenge round by close scores. Van Ryn and Allison were the world's ranking doubles team when it left Wimbledon but Allison since hasn't even been able to hit one as far as the net. The only thing certain about Doeg and Mangin, reserve singles players, is that they are extremely uncertain.

Maybe the immediate future rests with 18-year-olds like Sidney B. Wood and Ellsworth Vines. A lot of people seem to think so.

Vines, for instance, beat Frank Hunter twice in one week and looked the part of quite a man. Woods then beat Vines in straight sets and last week came from behind to win from Lott, Frank Shields, winner over Tilden, and Allison. It takes a good man to do that.

However, only victories in the national championship really count and, besides, we don't need men who are merely good.

HE'S VERSATILE

Do you know this young man? He has been a tennis star of high ranking this summer. This fall his name will be in bold headlines because of his sensational football feats for Harvard. Sure, he is Barry Wood jr., the forward passing, quarterbacking youth who cut such fancy capers on eastern gridirons a year ago.

HERNANDEZ IN HEADLINE BOUT HERE THURSDAY

Rewarded for many months of able service in the ranks, Urban Hernandez, clever young lightweight from Placentia, is promoted into the main event class this week by Promoter-Matchmaker H. T. Foust of the Orange County Athletic club.

The Delhi impresario promised Hernandez a main event if he made a good showing against the tough Battling Ortega two weeks ago, and Foust made good when Hernandez stopped Ortega after being all but knocked out himself in the very first round.

Hernandez has been an honest, conscientious performer at Delhi for two years. Starting in curtain-raisers, he slowly but surely improved until he moved from spot to spot and finally into the semi-windups a few weeks ago.

Many shrewd boxing men believe Hernandez is even a better prospect that "Wild Man" Macias who graduated from the ranks into top spots several months ago and instantly made good with a vengeance.

Jimmy Fox, a 21-year-old lightweight from Los Angeles, will met Hernandez in his first "main." Fox is considerably more experienced than the Placentian and probably will go postward a favorite. Fox has boxed such fellows as Baby Sal, Joey Medill, Jackie Carr, Richie King and Dario Barron.

Hernandez and Fox are slated for eight rounds at 135 pounds.

Promoter Foust announced the rest of his card today also.

Battling Ortega, the lightweight who nearly spoiled Hernandez' main event hopes, is slated for the semi this week. Ortega will face Don Smith, Compton amateur sensation, over the six-round distance.

Eddie O'Day and Jack Gilmore, heavyweights, will travel six rounds in the special. Other bouts are Art Molino vs. Willie Pitcher, six rounds; Andy de la Parra vs. "Sunny Boy" Thompson, 4 rounds.

WHITTIER DUE TOMORROW FOR SEASON FINALE

Eighteen weeks of the keenest kind of competition will be completed by the Santa Ana Stars Friday night when they unofficially close their season in the National Night Baseball league.

Two games this week, one in the Bowl tomorrow with Whittier and the other at Long Beach Friday, will be the thirty-fourth and thirty-fifth that Herb Salveson's merrymen have played since the conference schedule got under way in th ecool spring evenings of April.

Finishing their regular schedule does not mean that the Stars will turn in their flaming red monkey-suits for the summer, of course.

Barring an unexpected turn in its fortunes, Santa Ana this week will cinch the second half of the National league's split schedule and thus qualify for a playoff with Whittier, the first half champion, to determine which meets Colton for the Southern California title.

Colton Cinches Inland Title

Colton cinched the second half of the American Night league's split season by defeating Riverside, 6 to 2, Friday night. Colton also won the first half so it will not have to indulge in any kind of a playoff in its own confederacy.

The Santa Ana-Whittier game tomorrow will be the last league tilt the Stars play in the Bowl unless the championship hinges on the outcome of the so-called "postponed game" with Orange still held over from the Fourth of July. Santa Ana will not play Orange if it defeats both Whittier and Long Beach, or if it wins either game and La Habra beats Anaheim at Anaheim tomorrow.

Tickets for reserved seats to the Santa Ana-Whittier affray went on sale today at Baker's bakery, 214 West Fourth street, and the El Corral service station, Third and Birch streets. The demand was brisk this morning but Star officials do not anticipate a sellout, and are reserving seats only as an accommodation for local fans who thus will not have to go to the park early in the evening to be sure of vantage points. No tickets are being sent to Whittier which usually supports its club enthusiastically.

Whittier Team Slumps

With so much at stake, the contest would figure to pack 'em in under ordinary conditions but Whittier, already in the playoffs because of its first half success, will not send its usual large delegation here. The Quakers have made a disappointing showing this half, and interest in Quakertown is said to be apathetic. This will pep up, of course, when the first and second half champs get together later.

Whittier has won three straight games from the Stars and will be an even bet to take it four in a row. Good pitching, fast baserunning and timely hitting have made the Quakers invincible every time they have opposed the Stars. Lloyd Johnson and "String" McDonnell are Whittier's pitchers. Johnson probably will work here.

Joe Cornelius will draw Santa Ana's assignment as usual. Whittier is the only team in theleague the iron man hasn't 'taken" and he has set his heart on turning this trick tomorrow.

HOOKS and SLIDES

THE PHILLY MYSTERY

Will somebody please rise and tell the class why the Philadelphia National League ball team cannot win ball games? This has become to me an awful mystery of this baseball age.

It is a team of sluggers. Led by Chuck Klein and Lefty O'Doul, to both of whom the average of .400 is just a whole lot of fun, the club leads the league in the department of pitcher punishment. When I looked at the team batting marks the other day, the Phils were leading with a mark of .328. That, my friends, is a whole lot of lumber work.

Would the secret be hidden in the fielding averages? No, not there, for the Phils as a team are not bad fielders. In recent tabulations they were fourth in the league in fly-catching and grounder-stabbing. There are some nifty thirdbasemen. There are Thevenow, Hurst, Fresco Thompson, Jack Sherlock and the efficient Barney Friberg, the handy man.

Shufflin' Phil Collins has won a top-heavy percentage of his games. A recent average was 10 won and three lost. But aside from Collins there is not another .500 pitcher on the club. Much was expected of Willoughby this year. He won one and lost nine of his first 10 games. Of his first 12 games, Ray Benge won six and lost seven. Collard won five and lost six of his first 11. Elliott won three and lost six out of nine. Sweetland, in his first eight games, won two and lost six.

From the figures, it begins to appear that only the pitchers can be blamed. Yet they simply cannot be that rotten. In two recent games the team made 30 great big runs—and lost both games. It looks as though Burt Shotten himself could step in there and pitch better ball than that.

The team has been playing the toughest kind of breaks a ball team ever fell heir to. In one game recently the Cubs beat them 19 to 15. They pile up lots of runs in one game, but the other team makes lots of runs, too, and they lose. The next day they make three runs and the enemy makes four or five.

BURT BEARS UP

In the face of perverse fortunes, Burt Shotten is bearing up nobly like the true gentleman that he is. These things are very hard to explain sometimes. Look at Brooklyn last year and this year for the other side of the luck story. Last year the Brooklyn pitchers looked sour. This year Flatbush has a park full of Christy Mathewsons and Eddie Planks. The same guys, too, with a couple of news faces.

Burt is sure of his job for next year, according to advices from Philly. Baker likes him. Everybody likes Burt, in fact, but the baseball fates that have treated him so harshly. Here is a ma nto whom we wish a whole lot of good luck and a benchful of capable flingers.

They started as pals at the bottom of the ladder in 1920. They played the little towns around Chicago, then gradually ascended to the heights. Ten years later, we find them both skidding rapidly down the shute with little, if anything, to keep them from plunking into the pit. Who? Why, Sammy Mandell and Bud Taylor.

Both were great lads and both were great boxers. Taylor also was a savage little fighter and a terrific hitter. Each remains a drawing card in the vicinity where he started. Both probably will continue Sammy is only 26 and Bud is 27. The rungs in the ladder they climbed once before have been broken out. It's sad, but their pugilistic dreams are over.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

Jackie (Kid) Berg and "Keed" Chocolate, who fought Aug. 7 at the Polo Grounds, might have been matched on some other date if it hadn't been for a hunch of Luis Guitterez, pilot of Chocolate . . . Luis insisted on that day because it is the second anniversary of the Keed's first bout in the United States . . . Chocolate drew exactly $35 for whipping Eddie Enos at Mitchel field in that bout . . . "Hey George, whose working today?" a fan yelled to Pitcher Pipgras as he warmed up before the dugout recently . . . "Me and the outfielders," calmly replied the big Yankee . . . Dwight F. Davie, governor general of the Philippines and doner of the Davis cup tennis trophy, advocates creation of a new Far Eastern zone in the championship play . . . He says it costs too much time and money for teams of the Orient to play in the American or European zones . . . With a third zone, Davis believes greater interest will be created in Japan, China, the Philippines and Australia.

M'KINNEY AND JOHNSON SCORE IN MEDAL PLAY

Both shooting net 67's, B. Z. McKinney and M. E. Johnson won Class A and Class B medal play sweepstakes, respectively, at the Santa Ana Country club yesterday.

Dr. E. H. Rowland trailed Johnson in the "B" section with 92-22—70. Millburn G. Harvey, 91-20—71, and A. A. Beard, 95-24—71, were next in line.

Anapauma got a run in the first inning and another in the second, then went scoreless until the sixth when it pushed around two more tallies.

ANAHEIM, COLTON IN CLASH TONIGHT

Colton, the team that has won 19 of its 20 games in the American Night Ball league this summer and which Santa Ana may play for the Southern California championship, will make its first appearance in Orange county tonight.

The Railroaders play Anaheim an exhibition game at Anaheim, repaying a visit the Valencias made inlard last week. Colton won the first Anaheim set-to, 6-5, in 11 innings.

SHOOTING with SHUTE

by DENNY SHUTE

Of all the shots one faces in the course of a golf season, I think none is so trying as the explosion. I believe most golfers feel the same way about it, too.

An explosion shot, to become fundamental, is one made in deep sand where the ball lies in a heel print, depression or is so placed that is cannot be lifted out of the bunker by being hit cleanly.

In other words, an explosion shot is one made, not by hitting the ball, but by hitting back of it into the sand and letting the sand raise the ball up and onto the green.

The distance one hits into the sand back of the ball varies according to the distance one wants the ball to go. Sometimes the lie is such that one must shoot over a second bunker to reach the green or, in other cases, he may need a fairly long shot because the ball lies across on the other side of the green.

In that case, hit into the sand only an inch or so back of the ball. I cannot tell you exactly how much back of the ball you should hit. You will have to judge simply by going out and tearing up some green-keeper's well-smoothed trap with a lot of practice.

All I can tell you about it is to hit back of the ball wit ha tremendous lot of force. You'll have to try it yourself.

MISS CRUICKSHANK DOUBLES CHAMPION

Sharing with "Midge" Gladman of Santa Monica the women's doubles championship of the Easthampton, N. Y., tournament, Miss Josephine Cruickshank, Santa Ana's sensational young tennis player, today was scheduled to begin play in a tournament at Rye, N. Y., the last in which she will engage before entering the National championships at Forest Hills.

The Misses Cruickshank and Gladman won the doubles crown by beating Marjorie Morrill, Dedham, Mass., and Penelope Anderson, Richmond, Va., 3-6, 8-6, 7-5.

The Californians failed to hit their stride until the second set when they lashed out after trailing at 2-4, evened the count at 4-all and then won the set on the fourteenth game with Miss Cruickshank serving. Miss Cruickshank scored the winning point, an ace that Miss Anderson could not reach. In the final set, with the score 6-5 in favor of the Californians, Miss Cruickshank served a love game for set and match.

COURTS GRANT SIX DIVORCES TO PLAINTIFFS

Six interlocutory divorce decrees were granted in superior court on Friday after hearings in which the defendants all failed to appear to contest the actions.

Lucile S. Jackson, who was married in Caddo, Louisiana, in 1920, was granted a divorce from Walter N. Jackson on a charge of cruelty. Mrs. Jackson was represented in court by Mrs. Clara Cushman, attorney.

Instances of cruelty and charges of desertion were told to the court by Martha C. Gleave, who has been married to Richard E. Greave for over 29 years. Her decree was granted.

Mannie Simberg charged that his wife, Ella L. Simberg, whom he married in 1913, started a course of cruel conduct with him in 1929, kissed another man, who was a guitar player, on numerous occasions and seemed to prefer the company of the other man to that of himself. He was given a divorce decree.

Cruelty was the charge that won freedom from Cipriano Errecarte for Frances Errecarte, who took the stand and told of several instances that resulted in the court granting a decree.

Helen C. Reyes won a divorce from Ynsente Reyes on a charge of cruel and inhuman treatment.

These five cases above were handled by Judge James L. Allen.

Judge G. K. Scovel tried the case that resulted in a decree for C. W. Kibel from Bessie M. Kibel. They had been married 21 years. Cruel and inhuman treatment was alleged by the plaintiff.

Vote for James Sleeper, incumbent for County Assessor. He has fought the people's battle against the big interest for years, and has made their assessments in proportion to the small tax payers.

TAXPAYERS AND VOTERS

My opponent Mr. Montgomery and his friend, Mr. Sidnam have in the past few evenings been working on the assessment rolls, now in the Auditor's office, checking the assessments (I am informed) of the Bixby's, Hellman's, Irvine Company, Susan P. Bryant, Union Oil Company and others, and for fear that they will not give their information out in time for the tax payers, before election, to make a personal investigation and examination for himself of these assessments and any others he wishes to and compare with the adjoining property, his own property or the property in the other districts of the county.

I am extending to you an invitation to come to the Assessor's office, Room 204, Court House, where we have maps showing the location of all the real property in the County, the kind of trees, their age, condition and number of acres, a list of all the personal property and improvements and how we arrive at the value of Mineral Rights of the Oil Companies. Make this investigation yourself; we will assist you in every way we can; do not let someone do this for you who has, to the best of my knowledge, never been in the Assessor's office of Orange county.

I have no fear of how you will cast your vote if you personally investigate this matter as you should.

JAMES SLEEPER,

REAL ESTATE LOANS

REFINANCING YOUR present real estate loan may save you both money and worry.

Our loans are written on a note bearing an actual rate of 7% simple interest per annum. The interest is computed on the balance remaining after each payment is made.

A moderate office fee, based upon the size of the loan and covering the loan for the full term, is charged if the loan is consummated.

In addition to our low rate of 7%, our loans afford these advantages: (1) They may cover as much as 65% to 75% of the sound market value of the property. (2) They do not need renewal and therefore eliminate the periodical trouble and expense attendant on renewing short term loans. (3) If the provisions of the note are observed they cannot be called. (4) They are paid by small uniform monthly instalments of principal and interest—ranging from $8.99 to $15.09 per $1000, depending upon the length of time the loan runs.

Comparison with other monthly payment loans will show you the outstanding economy of our 7% loans.

We are making prompt advances on residential and income properties meeting our qualifications, in and near to cities served by our offices.

Your investigation of our 7% plan may disclose important economies and other advantages you may gain by refinancing. We invite a call, or if this is inconvenient send for booklet.

Little changes in the standings of candidates in the Fox Theaters-Santa Ana Register popularity contest, was noted Saturday night with the latest counting of ballots.

Mario Mercurio continued to hold first position among the boys in the contest and Luvina Layton Schade, of the Green Cat cafe, was still safely intrenched in the women's first position.

The leaders in the contest all polled a large number of votes during the last two days of the week, but it did not change their positions.

Ted Newcomb, who went into third place a week ago made big gains, while Leona Zimmerman showed unexpected strength during the last counting of the ballots.

The contest comes to a close on Aug. 24, two weeks from yesterday and the mad scramble for votes will be particularly more interesting the last two weeks of the contest.

The first prize is the choice of any of the prizes offered by a number of Santa Ana merchants, together with the leading part in a feature motion picture to be made in Santa Ana by the Fox organization.

County Aid For Woman Greater Than Reported

A statement issued today by Walter S. Gregg, director of the county department of social welfare, calls attention to the fact that instead of an allowance of rent money and 50 cents a day being made for the support of Mrs. John C. Knight, as stated in an article yesterday quoting Superior Judge James L. Allen, his department has spent $70 on the case since it first came to his attention on June 9, 1930. This covers a period of 61 days. Of this amount, $42 was spent for food, according to Gregg, and the balance for rent.

Gregg further stated that the woman, whose husband is serving a jail sentence as a condition of probation, has refused to ask for or accept help from her relatives, who came here from Fresno and Los Angeles to see the department in connection with the case, but insists that because of her husband's incarceration, the county must support her.

The fiftieth anniversary of the installation of the first telephone in the City of Duluth, Minn., was celebrated on August 1, 1930.

Daylight Delays Playing Of Game

WACO, Tex., Aug. 11.—(INS)—"Game postponed on account of daylight."

That is a new one heralded to an eager sporting world. At a night's contest between the Waco Clubs of Dallas, to be played under flood lights and beginning at 8 o'clock, there was too much daylight for the game to be played properly.

So the umpire in a resonant voice announced to his fans that the game would be postponed twenty minutes in order to allow darkness to creep upon the field and give the lights proper glow.

is often the turning point in health

THE turning point in health is 40; the average age when wear and tear of life begins to take its toll.

One of the most prevalent "after 40 ailments" is kidney breakdown. Over half of men and women are afflicted in some degree; many without knowledge of it, for there are no warning symptoms.

Medical Science now gives the cause: 75% of poisonous waste from the system is excreted by kidneys, much in too concentrated form. Overburdened, delicate kidney cells break down. Congestion occurs, throwing back into the system the poisons which should be eliminated. This becomes the forerunner of many serious ills.

Doctors now advise this preventive: Drink six glasses of Puritas mineral-free water each day. Puritas dilutes poisonous waste, dissolves and washes it away, thus lightening the load of kidneys. Mineral-free, it leaves no congestion-forming deposits. Thus Puritas constantly protects the normal functioning of kidneys.

Puritas water, scientifically distilled and aerated, is mineral-free, impurity-free; water in its purest state. Although you'll find its taste different at first, each drink becomes increasingly enjoyable.

Addresses Heard Yesterday In Santa Ana Churches

INCIDENT FROM REBELLION OF ABSALOM TOLD

At the Broadway and Walnut street Church of Christ yesterday morning, the Rev. James S. Sewell, minister, took for his subject an incident in the story of Absalom's rebellion against his father, David, King of Israel, found in the 17th chapter of II Samuel.

He related briefly the story of Absalom's stealing the hearts of the people of Israel from his father, gathering an ary and raising a revolt against David. The king fled from Jerusalem with only a small array of followers compared with Absalom's army that would be as the sands of the seashore for multitude, and then attack. Absalom took the advice of Hushai, and waited to gather a huge army; but David also gathered such an army that when the battle occurred, Absalom lost his army, the kingdom and his life.

The pastor then said:

"We may learn two lessons from this incident. The first is that God exercises protecting care over those who try to do His will. The record says God saw to it that the counsel of Ahithopel, which would have brought victory to Absalom, was rejected, and that Hushai's counsel, which would bring defeat to Absalom, was accepted. David was a man after God's own heart; not that David did not sin. He committed grievous sins, but when reminded of them, he sincerely repented and turned from his sin. Hence God protected him in his hour of distress, and David could well say in the language of the sublime 23rd Psalm: 'The Lord is my Shepherd; I shall not want.'

"The second lesson to be learned from this incident is that when we have a work to do, let us do it now, to the best of our ability, not waiting till we have greater ability or greater opportunity, not waiting till circumstances are more favorable, till we are more influential, till our resources are increased; but do now, to the extent of our ability, the work that lies before us, trusting God to give us increased ability, strength and influence."

Declaring that the only way to be safe in religion is to reject everything that is not taught, either by express precept or inspired example, the Rev. J. W. Saunders, evangelist at the Southside Church of Christ, preached yesterday morning on "False Teachers."

"The discourses of Jesus are filled with denunciations of and warnings against false teachers," he declared. "He realized that false teaching would be the greatest hindrance to the progress of His kingdom in the world. For this season he pointed out their characteritstics that his disciples might be on their guard. Here are some of them.

"They teach men to break what they are pleased to call least commandments. In other words, some of the things which God has plainly commanded are to be treated with indifference because they are non-essential. This idea is utterly foreign to the teaching of the Bible. God does not tell men to do anything that is non-essential. If it is commanded it is essential to the salvation of our souls.

"They are described as being wolves in sheep's clothing. This clearly indicates hypocrisy. They wear the mask of friendship to God's cause when in reality they are its worst enemies.

"Then often do many wonderful works in the name of Christ. This, however, is no guarantee that they are of Christ. Many wonder-workers will be invited to leave the presence of Christ as workers of iniquity.

"The only way to be safe in religion is to reject everything that is not taught either by express precept or by inspired example."

UNION SERVICE SERMON GIVEN BY DR. WARMER

Dr. George A. Warmer, of the First Methodist church, was preacher at the union evening church service in the First Presbyterian church last night. His subject was: "How May We Think of God?" and his text was the first four words of the Bible, "In the beginning God." Dr. Warmer asserted that a strange thing is happening in our world and that we are scarely aware of it. He pointed out that theologies are written on practically every religious subject save that of God, yet He is the greatest idea in the minds of men.

"In a real sense every man creates his own God," he declared. "He is not made different by our concepts of Him, but He is to us only what we conceive Him to be.

"The rise in the quality of the thought of God from a mere physical being to the great 'world soul' of Emerson is a story worthy of deep consideration.

"Thugh much of individual as well as radical experience the idea has grown up that the God our hearts today have conceived of is personal, busy, interested, loving—a Father.

"The first law of science is that of cause and effect. Since evolution is the vital principal operating in the heart of the universe the superintendent of the process must be giving deep concern to its ongoing. A completed creatin would imply an exhaused universe and a dead creator. Said Talling 'Science finds God everywhere and everywhere finds Him busy.'

"To distinguish God from the gods Jesus revealed Him as one who is Father. He is Father to every race and class and nation. He is the God of the second chance. He is not the trial of the disobedient to overwhelm them in their way-wardness, but to woo them back to His own heart and to the abundant way of life."

The music at this service was furnished by the chior of the First Methodist church, with Mrs. W. B. Snow at the organ. A special feature was a solo by Mrs. Warmer, with a 'cello obligato by Edward Burns.

CONQUERING OF FEAR IS TOPIC OF DR. WARMER

Using as his text those words of the Psalmist "God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble; therefore we will not fear," Dr. George A. Warmer discussed the subject "The Conquest of Fear," at the First Methodist church yesterday morning. He said in part that fear is one of the greatest deterrent forces in the development of a normal life, that fear is the most subtle enemy of mankind and that the elimination of fear is essential to our true happiness and success.

"Many are fearful that when old age arrives they will be sick and afflicted, without sufficient means with which to care for themselves. Some are fearful that they will lose their positions and that another one will de difficult to find," the pastor said.

"On account of this fear thought, men and women every day are creating the circumstances and conditions which attract to them the very things which they fear most. No man can think in terms of poverty and have abundance, in terms of sickness and have health, in terms of hatred and have love. Nor can a man think in terms of fear and possess peace and courage.

"We are not saying this for the man or woman who day in and day out permits himself or herself to practice deception. It is folly for the medical man who deceives his patients, the lawyer who daily indulges in sharp practices, the business man who endeavors to succeed by dishonesty, to expect beneficial results unless all such conduct is immediately discontinued.

"He has no great fear who is self dedicated to a great purpose. Arriving at his objective may require terrible sacrifice and long patient hours of waiting but the pull of the goal holds him steady. Fear is conquered by a great affection. 'Perfect love casteth out fear.' These words of the apostle have been demonstrated in a thousand ways throughout the centuries. The fear complex is annihilated by a deep sense of dependence upon God.

"It's a great thing to have a father. One feels that there is someone who will stand by in every crisis, through every trial. A friend demonstrates friendship by carrying so much of the overload as one is not able to bear. Fortunate the man who is a friend maker.

"God is the great friend. As a ship stands by to assist a crippled seamate, so God gives grace for the trial, strength for the burden and helps us carry on until carrying on is carrying through."

PASTOR TELLS ABOUT GOSPEL OF GOOD CHEER

"The Rev. Edgar Rothrock, pastor of the Church of the Brethren, spoke on "The Gospel of Good Cheer," yesterday morning. He said in part:

"There are five kinds of good cheer of Jesus that should be realized in every heart. The first was spoken by the multtiude to the blind man on the Jerico road, who cried "Jesus, thou Son of David, have mercy on me.' At Jesus' request they said, 'Arise, be of good cheer, He calleth thee.' The world is a blind man sitting beside the road of life that leads to the holy city, begging for a pittance while the gift of light is passing by. This good cheer is attained by the blind when they throw away the garments of sin and hasten to Jesus. He only can give light and life.

"The second good cheer was spoken by Jesus to the man paralyzed, who was carried by his friends to Jesus. Jesus looked on him with compassion and said 'Son be of good cheer, thy sins are forgiven thee.' The forgiveness of sins removes from the human heart the bonds which hinder the soul in its normal functions. Rottenness is healed and purity shines out. Fear loses its grip in the confidence of true love.

"The third good cheer was spoken by Jesus to the timid woman who said, 'If I but touch the hem of his garment I shall be made whole.' She touched and was healed. Jesus met her faith by saying in the presence of all: "Woman, be of good cheer, thy faith hath made thee whole.'

"The lack of faith keeps many in spiritual poverty. Even the material world lavishes its best blessings on the men who dare. Try Jesus, and hear Him say 'Be of good cheer, thy faith hath made thee whole.'

"The fourth good cheer was spoken to the fearful group in the storm tossed boat in the Galilean night storm. They cried out in fear but the voice of the Master came out of the dark night 'Be of good cheer, it is I, be not afraid.' They thought He did not know or care for their helpless plight. But He saw from the mountain top of prayer their peril and when the danger was most imminent His presence brought the good cheer.

"The fifth good cheer is one of victory. The cross was now casting a long shadow but the Saviour of all said 'In me ye have peace, in the world ye have tribulation, but be of good cheer I have overcome the world.' Our leader was made perfect through suffering. His was the victory of humiliation and suffering, the only one that can bring the good cheer of victory and bestow the peace that passeth all understanding. These constitute the Gospel of Good Cheer."

NEVER FAILING FRIEND TOPIC OF S. A. PASTOR

At the First United Brethren church yesterday, the Rev. R. W. Harlow, pastor, spoke on the topic: "The Never-Failing Friend."

"The wise man Soloman was talking about true friendship," he began. "No one can truthfully say, I am independent, I need the help and friendship of none. It seems that God has so arranged it in the affairs of this life, that each of us is more or less dependent on the other. From the cradle to the grave we are dependent creatures. With all the wealth of all the world placed at our feet and not a friend with us, we would be of all men most miserable.

"If friends are necessary to happiness, then we must show our sleves friendly. One has said that a true friend is one who comes into one's life when all others have gone out. Socrates when building a house, was asked why he didn't build larger. His answer was, 'I consider it large enough if it were filled with real friends.' Human friendships are sometimes very changeable. Humanity is about the same today as in the time of the apostles and when the Lord healed a crippled man under Paul's preaching at Lystra, the people were ready to worship him. But in a few hours, under another kind of an influence they stoned him and carried him out of the city for dead.

"Sometime ago a father made an agreement with his son to deed him all of his property if he would take care of him in his home as long as he lived. All went well for a time. One day the son was making a trough and his little boy came out and said, 'Papa what are you making?' 'Well my boy,' he replied, 'you know that Grandpa is getting old and feeble now and is not nice and tidy at the table any more, so I am making a trough for him to eat out of.' 'Oh yes papa, when you get old and feeble and trembly, like grandpa, then I will make a trough for you to eat out of.' Let us honor father and mother, that our days may be long on the land which the Lord our God hath given us. For what we sow we shall reap.

"True friendship is different. It sticks to the last, though all earthly friends may forsake us, there is one who will never forsake us. Though father and mother forsake us the Lord will take us up. He will be with us in the sixth trouble and in the seventh. He will not forsake us. I will go with you all the way, even unto the end of the world. This friend will be your friend if you will accept Him as your Saviour King. In Him all your need shall be supplied."

REV. O. SCOTT M'FARLAND TALKS ON 'RIVER OF LIFE' AT UNION VESPER SERVICE

A good attendance again marked the vesper service at Birch park beginning at five o'clock last evening. The audience enjoyed an especially fine worship hour which was under the direction of the First Presbyterian church.

Music was furnished by a chorus of 25 voices under the direction of Miss Ruth Armstrong, and by Oswald Stock, who played a trombone solo, "The Holy City." The choir sang for an anthem "Praise Ye the Father," by Gounod.

The sermon was on the subject "The River of Life" and was delivered by the Rev. O. Scott McFarland, minister of the First Presbyterian church. Taking as his text—"All the rivers run into the sea; unto the place from whence the rivers come, thither they return again," the Rev. Mr. McFarland spoke about the mysterious river of life—its origin, its meaning, its destiny. In his opening words he referred to David Livingstone who was called by the natives of Africa "The Seeker of Rivers." He said in part:

"A three-fold purpose moved Livingstone toward Africa: the evnagelization of the native races, the exploration of a hidden continent and the abolition of the slave traffic. Evangelization, exploration, emancipation—no mortal man has ever had a greater life purpose. Livingstone saw three great rivers—the Nile, the Congo and the Zambesi—emptying into three separate oceans and he thought that if he could solve the riddle of their sources he would be able to open up a continent to commerce and civilization.

"We all oat for a brief day upon the mysterious river of life. Many give no thought to its origin nor to its destiny. Others are perplexed about it all and sing the plaintive song of their perplexity—'Nobody knows.' The more thoughtful of us wish to know whence it came and whiter is goes and wat it is all about. Here, only religion can help us. The worth of religious faith depends on the light it throws upon life's origin, meaning and destiny.

"The Scriptures tell us who made things and with what loving intent Me made them. Nothing came into being until God said 'Let it be So.' The creation of the world and of man is the result of God's loving wish. How shall we explain God who had no beginning? Here is where the finite mind of man is completely baffled. Sir Arthur Thompson says that 'the vulgar belief that science has explained everything is a gross misunderstanding.' We know by faith and revelation that man came out of the loving heart of God and that we are God's children.

"The average man, however, is not troubled much by the problem of his origin; but he is greatly checked for lack of a program in life. Louis Untermeyer, in trying to explain the suicide of his son, puts his finger upon the blind spot in modern civilization when he says, 'We do not understand life. Anyone who pretends to is bluffing—preachers and all. We are done with religion. What we want in place of religion faith is faith in life itself.' That is tragically humurous. What is religion but faith in life itself? Jesus came that man might find himself—His great business is to interpret the meaning of life—and to show us the way into abundant living. But in this day when people need a religious faith and teaching that will enable them to motivate their living in keeping with the spirit and power of Christ, we people of the churches have allowed the traffic on the main boulevard of religious teaching and experience to become jammed with little isms and petty dogmas that should be parked on the allays and side streets.

"What is life's destiny? Wiggam, in his 'The New Decalogue of Science' says that 'The universe stands revealed at last in all its gaunt nakedness as a mere machine without sympathy or purpose. Man is found to be a brother not only to the brute but to the clod and crystal. He sweeps for a brief moment round his little orbit and passes into the trackless void with the same mechanical precision as the stars.' But Jesus, the North Star, from whom we take our bearings, says, 'Whither I go ye know, and the way ye know.' He was really saying, 'Out of the loving heart of God I came and to the loving heart of God I now return. Unto the place from whence the River of Life came, thither the River of Life returns again. I am the Way.' Jesus is the 'Breaker of the Path' to the house of our heavenly Father. Following Him we shall reach home at last and dwell in the house of the Lord forever."

FRIENDLY INDIAN CAMP UNDER WAY

Friendly Indian camp at Camp Osceola started off in fine shape yesterday afternoon. Two busses, containing 65 boys and 12 leaders, arrived at about 1:30 p. m. Assignments to cabins were made and each tribe went to wor kto put its cabin in shape.

Secretary Tibballs, assisted by R. H. McArthur, and the leaders of the whole camp, is planning a program of activities which will include baseball, hikes, swimming, campfire programs, nature study, archery and many other activities.

Following the nominating of a councilman from each cabin, Byron Nott was elected chief of the camp. He will head this council and will make suggestions to the directors of the boys' wishes in matters of program and policy.

GOD'S WAY IS EXPLAINED IN BIBLE LESSON

"God's Way" was the subject discussed before the Men's Community Bible class at the Fox West Coast theater yesterday morning by the Rev. Walter S. Buchanan, class teacher and pastor of the First Christian church. The text was "For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth on Him might have everlasting life."

"What is God's way?" the teacher asked. I want to know so that I can walk there. God has erected sign posts to show men the right way, and the text is one of the best guides.

"There are over 122,000,000 persons in the United States now, in all walks of life. Does God love all of them? Does He know them? Yes, absolutely. You and your troubles and trials are known of God. We make a mistake when we think He doesn't care.

"I can understand God better since radio has come. If one man can stand in a little room in New York and speak so 75,000,000 people can hear him distinctly, what do you think God can do? God wants no man to perish. He wants to help and save all. Some men are discouraged and say that the world is going to the devil. Some of it is, but God is going to reign supreme and it is up to you men in Santa Ana to help.

"God's way is the narrow, happy, truthful way to success in this life and eternal life."

The soloist yesterday was C. M. Lane, who sang "Invictus." The class orchestra, under the leadership of James Ingham, played several numbers.

Garden Setting Gives Colorful Charm to Luncheon

In the picturesque setting of her garden at 811 Lowell street, Mrs. M. M. Holmes entertained Saturday afternoon, with a daintily appointed 1 o'clock luncheon, assisted in her hostess duties by her daughter, Miss Mildred Holmes, her two daughters-in-law, Mrs. Max C. Holmes, and Mrs. Edwin D. Holmes, and Mrs. John A. Tessman.

The wealth of shrubbery and flowers made a lovely background for the tables, set beneath large garden umbrellas, gayly adorned with festoons of crepe paper. The tables were laid with tinted linens, and bore umbrella nut-cups of harmonizing pastel colors. Place cards also were tiny Japanese umbrellas, while baskets of gay zinnias, asters, and dahlias, placed about the gardens, lent their gay note of color to the scene.

Following the delicious two course luncheon, a contest involving the names of shrubs in the garden, took place. Miss Lula Minter, with the names of 75 plants, and Mrs. Warren Brakeman, with names of half a dozen plants that no one else could guess, were awarded prizes, which were lovely Japanese parasols.

A demonstration of each guest's favorite hobby, that included anything from vocal solos to the recitation of poetry, concluded a very interesting afternoon.

Those present in addition to the quintet of hostesses, Mrs. M. M. Holmes, Mrs. Max C. Holmes, Mrs. Edwin D. Holmes, Miss Mildred Holmes, and Mrs. John Tessmann, were Mrs. Charles Nalle, and mother, Mrs. Crawford; Mrs. J. P. Williams, and mother, Mrs. Rutherford; Mrs. L. C. They have been entertaining, among a host of other guests, Mr. Burns and his fiancee, Miss June Rose, and their friends among Avalon residents, extended many courtesies to the guests.

Musicales were given in some of the most beautiful homes in Avalon, including that of Mr. and Mrs. David M. Renton. Mr. Renton is general manager of the island and vice president of the Santa Catalina Island company, of which William Wrigley is president. Mrs. Renton is one of the Southland's better known poets, and their two sons, Malcolm and Arthur, are accomplished musicians.

Another delightful party complimenting Miss Lair and Mr. Burns and his fiancee, was given by Mr. and Mrs. Sinclair E. Carpenter. Mr. Carpenter, who is a civil engineer with the Island company, is a baritone soloist, and serves as music chairman of the community church for which Mrs. Carpenter is pianist. Joining with them in the gracious hospitality, was Hazel Page Everett, a pupil of Mme. Ellen Beach Yaw and for whose solo work of the summer, Miss Lair has served as accompanist.

Of unique charm was the hospitality extended at the Arthur Stevens home, when members of the S. S. Avalon orchestra were among the guests. Arthur Stevens is perhaps more directly responsible for Avalon's musical propensities than any other one man, as he has organized several bands and choral groups presenting concerts, cantatas, etc. He is also a musician of note, playing the piano, Tuba, French horn and trumpet.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl R. Osborne presided at another evening function with music as its theme, and the young Santa Ana artists took prominent part in the program, as well as in guest honors. Mr. Burns played such beautiful 'cello numbers as "Danse Rustique," by Squire; Schumann's "Evensong," "Traumerei" and other numbers by Wagner, Mendelssohn, Mozart and Bach. Miss Lair's piano solos included "Sospiro," by Liszt; "Danse Americaine," by Dent Mowry; "Spanish Gypsy Dance," and several other classics, and she also played accompaniments for various soloists, including Mrs. Everett.

It will be remembered that last year, while summering at Avalon, the young pianist appeared as guest artist with Maurice Menge and his orchestra in the amphitheater, and also appeared on the programs as accompanist for Mme. Mallie de Luca and Ethel Patton Roberts.

Mr. Burns is teacher of 'cello at Santa Ana Conservatory of Music, soloist with the Symphony orchestra, and connected with the Municipal band. Avalon seemed to appreciate his talents as fully as does his own community, and apparently a special effort was made to crowd as many pleasant courtesies as possible into the limited time of his stay.

The Lairs will linger at the island until the middle of September, and are expecting to entertain other friends in the meantime.

FATHER CONDUCTS BEAUTIFUL WEDDING FOR HIS DAUGHTER

Surrounded by those family and church friends who have watched her develop from a bright-eyed little maid into a charming and gracious young woman, and in the First Christian church of this city where her father was pastor for so many years, Miss Lorene Porter on Saturday night, spoke her wedding vows to Donald Nash, of Hanford, with her father, the Rev. F. T. Porter, now of Los Angeles, conducting the nuptial rites in a manner that was especially impressive to the large crowd assembled for the event.

Loving hands had garlanded the church altar with flowers—quantities of exotic lilies nodding amidst trailing asparagus fern—and had set slender tapers to make gleaming paths down the aisles and glow amidst the altar appointments. In this setting, the musical program was given added beauty, with Miss Carrie Seaton as organist, Miss Georgia Belle Walton as violinist, and Fred Bentley of Pomona, soloist. The program included "Songs My Mother Taught Me" (Dvorak) and "O Promise Me" (DeKoven) as organ-violin numbers; "Calm as the Night" by Bohn, and "Because" by d'Hardelot, as vocal solos, and the Lohengrin Wedding March as the organ processional to which the bridal party entered.

College Men Usher

A group of Mr. Nash's Delta Upsilon fraternity brothers, who served as ushers, included Messrs W. Frank Bort, Richard Henderson, Stanley Seymour, Douglass Truett and John M. Hartley, and at the signal of the Wedding March, they proceeded to the altar where the Rev. Mr. Porter awaited them, together with Mr. Nash and his brother, Ivan Nash, who was best man.

Miss Porter, entering from the rear of the church on the arm of her brother, Merrill Porter, by whom she was given in marriage, was preceded by her attendants, led by Mrs. DeRoy Dickson as honor matron. Mrs. Dickson was herself a bride of only two weeks ago, and was formerly Miss Virginia Lowell, at whose garden wedding Miss Porter had served as bridesmaid. For her maid of honor costume, she chose a sheer French organdy, whose graceful skirt swirled around her ankles. Its tones of delicate apricot were repeated in the gladioluses which, combined with sweet peas and delphinium, formed her bouquet.

Miss Pauline Porter as her sister's maid of honor, chose pale yellow net and lace for her lovely frock, which was fashioned on princess lines with a great bow of lace and net in French effect. Her flowers were yellow gladioluses, sweet peas and delphinium. The yellow tones were evidenced also in the bouffant frock worn by dainty little Jeanne Merimee who immediately preceded the bride, scattering rose petals for her path to the altar.

A Girlish Bride

Miss Porter, radiant-eyed and lovely, had chosen softest ivory satin for her quaintly formal little gown, molded to her slender form in long flowing lines, with the corded edge of the long skirt touching the toes of her ivory satin slippers. Her long tulle veil swept from a narrow band of real lace and a filmy little cap, and to complete her loveliness, was her great cluster of snowy gardenias with showers of lilies of the valley.

Following the rites, the new Mr. and Mrs. Nash, left the church to the strains of Mendelssohn, to form a receiving line in the social rooms, where they were joined by members of the wedding group, and by the Rev. and Mrs. Porter, and Mr. and Mrs. Evan Nash, parents of the bridegroom. Mrs. Porter wore a pretty flowered chiffon gown with hat to harmonize, and Mrs. Nash chose a silk crepe in yellow tones.

School Friends Aid

A bevy of pretty girls aided in serving punch and wafers, to the large guest group, and were school and college friends of the bride, including the Misses Lois Winslow, Charlene Lowell and Carol Ellisworth, Mrs. Russell Wilson and Mrs. Baxter Lowe.

Both Mr. Nash and hisb ride at-

Both Mr. Nash and his bride at-their romance began. They will make their home in Hanford after returning from the Southern California honeymoon upon which they departed after the wedding reception. Mr. Nash is associated in business with his father, Evan Nash.

Town Minus Debt Is Congratulated

HADDAM, Conn., Aug. 11.—(INS)—A town without a debt is the town of Haddam, nestled beside the broad Connecticut river, and because of the generosity of a citizen, the town has a new hall of records, made out of what once was an historic school house—Brainerd Academy.

"Your example should be followed by 168 other towns in Connecticut," Lieutenant Governor Ernest E. Rogers told the citizens when they dedicated the new town hall with great ceremony in mid July.

In Africa there are about 600 languages; in India 222.

Many Flowers Afford Charming Setting For Nuptials

When Miss Gertrude Scheffer, attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Scheffer of Tustin, chose a home ceremony for her wedding Saturday evening, to Owen Woodruff of this city, she figured in one of the prettiest nuptial rites of the late summer months.

In harmony with the prevailing color motif was the improvised altar of pink roses, stately lilies and graceful fern fronds, arranged at the archway between living room and dining-room. As members of the wedding party advanced to this altar to the strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March, they made an unforgettable picture.

Gowned in an ensemble costume of soft blue enhanced by touches of shell pink, and wearing blue satin slippers and a lacy hat which revealed her curling auburn hair, the bride was indeed lovely as she entered the room with her father. She carried a shower bouquet of pink sweet peas. Attending her as maid of honor was Miss Henrietta Scheffer, her sister, dressed in a powder-blue frock, lace-trimmed. She, too, carried pink sweet peas. Samuel Blassman, of this city, served the bridegroom as best man.

Miss Anne Scheffer, the third member of this interesting sister trio, was bridesmaid, and was very sweet in a lavender-flowered dress fashioned on long lines, and wearing a shoulder corsage of pink Cecil Bruners. The Rev. O. Scott McFarland, of the First Presbyterian church, officiated.

Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Scheffer were hosts at the wedding supper in which the pink motif was expressed in table linen and flowers. Musical features which followed, included appropriate songs by the Misses Henrietta and Anne Scheffer. Miss Anne is at present, one of KREG's leading entertainers, following in the footsteps of her two sisters, both well-known singers. The charming bride has frequently appeared on KREG programs.

Mr. and Mrs. Woodruff left for a northern honeymoon trip, presumably to Santa Barbara. Mrs. Woodruff wore a smart costume of green with harmonizing accessories. Upon their return at an early date, it is expected that they will make their home in this city. The bride has been employed as Dr. W. A. Flood's assistant for the past five years, and plans to continue in her duties there. She came here from Grand Rapids, Mich., about 13 years ago, and was graduated from Santa Ana high school. Her husband has lived in this city for a little over a year, having come here from Ontario, Calif., where his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Woodruff, have lived for some time. He attended Ontario high school and junior college. At present he is affiliated with a service station on South Main street, but is by profession a tree surgeon.

Those present at the wedding and reception included Mr. and Mrs. John Scheffer, the Misses Anne and Henrietta Scheffer, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Woodruff, and daughter, Miss Hazel Woodruff, of Ontario, Samuel McCall of Ventura, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Blassman of this city, and Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Holmes, of Long Beach.

Fraternal Brotherhood

Trickey presented five new application for membership in the junior lodge, including Gladys E. Robertson, Mary P. Boyd, Lodena Page, Mary Page, and Quincy Page jr. Following the business meeting, a delicious pot-luck supper was served by committee members Emma Smith and Ida Raymond.

Adult lodge began at 8 o'clock, with the drill team seating the officers. Harry Brookbank presided in the absence of George Furtsch, who is away on vacation. Assessments were received by P. A. Trickey, acting treasurer while Miss Pearl Furtsch is absent. Reports were given of a recent outing at Lake Elsinore, when 32 members participated in a general good time.

Plans were forwarded for a new membership campaign, as local representatives expect to get 100 new members by January first; and two new candidates were initiated, including Quincy Page, and Moro E. Page, of Tustin. Plans were made for a meeting to be held at the Fred Marsile ranch on East Seventeenth street next Friday evening, at 6:30, at which time, a delicious country supper will be served, accompanied by roasting ears, and watermelons. Each member is requested to furnish his own table service. The evening will be spent in out-of-door games.

Plans at this time will be completed for another week end outing at Lake Elsinore.

Following the lodge meeting last evening, refreshments were served by a committee consisting of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Trickey, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Ellingson, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Clayton.

Sportsman, 87, Is Still Good Rider

DENVER, Aug. 11.—Four score years is generally enough to dim the enthusiasm of even the most ardent sportsmen, but such is not the case with Judge E. A. Colburn, millionaire Denver sportsman, who is "just beginning to enjoy horse racing" at the age of 87.

Judge Colburn is to western horse fanciers what Edward F. (Pop) Geers was in the east until his death a few years ago.

Judge Colburn, who in his earlier days headed mining companies that took fabulous amounts of gold from the Rockies, has been a leading figure in the horse world since he inaugurated gentleman's riding and driving in Denver and Colorado Springs four years ago.

"The young men of today don't know the enjoyment to be found in riding and driving good horses; they've missed one of the big pleasures of life by being born in the automobile age," according to Judge Colburn.

TODAY'S RECIPE
TOMATO JUICE COCKTAIL
1 cup strained tomato juice
¼ cup boiling water
1 beef bouillon cube
2 tablespoons lemon juice
½ teaspoon sugar
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon white pepper
Finely chopped ice
Minced parsley

The clear vegetable or fruit juice cocktails came into their own when reducing diets made their appearance. The innovation is a sensible one—the icy-cold cocktail gives zest to appetite without adding materially to the calory-count.

Strain the juice off a can of tomato and chill thoroughly. Dissolve the bouillon cube in the quarter-cup of boiling water, cool, and combine with the chilled tomato juice. Add the lemon juice and seasonings.

Have the cocktail glasses half filled with finely chopped ice, pour the seasoned juice over the ice, sprinkle a pinch of the minced parsley over the top, and serve immediately.

There are four cockail portions in this recipe and each has a calory value of 25. The important thing to consider is the health value of this cocktail. Tomato juice, canned or fresh, contains much vitamin C, that important aid to general health and growth.

The cleaning of over stuffed furniture and similar upholstery is a problem with the housewife. To send them to a professional cleaner is out of the question with many women, and to attempt to clean them at home is often a disastrous job. I think I can offer some sensible suggestions and methods for cleaning such furniture, and these suggestions I have put into the current leaflet, available free of charge all this week on receipt of your stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Birthday Observed

Adelbert Penhall celebrated his seventh birthday anniversary Thursday and in his honor a party was given by his mother, Mrs. Francis Penhall, at the Penhall home.

Games were introduced for the entertainment of the children by Mrs. Penhall and her mother, Mrs. J. H. Walton, who assisted as hostess, and prizes were awarded, Audrey Penhall, of Cypress, winning in the peanut hunt and Adelbert the prize for pinning the tail on the donkey.

At the refreshment hour the children were seated at a long table where a lovely centerpiece of pink and white asters was used with pleasing effect. A large angel food birthday cake, bearing seven candles, was served with ice cream and pop corn balls.

Attending the party were the honoree, Adelbert Penhall, Audrey Alvin, and Marylin Penhall, Cypress; Merton Snow, Midway City; Julianne Day, Fred Reeves, Keith and Winifred Walton and Herbert Day of Westminster.

FROG LEGS TICKLE JAPANESE PALATES

TOKIO, Aug. 11.—Japan is acquiring a taste for frogs.

Bull-frogs legs—the dish so ravishing to the palate of the Frenchman—are finding a steady market in the principal towns of Japan. They are being served at every hotel as a "speciality" item on the menu—and they are being enjoyed.

A few years ago frogs were practically unknown in Japan. All the thousands now croaking in Japan are the offspring of hardy exiles from the United States.

An enterprising Japanese heard the raucous croak of the frog in the marshes of Louisiana. It inspired an adea, and he ordered a shipment of 1,000 frogs for his native country.

JOHN McCORMACK AT FOX WEST COAST

If you want to give your ears and eyes the season's biggest treat, go to the Fox West Coast theater as soon as possible and there you will find the long promised Fox movietone triumph, John McCormack's first stellar vehicle, "Song O' My Heart."

John McCormack's singing is worth anybody's price of admission—at concert prices, but this movietone has a story, and is enacted ably by the colorful supporting array of talent that in our humble opinion it is something you'll want to see more than once.

Throughout the story, a beautiful romance with Maureen O'Sullivan ardently being wooed by John Garrick, we see—and hear McCormack and eleven really delightful songs. The agreeable surprise about the songs, aside from the clarity of their recording, is that never once is even a single one "forced." Each is an integral part of the story that evolves coherently with the well tuned plot of the story, thanks to author Tom Barry and adaptor Sonya Levien.

McCormack's characterization as a saddened lover is so humanly enacted, one almost feels that he is living the role with this favorite tenor of all the world. But credit must be given to lovely Maureen O'Sullivan, latest movietone find for her engaging role as Eileen, daughter of his former sweetheart which role is brilliantly handled by Alice Joyce. John Garrick, J. M. Kerrigan, Tommy Clifford, Farrell Macdonald and rest do justice to their parts.

ANAHEIM

ANAHEIM, Aug. 11.—Members of the Anaheim Rebekah lodge with their families enjoyed an outing at the city park Thursday evening. There were about 60 seated at the long table for the potluck supper.

Mrs. F. Machleb, of East Vermont street, was one of those present at the beautiful church wedding in Pomona of Miss Mary Oliver, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Oliver, of Trinity Methodist church, Pomona. The Rev. Mr. Oliver read the service. The Olivers are well known in this section.

Miss Mildred Knipe was made a full pledged member of the Eta Gamma chapter of Kappa Delta Phi when she was formally initiated at a special meeting held at the home of the president, Miss Hetebrink, of Chapman avenue, and was also installed vice president. Miss Knipe, a charter member of the chapter was unable to be present for the first initiation.

Following the initiation and installation Miss Knipe was guest of honor at a dinner party given by her sisters, who are the Misses Fern Smith, Kathleen Cook, Velman, Stewart, Ruby Williams, Juanita Fiary, Edith Mathews, Mildred Proctor and Miss Hetebrink.

Millholland, low for men; Mrs. Dora Ward high for women and Mrs. Sennett low for women. Sandwiches and coffee were served by a group of the club women.

"BLUSHING BRIDES" OPENS AT BROADWAY

Three plots in one is the unusual feature connected with Joan Crawford's latest starring vehicle, "Our Blushing Brides," which will open a four-day engagement at the Fox Broadway today. The picture centers about three individual romances, namely, that of Miss Crawford and Robert Montgomery, Anita Page and Raymond Hackett and Dorothy Sebastian and John Miljan, the threads of the three separate romances tieing up with one another in an ingenious manner.

The story by Bess Mederyth presents a true to life picture of three working girls who long for the luxuries of life and discover what it costs to attain them. Miss Crawford is said to give the finest performance of her career combining her well-known "modern maiden" characterization with a more mature depictation.

Harry Beaumont who recently directed "The Florodora Girl" for Marion Davies, handled the direction of "Our Blushing Brides." The director, incidentally, also produced the picture which resulted in stardom for Miss Crawford. This was "Our Dancing Daughters," in which Miss Page and Miss Sebastian also appeared.

Mrs. Milested was the mother of Mrs. George Cook and Mrs. Orville Daugherty.

WALKER'S SHOWING "ISLE OF ESCAPE"

"Isle of Escape," the Warner Bros. and Vitaphone production which opened at Walker's State theater yesterday, is a genuinely thrilling motion picture. It is packed to the brim with scenes of exciting melodrama and tells an interesting story of the terrific struggles of a handful of white people in the midst of a tribe of primitives who have no regard for the conventions or laws of the white man.

Monte Blue, escaping from cannibals who have killed his companions, lands on the island of Samoa, where he becomes involved with the affairs of Betty Compson and Noah Beery and the eternal triangle enters the picture.

WESTMINSTER

WESTMINSTER, Aug. 11.—Miss Helen Harris, of Long Beach, came Thursday as a guest to the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. U. E. Phipps, with whom she is spending several days.

A card was received Thursday by Mr. and Mrs. Phil Trenery from Tom Trenery who recently left Westminster for an extended visit at the former family home at Truro, Cornwall, England.

Mr. and Mrs. Phil Trenery were Thursday evening visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Falcke.

Mr. and Mrs. Pollard are entertaining as their guest, a nephew of Mr. Pollard, Alman McCombs, who has arrived from Las Cruses, New Mexico on a two weeks vacation.

Mrs. Wells McCoy and daughter, Miss Helen McCoy, the latter of whom will leave soon to return to Occidental college to take post graduate course, entertained in a delightful impromptu manner in their home on Friday afternoon a few of their more intimate friends.

In this group were Mrs. Fred Basse and daughter, Miss Margaret Basse, who is spending the vacation months at home following her graduation from the junior college in Long Beach, and Miss Mable Merchant, a college friend of Miss Basse, and Mrs. J. P. Peterson and daughter, Miss Adeline Peterson, of Midway City.

Toward the close of the afternoon the hostesses served refreshments of ice cream and cake.

The regular meeting of the Presbyterian Missionary society wil lbe held next Wednesday afternoon at the Midway City home of Mrs. J. P. Peterson and the program, which will deal with China, will be taken up by Mrs. Peterson and Miss Helen McCoy.

All of the young people are especially urged to join with the missionary women at this meeting.

"I SAVED $18 LAST MONTH on Daily Transportation

. . . and I'm doing it again this month, without making any sacrifice."

"I LIVE a little over 13 miles from my office in Los Angeles," said this man who lives in a suburban city, "over a fine boulevard, but heavy traffic all the way.

"For two years I fought it twice every day...26 miles. It wore me out and I couldn't figure it cost me a bit less than 4 cents a mile. My friends said it was more. Some of them figured their costs as high as 6 and 7 cents a mile.

"Then one day I read an ad that said, 'Ride the Big Red Cars... they'll save you from $10 to $35 a month.' It said the commutation fares were only a fraction over ONE CENT a mile, that there was no traffic to fight, no parking bother or fees, and that I could rest and read while riding.

"It went on to say that schedules were planned to meet my needs, and that hundreds of thousands of busy people were riding the Red Cars to and from work every day. It suggested a ten-day trial to prove all these things for myself. I'm glad I took them up on it.

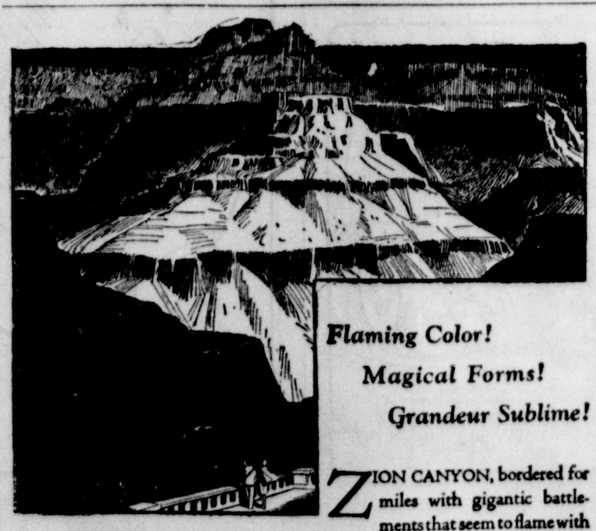

"Now I catch the car near my house every morning, read my paper or a magazine on the way to town, and I'm at the office before I know it. Going home I arrive rested, and enjoy my dinner. My wife says I'm going to keep on riding the Big Red Cars as long as I commute, and that's one thing we agree on.

"I liked the ten days so well I stretched it to a month, and figured I saved at least $18 in that time, besides parking fees. My wife likes it, because she doesn't worry any more about my having an accident in traffic. I haven't been late to the office even once during the month, and I feel a lot fresher on the job when I get there. I'm glad I made the test. I've told my friends about it, and several of them are trying the Big Red Cars this month."

Ride the Big Red Cars for comfort, safety, leisure, convenience and ECONOMY.

THE TINYMITES

STORY by HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES by KING

They watched the porter, on his way, and then wee Coppy shouted, "Say! He surely earns his money. Why that trunk must weigh a ton. I'd think 'twould make his back real lame. To carry such a load's a shame. I'll never take a job like that. It isn't any fun."

"Oh, he is used to that, no doubt. That's why he travels round about and never seems to mind it," said the kindly Travel Man. "He knows there's nothing he can gain by stopping work just to complain. He just goes on, from day to day, and does the best he can."

Then Scouty said, "I think that we are just lucky as can be. We just watch other people work and never do a thing. Once more I thank the Travel Man for doing everything he can to give us all a real good time. His praises loud I sing."

"Me, too," each other Tiny cried. The Travel Man just stood and sighed and then he said, "Well, thank you, boys. As long as you are good, I'm glad to take you here and there as long as you all treat me fair. So far you've been just dandy lads and done just as you should."

Just then they reached a funny tent and up to it the whole bunch went. "What's this?" one of the Tinies asked. The Travel Man replied, "That's where fine slipper patching's done. The man repairs them, one by one. You'll see that he is busy now, if you'll just peek inside."

And so that's what the Tinies did. It seemed the cobbler almost hid. He sat back in the tent and plied his hammer, tap, tap, tap. The old man smiled, but worked away. It seemed he had no time for play. They watched him sole a slipper, held on something in his lap.

RULES

1. In playing golf on the Missing Letter Links the object is to change one word to another in a given number of strokes which is par. For example, to go from TEE to PIN in three strokes sound hard but isn't: TEE-TIE-PIE-PIN. It's probably more difficult on a real course.

2. Change but one letter at a time and be sure the word you have used is one in good usage.

3. The order of the letters cannot be changed.

NEW ROBOT PILOT

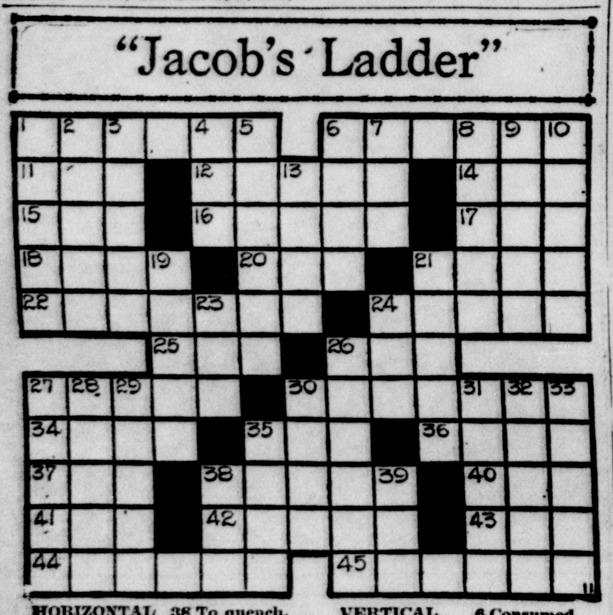

WICHITA, Kas., Aug. 11.—Richard D. Clark, of Ponca City, Okla., has recently tested out a new robot pilot here. It is to function automatically and to govern ship's elevators and ailerons, by the use of a non-powered mechanism. The device is said to assure level flight for ships when such is desired and to keep the plane on an even keel, once it has been set for that position.

'GOD SPEAKS TO HIS PEOPLE' IS LA HABRA TOPIC

LA HABRA, Aug. 11.—"How God Speaks to His People' 'was the subject of an illustrated talk last night by the Rev. Walter H. Jones, of Glendale, who is filling the pulpit at the Christian church in the absence of a regular pastor. The meeting was a union service of the four churches, the Baptist, Christian, Nazarene and Methodist, held at the latter church.

The three great dispensations of religion were shown to have a different and definite way in which the Lord spoke to his people, the first being that from the time of creation up until the code of laws was given Moses on Mt. Sinai.

"During that period God spoke directly to man many times by the use of the angels as unto Abraham, Jacob and others," the Rev. Mr. Jones said. "During the next dispensation known as the Jewish dispensation, God spoke from the written law to them, until the time of the resurrection. Since that time God has spoken through His written word and through human mentality.

"Although Jesus taught His disciples and others to obey the Mosaic laws they were no longer binding after the resurrection fulfilling the prophecies and completing the gospel which He commanded His followers to go out and teach others. That is our challenge in this, the gospel age."

NEW SLOGAN URGED FOR LAGUNA BEACH

LAGUNA BEACH, Aug. 11.—The Chamber of Commerce has asked that suggestions be made for a new slogan for the community.

"The Beach That Is Different," which has served for years, might be improved in the estimation of some.

The first two submitted were, "Laguna Beach By the Sea" and "Laguna Beach—Why Adam and Eve Left the Garden of Eden." These have been referred to John Jehle, chairman of the publicity committee. L. F. Walden, who proposed the idea of a new slogan, and Ralph Frost, who thought that the general public ought to be interested in a slogan campaign, have been placed on the publicity committee temporarily.

LAGUNA BEACH MAY CONTROL SCHOOL, CLAIM

LAGUNA BEACH, Aug. 11.—That this community, defeated in its initial skirmish to establish the first year of a high school here, has the power within its limits, or will soon have, to capture the Tustin union high school district and divert it to this place, was the assertion made before the chamber of commerce Friday night by George E. Thompson, member of the chamber board of directors and clerk of the school board here.

In his report to the civic body, Mr. Thompson said that one third of the pupils attending the Tustin union high school are transported from here in busses daily, that one fourth of the assessed valuation is here, and that more than one half of the votes are here. It is on this last that the balance of power hangs, he pointed out. Within three years, he prophesied, the voting strength of this community would be two thirds of the entire vote of the union high school district.

Several weeks ago, two mass meetings were held to consider, publicly, the project of establishing a high school here. Out of these came instructions to the local school board to take steps to establish a ninth grade this year. A committee of Mayor J. E. Bishop, A. B. Marshall as head of the chamber of commerce, Roy W. Peacock as head of the Realty board, G. B. Dunham as secretary of the chamber of commerce and Raymond I. Brahams was appointed to consider methods of organizing a high school district. Mr. Thompson has been meeting with the committee as clerk of the school board.

A petition circulated by Mr. Brahams to ascertain what support would be given parents of pupils entering high school for a ninth grade here indicated a majority. A formal request was sent to the board of the Tustin union high school and was turned down by that body at a meeting at which, it was reported, no members of the committee were invited to be present. The reason given was that all plans were made for the ninth grade and the budget accepted.

Between this decision, however, and the circulating of the petition by Mr. Brahams, a petition was placed before parents of school pupils in which the advantages of Tustin were set forth, it is charged, 22 being induced to sign. Mr. Thompson said he believed that the funds from county and state which would go to Tustin, had something to do with the interest in keeping local pupils going to the Tustin high school. He estimated this sum as totaling about $42,000.

That the increased vote would permit securing complete control of the affairs of the Tustin high school if necessary was a point made by Mr. Thompson a method which might be used if there was a lack of co-operation in the efforts to separate the Laguna grammar school district from the union district in the effort to establish a high school here.

TRAIN CONTROL WORK FINISHED BY RAIL CREW

ATWOOD, Aug. 11.—The last link in the automatic signal train control of the Santa Fe railroad between Los Angeles and Chicago was completed Saturday when that portion between Fullerton and Los Angeles was put in operation.

This completes a work which has covered a period of many years. The first stretch of track between Los Angeles and San Bernardino to be placed under automatic contro lwas through the Santa Ana canyon, following a head-on collision between two freight trains in 1919.

Material is on hand and work will start immediately on completing the signal between Los Angeles and San Diego, that portion over the Torry Pines grade having been already installed.

The American Brass Company in Waterbury has been equipped with the largest private dial telephone system in the State of Connecticut.

TEACHERS FOR WESTMINSTER SCHOOL NAMED

WESTMINSTER, Aug. 11—Final arrangements for the coming school term were completed at a school board meeting.

The faculty has been announced as follows.

Main building, James M. Monroe, eighth grade and principal; Mrs. Mildred Payne Murdy, seventh; Nelson R. Johansen, sixth; Miss Nellie E. French, fifth; Mrs. Jewell Brown, fourth; Miss Geneva MacMilan, third; Mrs. Mary E. Johanson, second; Miss Maxaline Armstrong, first; Miss Bessie Ward, first and second; Miss Irene C. Roberts, kindergarten.

Hoover building, John C. Lane, principal and sixth, seventh and eighth; Mrs. Ethel G. Paulk, third, fourth and fifth; Miss Myra Evans, first and second.

The extremely heavy enrollment in the seventh and eighth grades has made it imperative to have those grades taught at the Hoover school, also teachers especially adapted to the Americanization work and the language difficulty are in charge of this school. W. A. Broyles will continue as janitor of the two schools.

School will open on September 10 at 9 a. m. Ample means of transportation will be furnished those children living too far to walk to school.

At the meeting it was announced that the new school bus valued at $3,925.00 was secured for a discount of $178.10 on account of cash being paid, making the actual cost of the bus to the district at $3746.90.

The resignation of Mrs. Ora Scheiber was received from Missouri where Mrs. Scheiber is locating, was read and accepted at the meeting. Mrs. Scheiber is a former principal of the Westminster school and last year a teacher in the Hoover school.

The receipt of the resignation closes the lawsuit which Mrs. Scheiber had brought against the district to be retained as a teacher.

When the Centenary International Exposition in Antwerp, Belgium, was opened in June, Mayor Mackey of Philadelphia made a transatlantic telephone call. He talked from Antwerp.

5 SAVED FROM RIP TIDE DEATH BY LIFE GUARD

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Aug. 11. Sam Smith jr., 32, of 6320 Stafford avenue, Huntington Park, was drowned about 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon. The body was not recovered. He was married and had five children. Smith came to the beach Sunday with his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Smith, residing at the same address in Huntington Park. His wife and family were not at the beach with him.

Smith was one of a group of six men and boys swimming far out from shore at Twenty-third street, a mile from the municipal beach at the pier where life guards are on duty. A rip tide, or heavy swell, caught the swimmers and all six were carried out to sea. Samuel Smith, aged father of the man who was drowned, rushed for help. He reported to Policeman Robideaux at Main and Ocean, 19 blocks away, and Robideaux got Gene Belche, the life guard, in his auto and rushed him to Twenty-third street.

Samuel Smith jr. had disappeared beneath the waves, when Belche arrived. Swimming back and forth from the beach to where the five drowning men were struggling, Belche saved them all, bringing the weakest swimmer to shore each trip. Carl Rix, 1270 Fifth street San Bernardino, was in a state of collapse when Belche dragged his body from the water. He was rushed to the emergency hospital and Dr. Ralph E. Hawes revived him and he was able to go to his home in San Bernardino Sunday night.

The five men saved by Belche were George Grant, 1182 Fifth street, San Bernardino; Ralph Barner, 312 East Olive street, Redlands; Melvin Ward, 722 Rialto avenue, San Bernardino; Ted Rix, 1270 Fifth street, San Bernardino; Carl Rix, 1270 Fifth street, San Bernardino.

Belche dived about the point where Smith went down for an hour, but could not find the body. His aged mother and father waited in the city until late at night in the hope of hearing news of the finding of the body.

Working Girls In China Delivered From Loan Sharks

PEIPING, Aug. 11.—(UP)—Two thousand "sing-song" girls in Peiping are happy because the police have rounded up a score of money lenders charged with extortion.

The Chinese press says that many of these money-lenders, starting with a few dollars, have amassed fortunes of $100,000 or more by lending money to the girls at unlawful rates. The practice has continued for years.

Recently, say the newspapers, the money-lenders have become constantly more unreasonable, charging in some cases $1.50 daily interest on a $30 loan. Their greed proved their undoing.

One of the girls had a high official as a friend. He ordered an investigation which has continued for some weeks. The city detectives gathered evidence against the entire group, and when they had enough, made wholesale arrests.

The police found that about 2000 girls had signed notes which made them virtually slaves to the money lenders, and had to pay out most of their earnings in interest on small loans. In many cases a lifetime's work would not suffice to pay off the loan.

When city officials finally moved they acted drastically. All of the loan contracts were destroyed, and money-lenders were either jailed or heavily fined.

The girls have been warned not to contract any further loans of the kind. They now start with a clean slate, and know that the police will protect them in future.

CHICAGO BD. OF TRADE

CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—(UP)—A strong rally during the latter part of the session gave corn a higher close on the Board of Trade today after an erratic day. The market fluctuated widely and rose around 3c from the early lows at the last when shorts attempted to cover and found offerings small. Additional bullish private crop reports and a fair decrease in the visible supply were encouraging. The late strength in corn gave wheat a good recovery after a day of weakness but the market was still sharply lower and sank again at the last, oats following.

At the close wheat was 2 to 2⅝c higher, corn was ⅝ to 1c higher and oats were ½ to ¾c lower. Provisions were very weak to lower.

L. A. STOCKS

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 11.—(UP)—A steader but slower market prevailed today on the Los Angeles stock and curb exchanges. Prices were up slightly over Saturday's low closes but trade volume slumped off considerable.

Transamerica again led the most active stocks, trading at prices ranging around 20½, fractionally over Saturday's final quotation.

Oils were light and about steady. Industrials were upon a few sales while banks were idle other than random exchanges of Security First National which was steady at 100¾.

New Yorkq Money was 2½ percent.

SHERLOCK HOLMES—Case of the "Gloria Scott"

The Fatal Letter

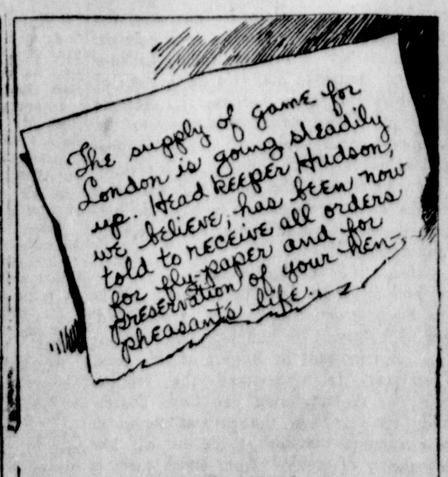

BY SIR ARTHUR CONAN DOYLE

Sherlock Holmes had handed me as we sat before the fire some yellowed papers, saying: "It would be worth your while, Watson, to glance these over. They are the documents in the extraordinary case of the Gloria Scott, and this is the message which struck Justice of the Peace Trevor dead when he read it."

"It was the first case in which I was ever engaged," he told me. I tried to picture Holmes as he must have been then in his college days, when he was developing the technique which made him the world-famous detective. Not greatly changed now, I suspected, except for the difference between youth and age.

The paper I held in my hand was a short note scrawled upon a half sheet of slate-gray paper. As I glanced up from reading this enigmatical message, Holmes was chuckling. "You look a little bewildered," said he. "I cannot see how such a message could inspire horror."

"Yet the fact remains," Holmes returned, "that the reader, who was a fine, robust old man, was knocked clean down by it as if it had been the butt end of a pistol!" © 1930 By Sir Arthur Conan Doyle A-1

THE NEW TARIFF BOARD

Here is hoping that President Hoover will pick out just the right men to serve on the new tariff board. A great many of the evils of the present tariff act can be overcome if the tariff board is composed of men who are not first of all protectionists and free traders, but rather scientifically-minded and with an outlook upon all industry rather than upon the few branches of industry which got all the "swag" when the tariff act was passed.

There is no reason why all the people should be taxed to keep alive certain industries which are sick unto death. If a man starves trying to make shoes when he could support his family in comfort by raising corn, we should hardly call him a benefactor. More likely we should call him a fool or an ignoramus. This is equally true of certain industries. There are some things that can be done better abroad than they can be here. While there are many things that can be done better and more profitably here than anywhere else in the world. If this country is to continue on the road to prosperity now that other countries are developing their resources as never before, it will be because we are doing so well things which we are fitted to do well, and giving up doing things that others can do better than we.

This will be the job of the new tariff commission. If the right men are appointed to that commission we shall be told by an authoritative body what goods need protection and what do not. The whole making of tariffs has been a log-rolling proposition. "You help me get a tariff on my goods and I will help you get a tariff on your goods." By such a system, the few get the benefits and the many are horn-swoggled into thinking that they are getting gold when they are only getting a worthless red brick. We were promised a real tariff commission when the present law was in process of making. Let us see just what we shall get. We are hopeful. We would be much disappointed if the old-time tariff commissioners got the job.

"There's my biggest scoop of the year," said the cub reporter warmly as the soda fountain clerk dropped a generous ball of ice cream in his plate.

A FIESTA EDITION

The fiesta edition of the Morning Press of Santa Barbara has just been received. Santa Barbara, with adjacent Montecito is a beautiful and wealthy city. The Morning Press has done justice to the city and occasion. Saying that is saying that it is a beautiful edition of a newspaper and a most impressive publication. One idea stands out preeminent in the Morning Press' presentation of Santa Barbara. It is the glorification of the homes. Some cities have impressive and comfortable apartment houses where the majority of the people live. In other places emphasis is placed upon the home. Santa Barbara and Montecito are among these.

Santa Barbara is unique in the number of beautiful homes and gardens. We can sit back and be envious of the wealth that makes it possible to have such extensive and elaborate and beautiful estates, or we can come to a new appreciation of home by seeing how it had been glorified in Santa Barbara and do a little glorification of our own. There are few homes which wouldn't be better for some modest improvements which love and devotion and care could bring about. And devotion and sacrifice for the home makes it more precious. Santa Ana is a city with beauty, too, and the best part of it is that much of the beauty is not shut away as it is so frequently, hid behind hedges and walls in Santa Barbara. As time passes, however, there are more activities which attract one away from the garden and home. We must continue to care for what we have here and make it even prettier.

The recent installation of a $7000 soda fountain on the U. S. cruiser Memphis is what you might call a new naval treat.

TRANSPORTATION SERVICE

Action on the part of the city council to regulate the taxi and bus industry in Santa Ana is to be commended, providing the ordinance drawn up by the city attorney is not so drastic in its requirements that it will force the taxis to suspend operations.

Santa Ana is of such proportions that both services are needed. Neither the bus nor the taxi lines serve in such a manner that the city could get along with but one service.

The suggestion of the council that the taxis be painted a uniform color seems to be a fair one and one we believe the taxi companies will adopt without question.

However, we believe that the taxi owners should be given the privilege of naming their own rates. Undoubtedly they are better qualified to know what their charges must be to return an earning on their investments. The matter of zones could easily be agreed upon in a conference of the taxi men and the council members.

The city attorney at present is communicating with the various cities in California in an effort to ascertain how the transportation is handled and the information undoubtedly will be used advantageously for both the city and the taxi companies.

FINDING OIL

A farmer in New Jersey has been in the habit of pumping his water out of a well into a tank in the house by an electric motor. It was good water until one morning he got up to wash himself and draw water for his breakfast only to find that oil was running out of every faucet in the house. An examination of the tank showed that it was full of oil. And now he is dreaming of wealth.

Lucky for him, however, that the neighbors have not struck oil, and that good water is still obtainable within a reasonable distance. It would be a calamity if his good fortune should become the good fortune of everybody. We recall the story of Midas who coveted gold, and when his desires were realized everything turned to gold. The water he would drink, the food he would eat, the clothes he would wear, everything he touched, became gold; and the poor fellow became miserable beyond all description. We recall the Biblical story of Dives in the story of Lazarus and the rich man. Dives, in the other world, just asked for a drink of water. He wanted and needed nothing else. It was John Lathrop Motley who once said that heaven was largely a matter of good companionship and good water.

And so for us, we do not envy overmuch the farmer who found oil running out of every faucet. Doubtless, the money that comes from oil can buy many desirable things. But a drink of good, pure, cool water from the spring is not to be despised. A whole barrel of oil is not so satisfying as a drink from the spring by the roadside. The moral of all of which is: don't envy too much the New Jersey farmer. His troubles may be just beginning. He has had good water and good friends hitherto. If the oil keeps on flowing out of his faucets, he may have money. But what is money when compared with good water and good friends? Not that they are mutually exclusive. But if a choice is to be made, give us the last rather than the first.

Perhaps the only significance attached to the visit to England recently of King Feisel of Irak is that it has made crossword puzzle makers conscious of a couple of swell words.

A RADIO CURFEW

The city council of Boston has passed an ordinance prohibiting the use of the radio between 11 p. m. and 7 a. m., excepting when capable of being heard only by a limited number of people within the confines of a dwelling house or by people outside within a radius of fifty feet.

Such an ordinance is thoroughly in keeping with the traditions of the old Puritan city. The curfew was brought over by the early settlers, and rigidly enforced against youth and children. If we scoff at the old uses of the curfew we certainly cannot scoff at this new use of the curfew so far as it relates to limiting the use of the radio. Sooner or later something will have to be done everywhere to regulate the use of the radio. In large cities where houses are close together the indiscriminate use of the radio has become an intolerable nuisance. Recently a complaint was lodged against a woman who started her radio the moment she got up, and kept it going all day at its loudest. Whether she was out marketing in the morning, or at the whist party in the afternoon, or at the movies in the evening, the radio continued at full blast. There was no rest for the neighbors on adjoining piazzas or sleeping rooms.

This thoughtlessness of the few has been everywhere manifest; and Boston has started a very necessary movement to abate such nuisances. We might be able to stand it if the selections were of the kind we enjoy, but when there is a continuous crashing of the ears with strident and blaring jazz of one kind or another, its effect upon the spirit is quite as ravishing as it is upon the ears. We shall be interested to see if the example of Boston is to be followed in other parts of the country.

Long and Short of It For Service Candidate

San Francisco Chronicle

It seems tough luck for a boy otherwise qualified to be rejected by the Naval Academy because he is too large. Six feet four, he might have looked very well in Dick Glendon's boat at Poughkeepsie even if the international movement to cut down the size of war craft made it unlikely that he would fit into any berth on a fighting ship.

Pleasantries apart, one may wonder whether the boy's 225 pounds might not hide another Farragut, just as the four feet eleven of a rejected West Point candidate might conceal the raw material of a Napoleon.

It may be assumed, however, that the specifications on the length of candidates have a sound reason. Yet we think even Navy men will not kick if the board waives the disability of the long candidate. He is said to have had some football experience and any time now West Point and Annapolis may sign a treaty of peace and resume hostilities.

Criminal Round-up By a Private Citizen

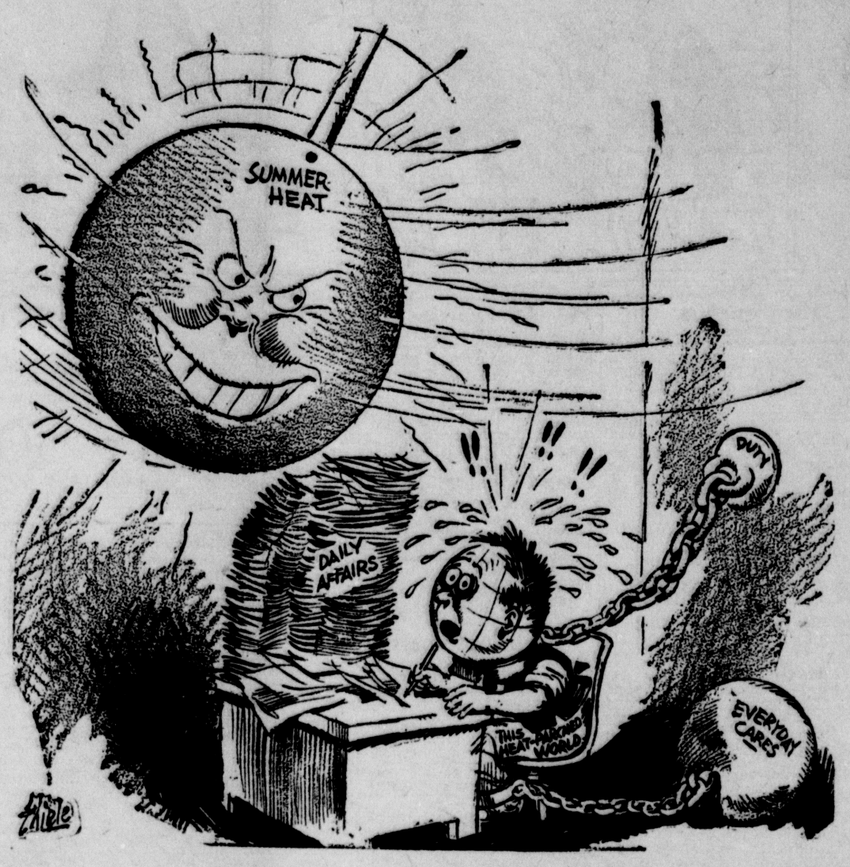

San Bernardino Sun

It is possible, after all, to catch criminals and punish crime. Anyone who questions this statement may meditate on the case of Arthur W. Cutten of Chicago.

Mr. Cutten, a respected and prosperous business man, was robbed in his home eight years ago by nine burglars. They not only got a lot of valuable jewelry but subjected the owner to the indignity of locking him in a vault. It was a sensational case. The police tackled it, but got nowhere and soon lost interest. Mr. Cutten tackled it himself, then, and kept right on. He hired good detectives and paid them out of his own pocket. He gathered evidence, obtained arrests and indictments, pressed the cases and got results.

Did we say results? Eight of those rash burglars are in prison, and the ninth, giving up all hope of going "unwhipped of justice," has now surrendered.

The Pit and the Pendulum!

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

THE AVERAGE MAN

Of a placid and mild disposition,
It would scare me extremely to meet
A gunman employed on his mission
Of sandbagging folks on the street.
I would quail in the presence of danger,
And I'd probably faint with affright,
If I noticed an evil faced stranger
Padding 'round in my bed room at night.
But whenever such birds in the "speakies" I see
They supply entertainment to me.

To the haunts where the gangsters forgather
I am never disposed to repair,
To state the cold truth, I should rather
Encounter a wolf in its lair.
No smug visaged butter and egg man
To the nearest policeman would fly
At sight of a gun-toting yegg-man
In any more hurry than I.
Yet three or four times every month I will go
To witness their crimes in a show.

I was never addicted to combat,
Contention or struggle or strife,
To be calm and serene as a wombat
Has been ever my habit of life.
I avoid any sinister glances
From men who would fain be my foes
For I'd rather not take any chances
Of getting a punch on the nose.
But when prize fighters wallop and counter and swing,
I am always right up near the ring.

August and October

By WILLIAM TRUFANT FOSTER and WADDILL CATCHINGS

In our daily article the fifteenth of last October, we observed that commodity prices had been falling for four months "at an alarming rate." We foresaw the usual result. We said that "if nothing is done toward stopping this fall in prices, there will be every reason to expect a serious business depression before next spring."

"The Federal Reserve Board," we explained, "can stop the fall whenever it decides to do so, provided it decides soon enough. There is no mystery about the matter. Prices are falling because the supply of bank credit is not enough to maintain the growth of business. The supply is insufficient solely because the Reserve Board has made it insufficient. The present gold reserves are ample, under the law, to support about double the present volume of bank credit. If the fall in prices DOES continue, if the result is another hard winter of unemployment, the cause will not be a real dearth of credit, for the credit stringency has been deliberately created. The business depression, if it comes, will be wholly monetary, artificial and unnecessary."

That was our opinion then. It is still our opinion.

As a matter of fact, nothing WAS done to stop the fall in commodity prices, and the business depression came as predicted.

That is now a matter of history. We call attention to what happened because it is just as important in August of this year, as it was in October of last year, to understand the relation between the quantity of money in circulation and trade depressions. We cannot possibly recover from the present slump in business while money in circulation remains at the present low level. That is a "quantity theory of money" from which there is no escape. Any one who accepts the multiplication table HAS to accept that theory. Tomorrow we shall explain why.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

IF CAESAR COULD SPEAK

If communication between the mortal and post-mortal worlds were practicable, I think Julius Caesar would want just now to write a letter to the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations.

And here are some of the things I think he would have in mind as he wrote:

Like the Senators who deal with the foreign policy of the United States, he once faced the responsibility of framing policies of contact with other regions that would bring peace, prestige, profit, and protection to his people.

As he undertook to write to the American Senators out of that experience, I think his letter would reveal a chastened Caesar, quite cured of his former confidence in armed might and ambitious imperialism as guaranties of peace, prestige, profit, and protection.

I think he would have difficulty in understading how any intelligent American, at all conversant with the world history of the last two thousand years, could play swashbuckling jingo or believe in the beneficience of the big stick.

Out of his hindsight, which he would be the first to admit to be better than his foresight, the great Caesar would, I think, call attention to the fact that virtually everything he achieved through a display of Russian power has passed away or fallen into other hands, while the things that came into life through a development of Roman culture have survived and today bear all the earmarks of an assured immortality.

I think Caesar would therefore urge the Senators of the Committee on Foreign Relations to keep America clean of the poison of imperialism, economic as well as political, and to make every discussion and decision respecting foreign policy contribute to a world politics that shall be a cooperation of national cultures rather than a competition of national armies and navies.

Certainly the Caesar of the Gallic Wars and the wide-sweeping dominion of Rome with its lusty legions would be the last to counsel a puling pacifism. He would assuredly advise an intelligent preparedness against possible emergencies. But I suspect that his centuries of quiet looking on at the human show would have convinced him that the ultimate strength of a people is its intelligence and its culture, not its military power.

And so I think he would say to the American Senators concerned with foreign policy, "Take the advice of an old warrior, and beware of the jingo. Be sure you are decently protected against wanton assault, but don't go about with a chip on your shoulder, for if you do, sooner or later, someone will strike at the chip and hit your head. My own career tells me that it is only now and then that the politics of naked power pays."

OUR CHILDREN

CANTANKEROUS YOUTH

"What is to be done with a 16-year-old boy who is earning his own living, staying at home with his grandmother and his aunt, and doing exactly what he pleases? The worst of it is that he goes out about twice a week and stays out until after midnight and refuses to tell where he has been. Should not a boy of this age tell his people where he is going and what he intends to do?"

Suppose he did tell. What good would it do? If he told the truth and shocked his family, what good would that do? If they told him to stay home, he would walk out as usual. If he told a lie, and he would be very likely to do so, what possible good would that do?

You see, when a boy reaches the age of adolescence and self-support it is a bit late to begin throwing the safeguards of home about him. All that has to be done when the boy is a dependent, helpless, searching child. He will take instruction and guidance then, if ever. If he is trained then to confide in his family, if experience with them teaches him the wisdom of that way, he will not turn from it. But if all home influence is in abeyance until adolescence all one can do is pray.

Force is out of the question. You cannot force a boy or a girl to give you their confidence and to rest upon your judgment. And you expect an adolescent to be able to sustain himself, do you not? If a boy or girl of that age has not been trained to self-protection and self-guidance, what is to be done but to let them go and hope for the best?

The background of the mind is the all-powerful force. Whatever experiences have registered most firmly in the mind of the child will be the force that guides him. If "to take," is stronger than "to give," "to take," wins out.

But that is not very helpful when one is facing such a situation. What is to be done with the adolescent who is heading into trouble? Try to interest someone outside the family, someone the child likes, in his welfare. Very often such a one has more influence for good than any member of the family can hope to have.

It is the nature of children to grown up, to become self-sustaining and independent persons, away from home. A child is going away from home from the day he is born. That is as it should be and our training should take that into consideration. But when he definitely cuts loose from home, and he is not self-sufficient, try to tie him to some good man or women who understands and who can help.

Don't make the mistake of trying to force things. Don't intercept mail, read notes not intended for you, pry into the young person's affairs. Treat him as a grown-up person. Drop all disciplinary notions. The time for them has long passed. Treat this child as what he is, a person. If he wants help he will ask for it and all you can do is to content your soul in patience, and hope and pray.

STEAM NAVIGATION

On August 11, 1807, Robert Fulton won recognition as the first man to make steam navigation commercially successful when he sailed his steamboat. The Claremont, up the Hudson river from New York to Albany, a journey of 150 miles.

In the presence of thousands of astonished spectators, The Clermont started on its epochal trip, making an average speed of five miles an hour, which was considered a great achievement. It took 32 hours to reach Albany.

When Fulton first proposed the idea of steam navigation he met with rebuke on all sides. As he himself said: "When I was building my first steamer in New York the work was viewed by the public either with carelessness or contempt, as a useless scheme. My friends, indeed, were civil, but they were shy. As I had occasion to pass daily to and from the building yard while my boat was in progress, I often loitered unknown near idle groups of strangers, and heard the jest and scoff and sneer and ridicule. My work was always spoken of as Fulton's Folly."

Though he had great success in the construction of steamboats, various lawsuits in which he was engaged to the use of some of his patents, prevented him from ever becoming wealthy.
